Sevareid to Speak At Greek Banquet

By Irene Johnson

The college student's relation to national and international affairs will be the subject of a talk by Eric Sevareid at 5:30 p.m. Monday in the Union main ballroom.

Sevareid, chief of the Washington bureau of CBS, will address fraternity and sorority members at their annual Greek week banquet. A faculty member and a fraternity alumnus will receive awards at the dinner.

Eric Sevareid

One award will be given to the faculty member who has done the most to promote good student-faculty relations during the year. The other award will go to the alumnus who has contributed most to the community during the year. The two winners will be announced in Tuesday's Daily.

Scholarship and sports events trophies also will be awarded at the banquet.

Greeks will don overalls and arm themselves with rakes and shovels for a community clean-up beginning at 9 a.m. today.

All those who want to take part in the activity should meet in the lot at Fourth street and Sixteenth avenue S.E., Bill Maple, Greek week chairman, said yesterday.

The clean-up project is a result of a challenge George Grim, Minneapolis Tribune columnist, sent to the Greeks. He asked if a community service was on the Greek week schedule.

Grim has offered his services for the morning and will be on hand in old clothes to help clean up.

A sorority-fraternity softball game at 2 p.m. on the river flats will give workers a chance to relax and stretch their muscles.

Songfest winners will be chosen at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in Northrop auditorium.

The winning sorority and fraternity each will receive a trophy. Winners must hold the trophy three years in order to keep it permanently. Trophy winners will be announced at Monday's banquet.

A variety show will follow the songfest.

First DP at U To Arrive Soon

The first displaced student to attend the University probably will arrive on campus before the end of the quarter.

Definite indication that Ervins Buduls, a student from Wurzburg university in Germany, is on his way to this country was received yesterday by his sponsor, the Lutheran Student association.

Other campus groups, including Pilgrim foundation, Westminster foundation, Ag LSA and Clovia sorority on Ag campus, also are pushing arrangements to sponsor a displaced student.

Buduls studied philosophy and philology at Wurzburg university, Mrs. Trudy Jensen, LSA student counselor, said yesterday. His expenses will be paid by three of the groups within LSA. He will live at the LSA house.

Theron Johnson, head of the student activities bureau, explained yesterday that there are displaced persons now attending the University. But Buduls will be the first displaced person to come directly from Germany as a student.

Mrs. Jensen said Buduls does not yet have his admission certificate. "But we are confident," she added, "that he will have no trouble getting into the University."

Ag Engineering Staff Members Will Retire

Two agricultural engineering staff members will retire soon, Clyde H. Bailey, dean of the department of agriculture, said yesterday.

They are Arthur G. Tyler, who will retire June 15 after 31 years as professor of agricultural physics and rural electrification, and Dalton G. Miller, federal cooperator on Ag campus since 1921, who will retire May 30.

Russ Don't Want Hot War Now, Says Korbell

By Phil Hoyer

A former Czechoslovakian diplomat said he doesn't believe that Russia wants a hot war at the present time.

Josef Korbell, Czech ambassador to Yugoslavia from 1945 to 1948, said Moscow prefers other methods of gaining power, such as infiltration, as long as they are practical.

Speaking on "Tito and the Cominform" in the Museum of Natural History auditorium yesterday, Korbell said that Russian charges that Tito is a "traitor to socialism" are merely excuses to hide the real cause of conflict between Yugoslavia and Moscow.

"All the Yugoslav communists who came to power through partisan fighting during the war had tremendous personal pride and believed they needed no outside help," he continued.

Korbell explained that Moscow failed to realize this pride. Quarrels developed between Red army advisers and the Yugoslav communists.

"Stalin was amazed at how anyone dared to oppose his orders," Korbell said. "I don't believe that any reconciliation between Tito and Stalin is possible," he added.

He said that Russian efforts to destroy Tito have not been successful because the Yugoslav leader is familiar with communist "liquidation" tactics and Yugoslavia has made some good trade agreements with the West.

Gov. Welcomes Austrian Group

Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl extended a statement of welcome yesterday to the 31 Austrians who will visit the University Monday on a goodwill tour.

The Austrians will present a musical program, "Night in Vienna," at 8 p.m. Monday in Northrop auditorium. The show will consist of scenes from an Austrian village festival.

Eight fraternities and seven sororities will entertain the singers at luncheons Monday noon.

Tickets for "Night in Vienna" will be on sale at the Northrop ticket office until 5 p.m. Monday. After that time tickets may be secured in 105 Northrop.

Admission is 70 cents for University students and 45 cents for high school students.

U Singer Solos Way To Stardom Jackpot

Charles Williams, general college sophomore, hit the jackpot by being declared a double winner on Cedric Adams' "Stairway to Stardom" show on WCCO last night.

His song, "Solitude," was good enough to earn Williams the prize of a $25 check and also a week's appearance on Slim Jim's daily broadcast at 3:30 p.m.

Last night's success also puts Williams in line for a chance in the "Stairway" finals to be held during the Aquatennial next summer.

Johnny Desmond

Dance to Have Singer, Bands, Miss Stardust

Vocalist Johnny Desmond, two bands and Miss Stardust will be at the plum-blossomed Stardust dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. today in the Union.

The blossoms, lanterns, dragons, a Chinese pagoda and chimes will provide the setting for dancers in the main ballroom where Bruce Dybvig will play. Percy Hughes and his band will be in the cafeteria.

Desmond will alternate between the two bands.

During intermission at 10:30 p.m. the five Stardust queen finalists will mount a platform in the center of the ballroom.

Desmond will announce the name of Miss Stardust after students' votes have been counted. Joyce Kaufmann, chairman, said yesterday.

The finalists and their sponsors are Pat Waters, Kappa Sigma; Dixie Edkins, Chi Psi; Dee Alice Sundberg, Theta Tau; Sis Olson, Alpha Delta Phi; Gwen Manning, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Stardust will honor the Daily for its fiftieth anniversary during the intermission. The nature of the honor won't be disclosed until then, Miss Kaufmann said.

Tickets, $1.25 a person, will be on sale today in the Union ticket office and at the door.

Entry Deadline For U Carnival Parade Extended

The deadline for entries in the Campus Carnival parade has been extended until 5 p.m. Monday, Don Myer, parade chairman, said yesterday. Entries will be accepted in 255 Union.

Myer emphasized the need for more entries in the form of floats and convertibles. The parade committee prefers all entries to be decorated with streamers, signs and women.

The parade will start from Main campus at 11 a.m. May 5 and wind its way through the St. Thomas, Macalester, Hamline and University Ag campuses, Myer said.

St. Paul police will escort the parade.

A trophy now on display in 203 Union will be awarded to the best parade entry.

Student's House Burns

Fire did $1,000 damage Thursday to the house of Roger Lund, graduate student, 5136 Forty-third avenue S. Lund and his wife bought the house only two weeks ago, and had not completed furnishing the place. The fire is believed to have started in the basement.

W. Blegen, Schmitz, Peik In Daily Show

Latest development in the fracas "Rife, Axe and Quill," the parody of the history of the paper with the world's largest college circulation, is the signing of three deans and a vice president to do a barber shop quartet number.

Deans Henry Schmitz, Wesley E. Peik and Theodore C. Blegen are teaming up with academic Vice President Malcolm M. Willey to sing "The Daily's More To Be Censored Than Pitied."

Dean Peik, head of the college of education, modestly offered the information that he had sung in a choir. However, the vocal talents of Dean Henry Schmitz of the college of agriculture, forestry, home economics and veterinary medicine, Vice President Willey and Dean Blegen of the graduate school still are an unknown factor, according to Bob Shaw, author of the show.

This quartet joins another group of celebrities—Bob DeHaven, Cleveland Card and Ed Viehman of WCCO and George Grim and Will Jones of the Minneapolis Tribune—who will put on a skit entitled "The Three Bares."

Alpha Phi Omega will provide ushers for the show, according to Shaw.

"Water Bottle, Plow and Syringe" will hit Northrop auditorium at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Admission is free and a Ford convertible is being awarded free to the person who finds a typographical error in the program. One of the 4,000 programs printed for the show has the error.

Heap big smoke, but no fire. Patrolman Walter Johnson of the division of protection and investigation examines a pile of rags that began to burn yesterday in a janitor's closet in Northrop auditorium. Two hook-and-ladders, two engine companies and the fire department rescue squad answered the alarm turned in about 3:30 p.m. Authorities were not sure what started the rags smoldering. The "fire" interrupted a high school music contest taking place in the auditorium.

Editorially Speaking . . .

A Suggestion
TOO MANY University students are "politically unaware."

Now, this is not a new discovery—we've known it for a long time.

But the "political emphasis week" taking place over at Macalester college has produced us into saying something—again.

Over 1,700 Mac students attended a debate on the Brannan plan Wednesday. Pres. Turck said that 600 students are taking part in a model house of representatives.

Why can't it happen here? The University has the political clubs; and those clubs have offered varied programs.

Now, maybe something similar to the Mac idea would stir the campus out of its apparent apathy.

How about it? Macalester is willing to help with the plan.

Personality

Prof Tells Story Of Russ Captivity

Dr. Marion Heitzman, professor of philosophy at St. Thomas college, will address the International Relations club today in the Union. His topic: "Poland as a Factor in World Politics."

By Dick Margolis
★ "IT'S A FUNNY thing about Russian prisons," Dr. Heitzman told us, "they're perfect; you can't escape."

How do you know?
"I spent six weeks in one of them, when I was in Moscow as a member of the Polish embassy."

Dr. Heitzman has been in various degrees of exile from his native Poland since 1939, when Russia and Germany added another partition to Polish history.

But he served as diplomat for the exiled Polish government in France, and later in England.

His arrest in Russia, he says, occurred after he had taken an inspection tour of Siberian deportation camps, to see how Polish deportees were being treated.

His conclusions were not at all favorable to the Soviet government, so he was arrested and recalled to England.

Dr. Heitzman considers Russia "politically immature." That is the reason, he says, that Russians put such great stock in theory, rather than practice.

"Only mature persons realize the limitations of political theory," he says. "The beginner is always more enthusiastic about theory than the old man—who knows more."

But he points out that we can't very well sit around and wait for a nation to become politically mature. It is a process covering centuries.

What then? It becomes a question of power politics. Dr. Heitzman considers Soviet motives to be a strange mixture of revolutionary fervor and oldtime imperialism.

"Traditional Russian imperialism," he says, "has gained vigor by assuming it has a world mission to perform."

"They are convinced that only by defeating the whole world can they be sure of their own power."

World War II, he says, put Russia at least 10 years ahead of its schedule for world conquest. Poland is a case in point. As late as 1939 there was no sign of a "revolution" from Moscow.

But the war mobilized the Soviet Union in a hurry, and it had no trouble at all imposing its will on Poland.

Communists, Heitzman says, are still a distinct minority in Poland, and Moscow is ever on the alert for signs of a "Tito-like" Polish uprising.

"We are still too Polish to satisfy the Russians," he says.

Why Worry?

What's This Guff About No Golf?

By Howie Kaplan

★ OH, ME, I SEE where the All-University congress is in for a little grief from Sam Cadillac on their golf proposals.

Sam whipped into the office yesterday like a Florida hurricane, rake in hand, and yells "What's this guff about no golf for duffers?"

Well, imagine my position. You'd think the proposal was mine!

"Sam," I said, "you've got to calm down. It's just an idea. After all . . ."

"Idea my eye!" he yells. "How much are ping pong balls a gross?"

"Gee," I said, "I dunno. Why?"

"WHY?" bellows Sam. "WHY? Because I got to pay a buck for this O'Connell plan and I'm gonna play golf if I have to go around with this rake and a ping pong ball."

"Well, look Sam," I said. "Let's try to be reasonable about all this. First of all it's not the O'Connell plan . . ."

"Okay," he says, "McDonald plan. Plan, Shman. I wanna be a golfer. Like Babe Didrikson or her husband."

"Her husband's a wrestler, Sam," I said.

Sam showed me a hammerlock on his rake. "All right," he says, "I'll be a combination man. A phenomenon of the links."

He chuckled with expectation.

"What do you know about golf etiquette, Sam?" I asked.

He gave me a blank stare. "Etiquette? Whadda ya mean?"

"Well," I said, "what do you do when you dig up a divot?"

"Holy cow!" he said. "They got them buried on a golf course?"

I let it go and tried a new angle. "Sam," I said, "what would you do if you had just blasted out of a trap and left big, deep footprints in the sand?"

"Geez," he said. "I thought the joints were all grass. What's with this sand?"

Well, there are certain things that have to be overlooked when you talk golf with a beginner. You know how it is. So I decided to change the subject.

"Sam," I said quietly, "what do you usually go around in?"

"Oh," he says, "my corduroy sport coat and slacks. But once in a while I try to dress up—like for parties."

"No," I said. "I mean, what do you shoot?"

"Oh," he says. "I didn't get you the first time. Well, I usually shoot pretty good. Around 126 is my average, I guess."

"That's a little steep," I said. "Some people won't get to tee off with you playing ahead of them. Don't you see that?"

"All I know is that I'm plenty teed off now. And they said if you shoot a 120 score you can play. So what's a couple extra hits for six holes? I'm ready, I tell ya, I'm ready, ain't I ready?"

"Wait a minute," I said. "Did you say 126 for SIX holes?"

"Yeah," he said very nonchalantly. "That's what they wanted according to the paper. A six hole course for beginners. Isn't that what they wanted?"

"You're ready, Sam," I said. "You're ready."

Daily Poll

U Males Outline Ideal Marriage

(Here is the second in a series of two Daily Polls on the sex and marriage attitudes of male undergraduates here. Both articles in the series deal with what people say they believe and not with what they have done.)

By Don Hackett
Daily Research Editor

★ ACCORDING to the opinions expressed by the men polled, the ideal marriage situation sounds something like this—an income of at least $236 a month; a bride of about the same age as or slightly younger than the husband, with the same amount of formal education.

These are some of the findings of the second portion of the Daily survey on ideas about sex and marriage.

These results were obtained through interviews with 165 male undergraduates here. In order to get a valid sample of the University population, quotas were assigned on the basis of school, class and veteran and non-veteran status. The quotas used represent the proper proportion of each of these classifications in the University as a whole.

Of the 165 men interviewed, only two want prospective brides who are older than they. One-half desire brides their own age—a much higher figure than was found in a similar study conducted at Cornell university.

The Cornell study—made in 1939-40—showed that only 31 per cent of those polled were willing to marry at the same age level.

Perhaps this change can be traced to the presence of an older age group among male students now.

Seventy-five per cent of those covered by the Daily poll said they prefer a marriage partner with the same amount of formal education as they have.

The monthly income considered necessary before marriage by 48 per cent of those polled was $250 a month. Only 14 per cent thought they needed an income of $300 or more.

On the question of attitudes concerning the importance of sex in marriage, only six per cent replied "yes" to the question, "Do you think sex is the most important single factor in marriage?"

This percentage is low, in the light of other college surveys. In the Cornell study 25 per cent of those polled gave an affirmative answer to the same question. The results of a study conducted at the University of Colorado in 1941 showed that many of them listed sex as the most important factor in marriage.

Another significant difference between results of the Daily Poll and another study was found in the data relating to opinions on interfaith marriages.

One-half of the men polled at Minnesota said they thought there could not usually be a satisfactory marriage between Catholic and non-Catholic. Eighty per cent of the people in the Cornell survey believed that such an arrangement was impossible.

At Minnesota a slightly larger number of men said they thought that Jew and Gentile can marry more successfully than the Catholic and non-Catholic.

Sociologist Roy Baber's study of mixed marriages brought out the fact that of all interfaith marriages, the Jewish-Protestant ones were the most successful.

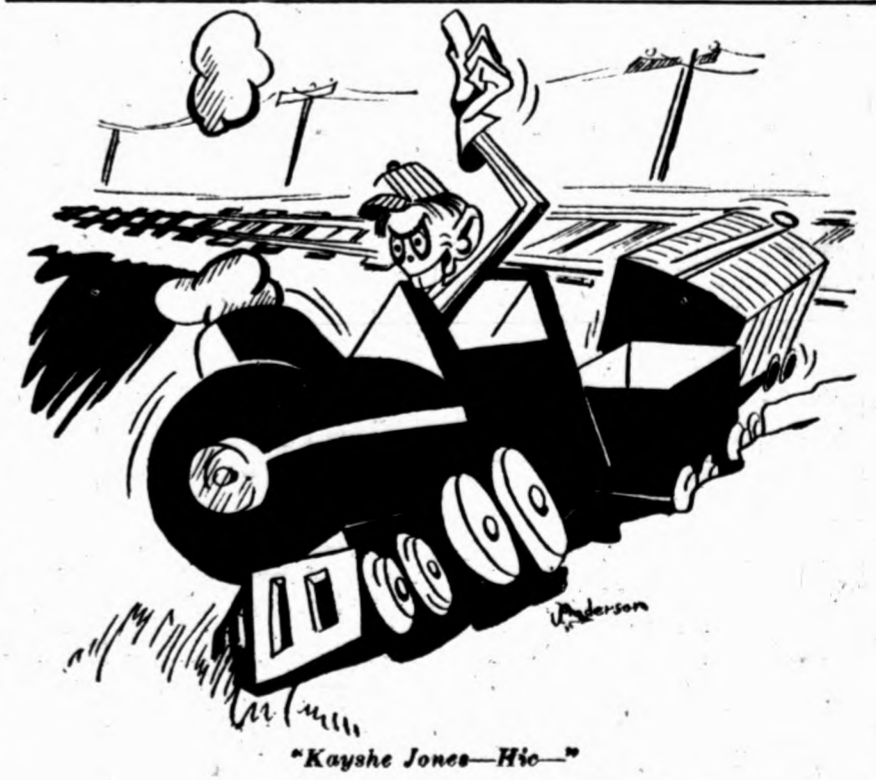

In an effort to get a line on the prejudices of the University male regarding marriage to a divorced woman, a question covering this subject was asked.

Slightly more than one-fourth of the men polled said they would not marry a divorcee.

In connection with the response to this question, it would have been of value to secure religious affiliation data. This was not done, however, because of the danger of bias resulting from the unwillingness of the person polled to state his religious beliefs.

Greater U Fund Starts Money-Raising Drive

The Greater University Fund's money-raising campaign will begin Monday to raise at least $25,000 for scholarships and research projects. No total goal has been set but at least $25,000 is needed, Carl W. Painter, national campaign chairman, said yesterday. The fund will be used for scholarships, fellowships, research and related projects, and is sponsored by the Minnesota Alumni association.

The fund hopes to increase the sum available for 1951-52 undergraduate scholarships, Painter said. The 1949 campaign provided 40 such scholarships, ranging in amount from $150 to $500, depending on the student's need.

The fund also hopes to provide funds for five instead of three fellowships to students working for advanced degrees in graduate school, Painter added.

Research work and equipment making experiments possible in many fields are promoted by the fund.

Yalta, Teheran Determined Postwar Events—Heitzman

Postwar events in eastern and central Europe are the logical and inevitable consequences of the Teheran and Yalta agreements, a former Polish diplomatic official said on campus yesterday.

The diplomat is Dr. Marion Heitzman, new lecturer in philosophy at St. Thomas college.

Heitzman spoke at a meeting of the International Relations club in the Union men's lounge on "Contemporary Poland as a Factor in World Politics."

Russia's expansion policy closely follows the theory of geopolitics, he said. This theory holds that whoever controls the heartland of Europe is in command of the world island, Europe, Asia and Africa, and thereby the world.

In granting Russia eastern and central Europe as its sphere of influence, he said, we have given Russia the European heartland. Now Russia is in the process of attempting to absorb the world island.

Russ...

Korbell said he doesn't think the Russians would risk aiding Yugoslavia's weak neighbors in an open attack on Yugoslavia. The chances of war with the West are too great, he added.
"Stalin is more reasonable in international affairs than other members of the politbureau," he continued.
He said there is no reason to expect a softer Soviet foreign policy if Stalin dies.
"My guess is that Stalin has done everything in his power to prevent any weakening of the party after his death," Korbell explained.

Singers Prove to Be 'Notable Contribution'

By Arnold Rosenberg
Daily Music Critic

The University Chamber Singers, under the direction of James Aliferis, presented their concert last night in the Museum of Natural History auditorium, and it proved to be one of the most notable contributions of the season.

This small group of well-trained singers seems to be able to do anything required of it with astounding ease and great flexibility. The program was a difficult one, yet each number was a musical gem in itself, both in execution and in interpretation.

Perhaps the most outstanding part of the program was that middle section devoted to solos and duets by Dufay, Machaut and Purcell. These were given thoroughly musical treatment by Betty Jane Gammel, June Morin, Elizabeth Struble, Diane Davis, Bruce Lunkley and John Berglund.

Through a set of unfortunate circumstances, one of the program's highlights failed to come off. This was to have marked the world premiere of Morton Feldman's "Journey to the End of the Night."

Robert Erickson, of St. Paul, was represented by three of his choruses from the Book of Job. These were always provocative and engrossing.

The audience participated in the singing of Dufay's "Gloria" and Hindemith's "In Praise of Music."

3 Elected to National Academy of Science

Three University staff members were elected to the National Academy of Science yesterday.

The new members are A. O. C. Nier, professor of physics; Dr. Frank C. Mann, professor of experimental surgery at the University's Mayo foundation; Dr. Edward C. Kendall, professor of physiological chemistry, at the Mayo foundation.

Wesleyans Travel, Plan Year's Program

Members of the Ag Wesley foundation will leave this afternoon for Old Frontenac Point Methodist campus, Frontenac, Minn. to plan next year's program.

About 33 students will drive to the conference and will return tomorrow night in time for the foundation's regular meeting at the St. Anthony Park Methodist church, Como and Hillside avenues, St. Paul.

Following the meeting, a fireside meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harvey Turner, 2217 Como avenue. Indian students will lead a discussion on Mohammedanism.

U Physicists Attend 3-Day National Meet

Eight staff physicists are in Washington, D. C., attending the spring meeting of the American Physical society.

The three-day convention, ending today, is the largest in the organization's history, with over 300 scientists presenting papers to society members.

J. W. Buchta, physics chairman, heads the University delegation which includes Prof. Edward P. Ney, who presided over a session on cosmic ray research, and Asst. Prof. George D. Freier, who spoke on his work with the University electrostatic generator.

Others in the group are Prof. John H. Williams, Prof. A. O. C. Nier, Prof. Charles L. Critchfield, research associate Phyllis S. Freier, and Prof. John T. Tate.

Pastor to Speak to LSA

Kent Knutson, pastor intern, will speak on "From Faith to Faith" at the LSA Sunday Evening club at 4:45 p.m. tomorrow in the Union main ballroom.

3 U Staff Members to Attend Meeting of Business Officers

Three University staff members will leave today to attend a three-day meeting of the Central Association of College and University Business Officers, which will start tomorrow in Urbana, Ill.

Those who will make the trip are Laurence R. Lunden, comptroller, who is secretary-treasurer of the association; William T. Middlebrook, business vice president; C. B. Hanscom, director of protection and investigations.

The purpose of the meeting is to get the 217 association members together to inform each other of business activities, Lunden said.

At this, the thirty-ninth meeting, Middlebrook, who is chairman of the Inter-Association of Business Officers, will report on research and development contract negotiations now being carried on with the atomic energy commission.

Hanscom will address the group in a talk on "Protection and Investigation."

The meeting has been called to discuss the tax-exempt status of colleges, universities and institutions of higher education, Lunden said.

He went on to explain that there now is a bill before congress which would tax businesses owned by such institutions. The committee will review legislation and prepare additional testimony to be presented in an attempt to defeat the bill, Lunden said.

Newman Choir To Sing Monday

The Newman club 60-voice choir will sing in the May day celebration at 8:30 p.m. Monday at St. Olaf church, 805 Second street S.

The choir, directed by Bruce Larsen, will sing "Salve Regina" and selections from "The Creation" by Haydn.

The celebration is open to the public.

Episcopalians to Meet

Holy Trinity church, 317 Seventeenth avenue S.E., will hold a corporate Communion for all Episcopal students at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow as part of Nationwide Youth Sunday.
