

ANNUAL FOLK FEST NEAR

COURSE FOR TEACHING OF BLIND UNDERWAY

"The blind must have a physical freedom from the time they are very young," is the philosophy of Miss Jeanne Kenmore, director of UMD's month-long course for teachers of blind which began this week.

UMD is one of two U. S. universities to offer such a course this summer. Funds were made possible by the State Department of Public Welfare.

Miss Kenmore
can't get to my job.' "

In her class students themselves will become "blind" to learn mobility by sense, and cane technique. This week they are learning to travel around a building.

Each morning of the intensive course (8:30 to 3:30 with some "shifts,") they will observe work done with blind young people.

Miss Kenmore is a member of the University of Minnesota Department of Educa-

DANCES, DISPLAYS PLANNED AT PARK

Round-the-world pageantry in dance, displays and delicacies will mark the International Institute's 14th annual Duluth Folk Festival Saturday, Aug. 5 in Leif Erikson Park.

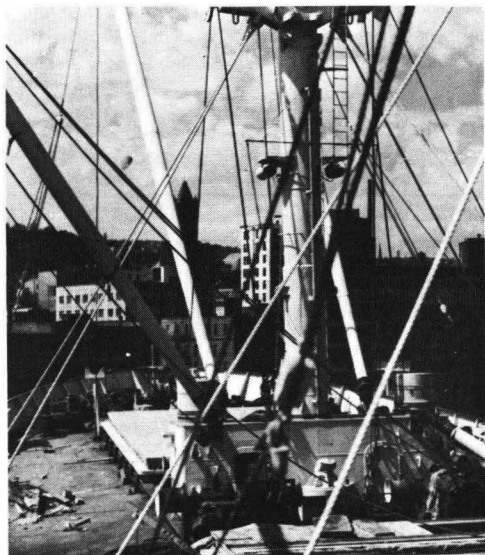

Some 10 to 12 thousand are expected at the free celebration from 12:30 to 5 p.m. An ever-widening cultural cross-section from the northern states area has been drawn into preparations for the three major attractions—the Old World Market, Craft Alley and Stage Program.

Colorful umbrella carts and booths of nationality foods and novelties will be found throughout the park. Demonstrations of art and craft techniques and the gay Children's Fair will give visitors of every age a full afternoon.

An aerial bomb and fanfare will signal the start of the costumed Parade of Nations and opening of the dance festival on Leif Erikson's stone stage. Among the dozen nationality dances to be performed is the "Japanese Jig," a preview of the 1964 Olympic Games opening dance.

Among new booths in the Old World Market is the South American stand being organized by Russ Shoumaker, UMD student, and Miss Pat Theimer, housing director and coordinator of student religious activities.

A LAKE-SIDE viewpoint of Duluth is great—a panorama compared with that of some of the major coastal cities of the world. See the sights and hear about port activity and the new terminal aboard one of Duluth's pleasure tour craft Saturday, July 29. The Harbor-Lake cruise leaves the Flame dock at the foot of Fifth Avenue west at 2:30 p.m. A limited number of free tickets will be available Friday in Kirby 186.

ART STUDENTS GET SCHOLARSHIPS

Four UMD students from Duluth have received scholarships to attend summer session art workshops.

Judy Lowe and Larry Friedenson will be studying under nationally-known abstractionist Ralston Crawford in his second session Advanced Painting Workshop. The course offers creative and individual problems in oil and watercolor painting.

Karen Thomas and Tom Suomalainen won scholarships to the first session Print Workshop conducted by J. Dorrance Kiser, UMD assistant professor of art. The workshop allowed students to explore advanced techniques in the four basic print processes.

Miss Thomas and Mr. Friedenson received their grants from the Duluth Art Institute; Miss Lowe and Mr. Suomalainen from the UMD Art Guild.

"HE WHO HAS EARS..."

... is the topic of Dr. Ralph G. Nichols, University of Minnesota Rhetoric Department, to be given as part of the Elementary Workshop Tuesday, July 25. The talk is at 1:30 p.m. in Kirby Ballroom.

UMD'S DR. STUB TO CONTINUE SERIES

UMD sociologist Dr. Holger Stub will present the next in the Guidance Institute special lecture series, at 1 p.m. Wed., July 26 in Kirby Ballroom.

His topic is "Major Socio-Economic Factors Influencing Human Behavior."

Stub recently revealed results of a population study, "Migration to Duluth," which he prepared with grants-in-aid from the University of Minnesota Graduate School. He analyzed data for the approximately 1,600 families coming to Duluth during the years 1958 and 1959.

EDUCATION TALKS SET

Phi Delta Kappa, UMD chapter of the national fraternity for men in education, will sponsor two open programs July 26 and Aug. 2. Dinner for members precedes the talks.

Both talks are slated at 6:30 p.m. in 252 Kirby. The first, "Quantities and Qualities in Special Education," is by Dr. Dewey G. Force, associate professor of psychology, University of Minnesota. The Aug. 2 talk, "My Two Pet Projects," will be given by Dr. Jerry Kuhn, director of elementary education at the State University of Iowa.

AFRO-CUBAN REVIEW BILLED

Native songs, dances and rhythms of the West Indies will be presented in an "Afro-Cuban Review" at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 27 in Kirby Ballroom.

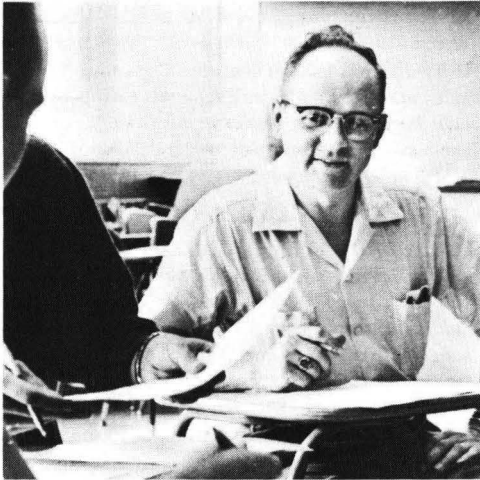

The company of six includes two drummers playing the exotic and authentic West Indian drums, three dancers and a vocalist who performs the folk and calypso songs adapted by such personalities as Harry Belafonte.

The colorful, free program provides a unique insight into the life of such countries as Haiti, Jamaica and Trinidad, according to Dr. Albert Tezla who is in charge.

CANDIDLY, UMD FACULTY light up in the cafeteria (News Service chief Julian Hoshal,) sport new mustache (Librarian Rudolph Johnson,) aid a suffering student (Education's Cyril Milbrath,) make after-hours appointments (Social Science's Harry Lease,) and ponder points (Psychologists Armas Tamminen and Gerald Gladstein.)
