WHAT CAMP SAYS

The Great Eastern Critic's Good Words for the Champions of the West

COLLIER'S WEEKLY for December 29th contains Walter Camp's write-up of the middle western football championship. What he says of Minnesota is of interest and for the devotees of the sport here is a sweet morsel, inasmuch as so great a critic as Camp has never before deigned to notice us. Biased readers may not agree with him in all that he says, but they should remember that it is his first attempt.

Here is what he says in his summary: "The uncertainties of the game of football were never so fully illustrated before as they were in the middle west during the season of 1900. In the first place, there was the big four to be considered, Chicago, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin. Next in consideration came a dozen smaller teams, one or two of which represented universities that had turned out good elevens on former occasions, but very seldom.

"At the very outset, Illinois fell before Michigan, but, as the game was between two members of the big four, no comment was made. Then Michigan began to demonstrate that it had an inferior team. All doubt was dispelled when the Iowa game was played at Detroit and the Hawkeyes won by a score of 28-6, Michigan being saved from a shut-out only by Fullback Sweeley's superb kicking.

"Chicago, the 1899 champion, fell a victim to almost every team that opposed it. Wisconsin lost by one point to the heavy gophers from Minnesota. The picking of a middle-west winner was becoming a most uncertain problem.

"Iowa, Northwestern and Minnesota forged to the front in succession. Then Wisconsin came into notice again by reason of the heavy scores piled against opposing teams. Finally, Nebraska demanded attention because it scored more points against Minnesota than all the others together.

"Properly speaking, Iowa, Nebraska and even Minnesota have no place in middle west football. They belong west of the Mississippi river. But they were taken into consideration and their claim remains. It is difficult to decide the championship of the section. Until the last day it seemed to belong to Iowa—a team that had not been scored on in two years, and a team that had defeated Chicago 17-0, after Minnesota could only tie the maroons 6-6. Then Northwestern seemed to demonstrate superiority to Minnesota because it defeated Chicago 5-0. Minnesota, however, came back a week later by besting Northwesterns, 21-0, thereby reclaiming a championship title. On top of that Northwestern played Iowa a 5-5 game on Thanksgiving Day. Wisconsin, the only big four member that showed true form, undoubtedly played the best game at the close of the season, but its 6-5 defeat by Minnesota stood against its championship claims.

The honors of the middle West lie between Iowa and Minnesota. The former defeated Chicago, 17-0. The latter tied Chicago, 6-6. Minnesota defeated Northwestern, 23-0. Iowa tied them, 5-5. There is nothing else of any account on which to base their relative merits.

Michigan and Chicago played a Thanksgiving game, but they had both fallen behind and their contest called for little attention. Chicago won, 16-5. In spite of their defeats of this season, both of these former champions are already figuring on crack teams for 1901, and the prospects of both are excellent.

"Mr. Camp's all western team, with comment, is as follows:

"The choice of an all-western team has been a matter of considerable difficulty this year. The guards, halves and full-backs of the middle west have failed to show any one or two men of superior excellence, and a choice for these positions is a problem. Worst of all has been the choice of an all-western full-back. Sweeley of Michigan is chosen because he has proven to be the best punter in the middle west this year. A good punter is necessary to a team of any kind, and there is none other in the present clever line-up. The others have been placed on account of their superior excellence in their positions: Left end, Snow, Michigan; left tackle, Warner, Iowa; left guard, C. E. Dietz, Northwestern; center, Page, Minnesota; right guard, Flynn, Minnesota; right tackle, Curtis, Wisconsin; right end, Aune, Minnesota; quarter-back Williams, Iowa; left half, Henry, Chicago; right half, Edson, Iowa; full-back, Sweeley, Michigan."

As to his judgment in regard to the full-back position on the all-western teams, he has erred as all western critics will frankly admit as the position belongs to Knowlton of Minnesota by all odds.

PROF. SCHOPFER HONORED

Prof. Schopfer, who next fall will be in the Department of Political Science here, won distinction at a meeting of the American Historical Association held at Detroit, Michigan, during the holidays, by winning the $100.00 prize offered by that association for the best historical monograph. The professor's subject was, "Sectionalism and Representation in North Carolina," and he won in a field of seventeen from the monographs of five of whom, the judges had great difficulty in picking the winner. The honor is not alone to Professor Schopfer but to the University of Minnesota as well.

The Junior Class gives a party at Mrs. Noble's Hall, over the Book Store, Friday evening, January 18th.

MOULTON COMING

The Noted Lecturer will Deliver His Twelfth Course in the City Soon

Students and members of the faculty who have for years enjoyed the course of lectures given in Minneapolis the last few years by the noted Dr. R. G. Moulton, will be pleased to hear that he will soon deliver another attractive course in University Extension work. Dr. Moulton formerly taught in Cambridge, England, but of late years has devoted his time to this work in the United States, and no man in the country has done more for it than has he. The course to be delivered—the dates to be announced very shortly—is as follows:

1. Marlowe's Dr. Faustus: Thinking about the loss of a soul.
2. Shakspeare's Henry V.: Thinking about heroism of soul.
3. The Ballad of Sir Cauline: Thinking about love.
4. Southey's Curse of Kehama: Thinking about destiny.
5. Sue's Wandering Jew: Thinking about providence.
6. Conclusion: The dignity of fiction.

Course tickets will be sold and, if the plan followed last year is tried again will be on sale by President Northrop or Registrar Johnson here at the University. Only a limited number are sent here.

A FAMOUS LECTURER

Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson, of Boston, lectures at the Lyceum Theater Friday night of this week on "Orators and Oratory." He appears in the regular lecture course of the Institute of Arts and Letters which is bringing to Minneapolis so many noted men.

The history of American oratory will be traced briefly through its various periods. A feature of the lecture will be the apt characterization of many of the great men of America who have been famed as orators. A topic which opens up opportunity for the presentation of summaries of the oratorical powers and works of such men as Patrick Henry, Daniel Webster, John T. Calhoun, Henry Clay, Wendell Phillips, Sumner, Henry Ward Beecher and others cannot lack for interesting material.

Colonel Higginson is an orator himself; a writer renowned for his felicity of expression, a speaker known as faultless in delivery. Aside from his most interesting subject, the lecture should appeal to a large number of people on account of the personality of the author, a man who has lived to good purpose, and taken his part in the life of the nation for more than forty years.

Hugh White, '02, has been elected captain of the Michigan football team for 1901. He has played tackle for three years.

Walter Camp says the University of Minnesota is west of the Mississippi and therefore hardly to be reckoned with in summing up the western championship. Well, Walter, you had better come West and jog up your "jography." We'll pay all your travelling expenses if you cross the Mississippi before getting here, and throw in a year's subscription to the brightest little college publication in the West—meaning, of course, the "Mag."

For the Campus

Shortly after the war with Spain was at an end, one of the guns which was on one of the vessels, the Reina Mercedes, we believe, which was destroyed off Santiago, was sent to Minneapolis, to the naval veterans here. The city papers made a great fuss over the fact that Minneapolis had been honored by the government in the gift of such a trophy, and upon its arrival the gun was publicly exhibited in one of the big stores and then lost sight of. It was discovered not long since, lying up against the engine house near the Exposition Building, we believe, and it still lies there.

Evidently interest has been lost in the gun by the people and the papers, but the trophy is too historic and valuable to be in the place that it now is, and The DAILY would suggest that means be taken to secure the gun for the University campus. It could be mounted at a very slight cost, and it would add much to the campus, and at the same time be a relic to be much cherished.

Some of the influential members of the faculty, Professors Hynes or Folwell for instance, might take the matter up with the proper authorities and secure the prize for the campus.

Class of '90 Fellowship

The President has been requested to announce, by the Fellowship Committee of the Class of '90 that a fellowship of $200 will be offered for the year 1901-1902 to be awarded at commencement this year.

The conditions of this fellowship may be learned by application to President Northrop. The fellowship committee consists of Max West, Jessie Nicol Hoyt and W. E. Winslow.

ATHLETIC NOTES

The Yale basket ball team met defeat at Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, Dec. 29th—22-18.

Northwestern wants her game with Minnesota on Thanksgiving Day next fall. Dr. Holister says the students want the Minnesota game starred as the big game.

Iowa and Minnesota will play basket ball January 26th. The game will occur on the armory floor. Games with Wisconsin and Nebraska are also assured, but no dates are announced.

The Interscholastic Field Day Association has decided to cut out the walk from the list of events for the next high school meet. The indoor meet of the highs will occur Saturday, February 16th at the Varsity armory.

Iowa and Michigan will play in Chicago Thanksgiving Day of this year in the morning. Chicago and Wisconsin play in the afternoon. With two such games scheduled for that city on that date, it is not likely that Minnesota will care to play Northwestern there also.

NOTES

The Junior Ball will occur Friday evening, February 15th.

All street cars now run until 1:00 a. m. The new schedule went into effect January 1st. The new plan will be tried for sixty days, and if found satisfactory, will be continued.

During the vacation, the Y. M. C. A. building was entered by sneak thieves and all the fine money and several of the dating stamps belonging to the public library station were stolen. Sec'y Nicol will give a reward for the return of the dating stamps.

COLLEGE OF LAW

Prof. Paige has compiled a case book on Torts and will have it ready for this class as soon as it takes up this subject. That such a book will be a valuable addition to the library and of great use to the students need hardly be said.

The law library has had added to it 500 volumes of Canadian Reports, a complete set of Louisiana Annual and several state publications during vacation, and Librarian Furst will continue with jealous care to guard over it so that it will be second to no law library in the country.

The first term of the College District Court opens today (Tuesday), when the cases will be set for trial; all who have not filed their pleadings will have to hurry.

The Seniors who have written their theses during vacation refrain from asserting how much they have added to knowledge by their efforts.

Athletic Association Meeting

According to the constitution of the Athletic Association, the annual meeting of that body shall be held the second Saturday in January. That will bring the meeting next Saturday evening, the 12th but it is understood that it is construed to mean the second Saturday after University opens, making it January 19th. The names of one or two candidates for places on the Board of Control have been mentioned and others will doubtless soon be announced. The offices at the disposal of the student body are very honorable and responsible positions, and they demand good men.
