July, 1971

No. 21

This illustration of an 18th century ship appears in an exhibit on naval medicine now on display in the Historical Collection of the Bio-Medical Library. The ship is typical of those on which scurvy was rampant during long sea voyages.

MICROFILM COPY OF UNIVERSITY CATALOG NOW AVAILABLE

The Bio-Medical Library has received a microfilm copy of the University Library catalog representing the holdings of the University of Minnesota Twin City Campus libraries. The catalog was filmed in the summer of 1969 and, consequently, the film does not contain cards for material cataloged since then. However, a supplement will be prepared for current material.

The catalog comprises full sets of cards for material cataloged for the general library collection, the Bio-Medical Library, and departmental libraries on the Minneapolis Campus; main entry cards for cataloged material in the Law Library; and main entry cards for cataloged material in the St. Paul Campus Libraries.

The file is contained on 471 reels in cassettes for use on a motor driven reader which is located near the reference desk. An index to the cassettes is available, and the library staff will provide assistance in using the film and reader. Sets of microfilm are also available in the Walter and St. Paul Campus libraries, and in the Morris and Duluth campus libraries.

JOURNAL ABBREVIATIONS CHANGED

The National Library of Medicine has changed its rules for abbreviating journal titles as of 1971.

The new abbreviations are based on the rules of the American National Standard for the Abbreviation of Titles of Periodicals, and the individual words in titles are abbreviated according to the forms given in the International List of Periodical Title Word Abbreviations.

The Bio-Medical Library list of abbreviations for journals currently received, which is posted next to the Periodical Holdings List, will include only the old abbreviations for the time being, most of which are the same, until such time as we can get around to making the changes. Consult the January, 1971 issue of Index Medicus for a full list of abbreviations and journal titles.
