NORTH DAKOTA TO PLAY HERE TONIGHT

Fast Aggregation from the North Will Try Conclusions With the Varsity Five

This evening at 8:15 the Varsity basketball team will tackle one of the hardest teams played on the home floor this year.

The North Dakota Aggies are the people who are expected to give the Varsity such a run for their money, and all those who have seen them play, predict that they will give the Gophers a much harder tussle than did Nebraska.

The Aggies have won every game so far this year, and to say that they will fight harder than usual when pitted against the champions of the U. S. is putting it mildly.

The game is to be called at 8:15 and the line up will be as follows:

N. Dak.	Minn.
Rose Forward Varco
Kennedy Forward Pierce
Spellicy Guard Leach
Corbett Guard Kiefer
White Center Tuck

LAW ADDITION IS DEDICATED

The Seniors and Dean Pattee Open The Addition, Stein in Hand

We hereby dedicate this room to the class of 1904.

With these words Dean Pattee and the Senior Class yesterday formally opened the splendid new addition to the law school which has just been completed.

The boys had previously provided a great big keg of the best cider in Minneapolis, and steins enough to go around, with a fine large embellished one for the Dean.

As the class in equity assembled in the new recitation room, each man brought his stein flowing over with fragrant liquid. When the Dean entered he was greeted with cheers.

The committee then presented Dean Pattee with his stein and all arose and drank to the hopes of the Law school under the new regime.

Following the formal dedication, several informal speeches were given by members of the class and faculty. Jones, Shillock, Prof. Willis, and Pres. Frankberg of the class of '04.

Mr. Leavitt of the Board of Control happened to be inspecting the addition at the hour the opening was set for, and was asked to take the place of honor beside the Dean. Mr. Leavitt made a short speech in response to the call of the class.

While the festivities were going on as above, the middle laws slipped into the ante-room and carried off the cider keg to the library.

A scrap was avoided however as the seniors are reported to be unable to stand more than one round. They had been careful to secure that before entering the lecture room.

JUNIOR BALL ASSOCIATION

Members of the Junior Ball Association will meet in Prof. McClumpha's room at the 3rd hour Friday.

DO 'U' STUDENTS NEED WATCHING

Faculty Views of the Honor System and its Chance at Minneapolis

The recent sensational discoveries in regard to cribbing and the subsequent suspension of several students as well as the more recent stand taken by the Engineering Society has aroused a general discussion as to the advisability of adopting the honor system.

Yesterday a reporter secured interviews from several of the faculty and are herewith given.

President Northrop said "I would be in favor of adopting the honor system in conducting examinations if the past record indicated a high sense of honor pervading the institution. As such is hardly the case, I do not believe it practicable. It is a mistake to lead the students into temptation. Out of every 50 students taking an examination there are 45 who would under no circumstances crib, but the other five are the very ones for whom the examination is intended. In every institution there are men who lie and those same men would not value their honor

GOPHER PLAYERS ARE THE BEST

So says Townsend, the Noted Authority, of our Basketball Team

Manager Deering's basketball review created a mild sensation here. The radical differences between play in the East and West were stated so clearly that they quite startled the more conservative enthusiasts who believed that the effete section led in cleanliness in athletics.

The protest which Minnesota makes against the methods in vogue among the college basketball teams of the East is admitted to be well taken by close students of the game. At least two contests here this winter have been marred by roughness and brutality which would put a gridiron contest to shame. The rankest offenders were the athletes which represented Columbia on the floor. This five slugged, hacked and fought its way to victory Princeton, which appeared last Saturday night, was a close second to the belligerent New Yorkers. The indoor football idea seems to be well developed among all the fives of the East.

WILD WEST SHOW NOW IN ARMORY

Indian Braves and Frontier Fighters Spread their Blankets in the Armory

For the first time within a year, the crack of the sixshooter and the warwhoop of the Indian were yesterday heard in Dr. Cooke's private office in the Armory.

They announced the arrival of one of the star features of the Circus of March 4th and 5th now little more than a week away.

The red-skinned fullblooded Apache Indians of the Rockies did not seem entirely at home in their new quarters but with grunts they signified their intention of making the best of a bad situation.

Government troops, who had gained special permission from headquarters, to take part in the three performances next week were present with their free and easy manners and made themselves entirely at home.

Together with the soldiers of the plains and the Indians of the far West there will be presented one of the most soul inspiring and heart rending acts that ever held the attention of the American public. Combined with this will be the great educational value which can be derived therefrom, the performance representing a true situation in the history of our great and glorious country.

Pyramid building is still going on, the latest stunt being one in which human beings will pile upon each other, four high. This quadruple act has never before been seen at the University and it marks the height of human skill and endurance.

The circus management has made a find in the menagerie line. It is the receipt from the northern shores of lake Baikal of the famous Russian quadruplets, two boys and two girls, Pete and Repete and Kate and Dupli-Kate.

The entire program as it will be executed next week is now complete, and the time between now and the first performance will be filled with daily practice, to bring every performer up to the required degree of excellence.

The sale of tickets will open next Monday morning.

Tickets will be on sale at both of the University book stores, at Voegel's in Minneapolis and at Tibbill's Cigar Store in St. Paul.

OUT FOR PRIZES

Six Men Selected for Pillsbury Contest

The ten men who won out in the thought and composition part of the preliminary contest for the Pillsbury prize delivered their orations before Registrar Johnson and Professor Greer of the Central High School and were judged on delivery.

There was no attempt to combine the grades won in thought and composition with the delivery marking, but all went into the semi-final on an equal footing.

The names of the successful contestants, in alphabetical order, are:

W. H. Anderson, "The Missionary Explorer."

as much as passing the examination. Under these circumstances I am opposed to the system."

Prof. Haynes warmly advocated the idea. He said "I believe in the honor system and would rejoice to see it prevail throughout all the work of the University."

"The students themselves can be the most potent means in bringing about this very desirable result."

Professor Jones recently discussed the matter before his class as follows: "The honor system is good, but it is impracticable. The students say that the instructors do not trust them and that their lack of confidence inspires a low sense of honor in the student. It is considered a game to cheat the instructors. I know personally that most of the men in the class can be trusted implicitly, but there are some who cannot. The former could be trusted under one system as well as another. (Continued on page 4)."

THE IOWA DEBATE

Minnesota Debates Iowa to-morrow night.

This will be the second big intercollegiate debate held here this year and no one should miss the opportunity to be present and to cheer the Varsity trio on to victory.

Although we lost the contest with Michigan we should not be discouraged but try all the harder to win from the Hawkeyes. They defeated us last year at Iowa City and the Minnesota team is out to get even with them.

Everybody should be present to help them do it.

I have seen all of the big fives of the country play this winter and I am free to express the opinion which is grounded on something more than real sentiment, that Minnesota not only plays the cleanest basketball, but the best basketball of any college team. Experts here, who have studied the game in all of its phases, coincide with this view.

The spirit of personal antagonism, which has spoiled other games in Rochester, does not seem to pervade the Gophers. They cover cleanly, but do not hug and hold and rough it like the members of other teams. The admirable conduct and sportsmanlike tactics of the Minnesota team made the institution many friends in western New York.

The Minnesota game did not leave a bad taste in the mouth as the Columbia and Princeton games have done. The Gophers played fast basketball at all times, but eliminated all of the football features which threaten to degenerate the game into a mere side issue of fist cuffs, where jabs and jolts play a larger part than does clever team work.

I say without any hesitancy, and I think that most critics who are not biased will agree with me, that the Minnesota team is the fastest five in the country. However, it is not very much better than the Columbia five. This team, headed by Marcus Hurley, the amateur bicycle champion, if it could forget the football feature, ought to play a nip and tuck game with the Minnesota giants. With strict officials,

SECURE A COACH

The question of securing a base ball coach seems to be bothering the minds of the Athletic Board.

If Minnesota is to have a base ball team worthy of the name a first class coach is needed.

A captain cannot be expected to successfully take upon himself the arduous responsibilities of teaching the entire team the game, selecting the men for the various positions and tending to all the mass of detail which is incident to the dual role of captain and coach. It is too much for any man to attempt.

For this reason if for no other the nesota should have a base ball coach.

Such a man would be entrusted with the task of picking the team, coaching the men in the various tricks of the trade and developing a first class battery.

The captain would then be left free to get some practice himself and tend to the other duties incident to the position.

If the Board decides that it cannot afford to hire a coach, Minnesota will probably have to be content with a rather inferior team.

But in view of the other expenses the present board has willingly incurred to promote athletics it seems that they must have a sufficient amount in the treasury to pay a base ball coach $150 or $200.

STUDENTS HONOR SCHALL

The committee appointed for the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase an oratorical medal for Thos. D. Schall, the young man who has represented Minnesota several times in the inter state oratorical contests, and who has brought much honor to the University of Minnesota by his brilliant work, report the money raised and the medal purchased.

It will be presented to Mr. Schall this morning in chapel as a lasting appreciation by the students of the University of Minnesota.

GOT ONTO THE GRAFT

As a Daily reporter was passing the engineers' building yesterday afternoon at about 4:50 o'clock he passed two fair co-eds. One of them was saying, "I've gotten onto the graft now and am working it instead of studying."

Query: What is the graft and who is the girl?

GOPHER PLAYERS THE BEST

it would stand little chance against the Gophers, even with liberal interpretation of the rules. Columbia has a rangey, lithe team, but it is not the equal of Minnesota in the scientific knowledge of basketball.
Unless the friends of the sport in the East rise to the exigencies of the occasion and demand a strict enforcement of the spirit and letter of the rules, the game is doomed. The football instinct must be drawn out of the players, if it ever rises to the dignity of a real sport.
I asked Dr. J. H. W. Pollard, famous in the East as a football and basketball coach, what he thought of the relative ability of the Columbia and Minnesota teams, the leaders in the two sections. He had no hesitancy to declare that the Gophers would defeat the New Yorkers without any trouble. Pollard's opinion should carry much weight in comparing the merits of the teams.
"Minnesota would most certainly win the match," he said. "The Gophers play cleaner, faster ball, and do not stoop to any of the rough house methods of the New Yorkers. I referred the Cornell-Minnesota game, and I never saw as fast basketball play as I did in this contest. The Westerners played in whirlwind fashion and satisfied me that they outclassed any team in the East. They play fairly, and squarely, too."
Perhaps no man in New York state is better prepared to talk of the ethics of sport than Joseph O'Connor, the famous newspaper man and literateur. He said:

"The Minnesota team set a high standard for Eastern teams to follow. The members of the team approached the ideal of what college boys should be in sport—courteous, forbearing, generous, and, withal, incomparable in skill, athletic development and strength."
This is a high, but well deserved tribute, paid by a distinguished writer. Myron W. Townsend, In Rochester, N. Y. Herald.

The honor system would merely afford the others a greater opportunity for cribbing.
Professor Nicholson was in favor of at least trying the system. "I believe in the system myself and for some time have been considering the matter of trying it in one of my sections. I should first have to consult President Northrop, as at present it is contrary if possible make a test of the system." to faculty rule for an instructor to leave his class alone in the course of an examination. The honor system would really rest with the students and unless they wished to adopt it and agree to live by it, it would be useless. I think if possible, I shall discuss the matter with one of my sections and
