

Comedy Hit to Open Season

Rehearsing lines from Oliver Goldsmith's play, "She Stoops to Conquer," are Dick Koethe, of the KSTP announcing staff, who will play Young Marlowe and Helen Marie McPherson who, after an absence of two years from the Theater, returns to take the leading woman's role.

A streamlined version of Oliver Goldsmith's comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer," will open the fourteenth season of the University Theater on Wednesday evening. Dr. Frank M. Whiting, director of the production, has changed the script to please twentieth century tastes by re-writing lines and omitting excess verbiage. However, the comedy still retains its eighteenth century flavor.

The plot is based on Goldsmith's own experiences when a student. He stopped at a village overnight and asked at the alehouse to be shown to the best inn in town. A village wit directed him to the house of the town's leading citizen. Some of the incidents which resulted in this deception are incorporated in the plot of the play which Goldsmith wrote 20 years later. It was first produced in 1790 and since that time has remained a standard comedy ever since.

The male lead, Young Marlowe, will be played by Dick Koethe, a University Theater veteran. Honorably discharged from the air force after serving two years, he is now on the announcing staff of KSTP. Mr. Koethe played Laurie in the University production of "Little Women" and Captain Bones in "Treasure Island," also presented here in past years.

Helen Marie McPherson, the feminine lead, has also returned to the Theater after two-year absence. She is acting as theater secretary while her husband is serving with the air forces in Italy. Her last University Theater role was Desdemona in "Othello."

Lauren L. Brink, the Mr. Hardcastle of the play, is a member of the University high school staff as well as business manager for the Theater. Mr. Brink played in the productions of "Charley's Aunt" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The part of Tony Lumpkin will be taken by Jack Mezirow, Arts junior, who played the Jack Benny role in "Charley's Aunt" and Ly-sander in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Other members of the cast are: Vivienne Rice, Arts senior, Mrs. Hardcastle; Richard Spear, Arts junior, Mr. Hastings; Bob Albrook, Sir Charles Marlowe; Pat Brueckner, Arts junior, the maid. Also in the play are T. O. Andrus, Phil Gelb, Ted Anderson, Gordon Handewidt, Marvin Hannibal and Don Gunderson.

Cancel Football Frolic

Because there will be no game today, the Union has called off the football frolic which formerly took place from 4:30 to 6 p.m. in the Union ballroom.

Campus Chest Given Boost By Sorenson

The Campus War chest passed the thousand-dollar mark today with receipts totaling $1,111.30. Of this total, approximately $200 has come from students, on the Ag campus.

Donations on main campus picked up as contributions started coming to the chest from various University organizations.

On the Ag campus, the Campus chest was given a boost by Ricky Sorenson, marine hero from Anoka. Appearing in the Ag Union from noon until 1:30 p.m., Sorenson chatted informally with students.

Probably the most frequently asked question was not about the war chest, but what to send to servicemen overseas. In regard to the chest, Sorenson urged students to rally to the slogan of the 1944 campaign and "Back G.I. Joe."

With response to the drive improving each day, Katie Worrell, general chairman, has announced that new efforts will be made to fill the quota and take the University over the top in the 1944 campaign. The weekend should see a considerable increase in the total, she concluded.

Alice Stefferud Chosen to Head International Club

The International Relations club held its first board meeting Wednesday to make plans for the quarter and to elect officers.

Officers for the quarter are Alice Stefferud, Arts junior, president; Jody Ward, Arts sophomore, vice-president; Evelyn Fredericksen, Education sophomore, secretary; Marianne Cook, Arts sophomore, treasurer; Nora Boyd, Arts senior, publicity chairman; and Marjorie Wells, unclassified, program chairman.

On the publicity committee are Miss Boyd; Mary Louise Peterson, Arts junior; Barbara Bliss, unclassified; Miss Stefferud; Meredith Rogness, Agriculture junior; Helene Silverman, Agriculture junior; Ruth Weiner, Arts junior; and Miss Fredericksen.

The members of the program committee are Miss Wells; Mary Webster, Law junior; Sue Timberlake, unclassified; Miss Ward; Peggy Bront, unclassified; Miss Cook; and Carol Darrow, Arts junior.

Juniors Will Take Speech Examination

Speech tests, which are required for all juniors in the College of Education will be held Tuesday in 411 Folwell hall.

The tests, which take about 10 minutes, may be scheduled in a student's free hour. Any junior who did not make an appointment yesterday at the time of the psychological examinations, should report to 202 Burton to schedule the appointment, according to W. E. Peik, dean of the College of Education.

Clearance on the speech test is required for entrance to student teaching. All juniors must take the test on Tuesday.

Students May Rent Records from Union

Whether it is Schubert or Bach or Gershwin, students may rent classical or semi-classical records from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in 315 Union.

Six records may be kept free of charge for five days, and a fine is imposed on records kept over the five-day limit. Louise Wetherbee, Arts sophomore, is in charge of record lending.

Postoffice Boxes Action Next Week

Action will be taken the first part of next week by the All-University council on the problem of the use of the postoffice boxes for general distribution.

This was decided after discussion at the meeting last night and a committee of the council was given the power to act in this manner.

One hundred dollars was devoted by the council to be contributed to the campus chest as the council donation.

In addition, council members each will give $2 individually. In order to orientate Niesi students to the University and its organizations, the council decided to have a party for them.

Marion Harvey, Home Economics senior, was placed in charge of the arrangements.

There will be no class officers at the University upon motion of the council. However, the need was felt for some sort of senior organization. The possibility of a senior cabinet will be discussed at a future meeting.

The Homecoming budget was approved, and $25 allocated to the committee planning the political rally to carry on its work.

In addition, the financial plan of consolidating the freshman and Homecoming balances into the council funds was accepted, and the motion will be sent to the Senate Committee for Student Affairs.

War Chest Solicitors To Meet at Luncheon

The final report luncheon for solicitors in the war chest drive from district 47 will be held at noon Monday in the Nicollet hotel. E. B. Pierce, director of the University war chest, district 47, urges all solicitors to turn their reports in Monday morning to the alumni office, 205 Union.

Bernie Bierman, ex-Gopher head coach recently retired from the marines, will be guest speaker at the luncheon.

Medical Class Election

Election of officers of the sophomore medical class has been held for the first time in history. The executives are: Rolf Daehlin, army, president; David C. Utz, navy, vice-president; and James Erchul, army, secretary.

The new officers will work with the faculty to promote a closer relationship between the faculty and students of the medical school.

Phillips Reports Labor's Views on Supporting FDR

By Politicus

George Phillips, president of the Minneapolis Central Labor Union, addressed a meeting of the Campus Committee for Roosevelt at 3:30 p.m. yesterday in 343-5 Union. Phillips spoke on the subject "Why Labor's Supporting FDR."

He briefly mentioned various phases of the Republican Party's labor policy as evidenced under the Republican presidents, stating that the slogans "Back to Normalcy" and "A chicken in every pot" actually meant "No jobs, no constructive program."

Phillips primarily dealt with the projects—such as the WPA and the NRA—and the laws which have been set up during the Roosevelt administration.

"Under Roosevelt, labor has had a square deal. There have been necessary limitations as to the number of working hours, the wage and hour act. And these laws have not only aided labor but they have helped all the people."

"If there was nothing in the Democratic platform mentioning labor, we would still probably go along with the Democrats on the basis of what Roosevelt has already done."

He continued that the Republicans have shown their feelings about labor even in Minnesota. "Because a few labor unions in this state justly stepped out of line to demand their rights, the Republicans have hamstrung us every step of the way."

At the conclusion of Phillips' speech, William Fels, chairman of the Campus Committee for Roosevelt, called in the remainder of the petitions on the postoffice ban. The petitions will be presented to President Walter C. Coffey at the end of next week.

Hewitt Plays Tonight

This peaceful dancing is just part of the story for the Swingabout which will take place between 9 p.m. and midnight today in the Union main ballroom. The other half is a jive contest with prizes. Bob Hewitt's orchestra will provide the music and Al Wiklund the judging. The admission price to be paid at the door is 50 cents for men and 25 cents for women.

Pinning Them Down . . .

Another rush week has been dutifully observed by campus fraternities. And with it we have observed a couple or three "it could only happen here" incidents. We pass the following on for what you may deem them worthy of adding to your life. If nothing else, they can always fill dead spots in after-dinner conversations.

One of our sleuths tells us Theta Chi Harry McCarthy pledged three men while he was taking a shower. Another courier lets us in on the story of the Phi Psi who commands NROTC quarters George—the tong's house—and has been taking rushees on tours of the place. And boarders who hadn't realized that it was rush week in the houses are still dumfounded over the prominence of butter—yes, the real McCoy—and steaks on dinner tables all week.

Pass the Pipes, Pappy . . .

It is with deep horror that we witness the wave of coed-pipe smoking that is beginning to take hold on the campus. The small, almost suave-appearing cigaret can dangle from a woman's lips with nonchalance and ease. Even the panatella cigar can achieve an air of elegance between the red lips of a coed. But not the pipe!

Neither do we think the pipe manufacturers are going to flock to the coeds' whims by designing red-stemmed outfits to match the color of their lips or cork-tipped varieties for tender mouths. And only the Kentucky mountain-grown woman, would dare place a corn cob between her teeth in public.

If you believe the pipe manufacturers' advertising, their products have always reserved for the man of decision and the "house smoothy." And we are sure that's the way they will stay.

Where the Elite Meet to Eat . . .

Partaking of food is one of the well-trod habits of human existence. Because college students are considered part of human existence they too must break bread. And we are heartily for this consummation of victuals. But a certain contributor to one of the Mill City newspapers' "letters to the editors" columns recently condemned the luncheon hour on the mighty sprawling University of Minnesota campus. The Correspondent says a cigaret-smoke-topped booth in a campus restaurant is taboo. He goes so far as to say the smoke-filled restaurant is a den of vice and iniquity.

But our crusading heart rises in bitter protest. What better time is there to muse over Freud or Kant than when dawdling over a cooling cup of coffee and a burning cigaret? Or when can one find a more opportune moment to compare Keats and Shelley than while sipping a cup of black tea in between puffs on an English oval? Even the most rigorous student will tell our letter-writing friend that time out for a "skag" and a cup of java is good for the best of men.

Seen on the Bridge . . .

One of our coed friends, Edith Seidel by name, tells us of the two little boys she saw on the bridge to the Union the other day. They were having a great time saliva-bombing passing cars, she reports. As she walked past one of the pilots shouted to his cohort, "Oh, boy! Here comes a convertible!"

The Open Door . . .

People and his own eyes have been telling Kappa Sig's Herb Shane that the coeds are predominating this year. And so, with that partly in mind, he, along with a few of "the boys," toured the open house sorors last Saturday night. But Herb came back crestfallen.

He tells us the ratio was just the opposite. Nine men for every woman instead of the other way around—which is the way the statisticians tell us it should be. Where do they all come from, he wants to know. And so do we.

Ziebarth to Confer With Broadcasters

E. W. Ziebarth, acting director of WLB, will leave today for Chicago where he will attend a meeting of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters. Postwar plans for frequency modulation broadcasting by educational institutions will be discussed at the meeting which will be held in conjunction with the national conference on school broadcasting.

"It is of great importance that frequency modulation channels for postwar use be protected from complete monopoly by any one type of broadcasting. The spectrum is sufficiently extensive to provide channels for both commercial and educational programming," Mr. Ziebarth stated yesterday.

In addition to discussing the new F-M type of broadcasting and other problems relative to educational broadcasting, the association will make a survey of radio equipment now being used by the army which will soon be released for civilian use. This equipment will replace worn out material.

Ag Union Board Plans Full Fall Social Programs

Coffee hours every two weeks and a bridge tournament are the chief features of the Ag Union board social program.

The program was approved at a weekly meeting of the board Wednesday. It was presented to the board by Gloria Trantanella, Ag senior, Union board president.

The coffee hour gatherings will be held October 25, November 9, November 22, December 7, December 15 and December 19.

The bridge tournament will be played October 31 and November 2 in the Ag Union. The finals will be played November 9.

Also planned for this quarter are a songfest and a funfest for November 10 and December 1 in the Ag Union, and a girls' splash party November 14 in the Ag gym.

Picnic on Riverbank Planned for Sunday

Fall means pow-wows and the outings committee of the Union board is planning one for 5 p.m. Sunday. Students may meet in front of the Union before the group goes to the riverbank.

Verle Hamblaton, Arts sophomore; Catherine Kiehm, General college freshman; and Virginia Worley, Arts senior, are planning the outing. The fee is 25 cents.

Speedball Games Slated for Coeds

Practices for speedball, outdoor game which has attracted considerable attention from University coeds, are being held every Tuesday and Thursday from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Any coed desiring to take part should report to Norris gymnasium. The teams will have the use of three different fields to accommodate a large number of participants.

Gerry Johnson, Education sophomore, has been named the WAA speedball head and urges the coeds to take advantage of the mild weather, and learn the new game.

Accounting Course Starts on Oct. 30

A 12-week war training course in general accounting and stores control will begin October 30 in 221 Vincent hall. Meetings will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Monday and Thursday.

The course, designed to cover many phases of industrial accounting, will include functions of accounting, profit and loss accounts, financial statements, manufacturing accounting and budgeting.

WAR CHEST

The attention of faculty and staff is called to the War Chest Campaign now in its eleventh day. For the first time the University is considered as a separate district with its own organization and its own quota. At the last report meeting the University reported 58% of its quota. As individuals and members of the University family we are anxious that we carry our full share of responsibility. It is very important that our full quota be met, and wherever possible faculty and staff are requested to make their subscriptions through the University. Subscriptions can be made through faculty workers in every department, or at the office of E. B. Pierce in Coffman Memorial Union.

Dr. Mickel Will Head Research on Insects

Dr. Clarence E. Mickel, acting chief of the division of entomology and economic zoology on the Ag campus, is directing a division busy with research and teaching, seeking solutions for a score of problems which face Minnesota's agriculture and industries.

Dr. Mickel, who also serves as president of the Entomological Society of America, was appointed acting chief of the division this fall, succeeding Dr. W. A. Riley who had reached the age of University retirement.

A veteran entomologist, Dr. Mickel has been associated with the University's war on destructive insects for 22 years. Within the scope of the division's activity is development of methods for controlling insects that threaten field and orchard crops, livestock, forests and stored foods, as well as the development of beekeeping and the preservation and management of wildlife.

Dr. Mickel is firmly grounded in the practical aspects of controlling the pests that threaten farm and orchard crops. A native of Nebraska, he took his B.A. degree at the university there and spent from 1917 to 1920 as Nebraska's first extension entomologist waging war on the grasshopper, the Hessian fly and other troublesome insects. He spent two years doing research for the American Beet company and in 1922 became the first extension entomologist in this state. Since 1927 he has been devoting full time to research and teaching in the division he now heads.

His chief research has been with the biology and taxonomy of a family of insects known as the mutillid wasps. Research findings of Dr. Mickel and his students have been presented to the scientific world in scores of journal publications.

Cadet Nurse Corps Enrolls 850 Coeds

The Cadet Nurse corps has enrolled 300 students for fall quarter, according to Ruth Harrington, assistant professor of nursing. This brings the total number in the corps to 850.

Assigned at the end of the fall quarter to various hospitals for clinical experience, the Cadet Nurses will alternate their study and hospital duty for the next 30 months of their training. At the end of that time they become Senior Cadets and will graduate from the corps in six months.

"The corps offers wide opportunities in the public health service and the army and navy nurse corps," said Miss Harrington. "With the great demand for trained nurses, openings will be plentiful for graduates from the corps in the next few years."

Ag Quarterly Awarded National First Prize

Just one year old and first in its class. Such is the very gratifying claim to which Minnesota Farm and Home Science is entitled by verdict of the American Association of Agricultural College Editors. At its 1944 national convention at Manhattan, Kansas recently this association conducted a contest for all state experiment station quarterly magazines. Represented by the May issue, Minnesota Farm and Home Science topped the class.

The quarterly is put out by the Ag campus experiment station under an editorial board headed by Harold L. Harris, assistant professor of rural journalism.

Gopher Lineup to Be Juggled for Bucks

Many are the changes that may be made in the Minnesota lineup before the Gophers tangle with Ohio State next Saturday at Columbus. That was definitely brought out on the Northrop practice field yesterday as the local talent ran through a blocking drill and then closed with a formation and play practice.

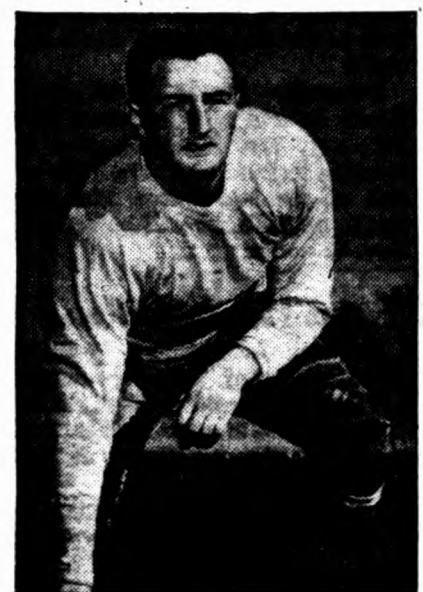

Among those changes was the case of Vic Kulbitski who is counted on to share the fullbacking load with little Matt Sutton. Vic ran through some of the potential scoring plays yesterday afternoon and clicked well with the rest of the backfield. Tom Cates, although benched, still managed to get in some exercises on the sidelines, but will have little chance of starting against the Buckeyes, October 28.

Bob Turnacliiff, navy V-12 end who has showed up well in recent sessions, was shifted to the first team Friday after Thursday's scrimmage in which he caught a touchdown pass from Mutzy Nolan.

"Turnacliiff has great possibilities," Hauser said yesterday, "and he may be moving up shortly."

Bob Graiziger, who has been shuffled from team to team in the Gopher forward wall, also may pull down a first eleven berth. Graiziger, along with Rudy Sikich, has been taking turns with the regulars, and the in and out practice may very possibly yield some results before the tilt with Ohio State.

Many members of the squad were absent yesterday, roughly, 30 of them. Navy examinations are in full swing, and so a heavy contingent of the gridders were absent.

With today's open date, Dr. Hauser is scouting the Northwestern-Indiana game, Red Dawson draws the heavy job in the observing department as Ohio State plays Great Lakes, and Bernie Bierman is taking in the Wisconsin-Notre Dame contest at South Bend.

Shackled by Studies

Reinhardt Still Longs To Play In Backfield

Six-man football used to be Tom Reinhardt's dish. "I really liked it because I could carry the ball," said Tom as he knocked over several teammates and blocking dummy in yesterday's practice. "That six-man game is different from college ball, and it's plenty tricky." Tom still has a yearning to carry the pigskin.

Reinhardt came to the Gophers from Jasper, Minnesota, where he played fullback on the high school six-man squad. He didn't think much about playing the line then. Tom was also a weight man and high hurdle runner and got a little recreation during the winter on the basketball squad.

The Gophers' left tackle is a big boy, one of the biggest men on the Maroon and Gold squad. He stands six feet two and weighs a little over 200 pounds. Only 18 years old, this is Reinhardt's second year at Minnesota. He is confining his athletic interests to football this year.

Navy V-12 duties and mechanical engineering have the genial, blond tackle pretty well shackled down with studies, but Tom maintains that he is satisfied with the University and the navy.

"Everything in Minnesota is tops with me," grinned Tom, who is proud as punch when speaking of his home state. Reinhardt entered the University as a civilian. He picked Minnesota, "and I haven't regretted that at all."

Tom claims he won't spend too much time worrying about the Ohio State squad, and proved this statement by throwing vicious blocks at his teammate during scrimmages. Despite his yearning for carrying the ball, Tom may get a chance to play in a backfield—Ohio State's, October 28.

28 on Cage Squad After 2-Week Drill

Hermesen, Furey Lost to Team; 6 Lettermen Back for '44-'45

After two weeks of blood and thunder scrimmages, 28 men survived the critical surveyance of basketball Coach Carl Nordly in the final cut made last night following the practice session held in the Field house.

One of the players whom the fans have been counting on to show some hot playing was Clarence (Kleggie) Hermesen, former Minneapolis Vocational high school star. Kleggie had recently returned from the professional basketball ranks of the Sheboygan, Wis., team. He has now left the University to play pro ball with a Cleveland team.

Another boy who would have proved a welcome addition to the Gopher cage ball squad is Richard Furey, who sank baskets last year for St. Thomas and was formerly an outstanding player for St. Paul Humboldt high school. Furey was contemplating registering at the University, but finally decided on returning his cage wares to St. Thomas.

Six lettermen from last year's team and many players of high school recognition were included in the cagemen remaining after last night's cut.

Matt Sutton, fast full back on the Gophers' gridiron squad, has not been able to come out for basketball practice as yet, but is expected out on the floor just as soon as the football season is closed.

Gene Kelly, hard working, fast baseball letterman and returning guard from last season, is seeing a lot of service.

Butz Lehrman, second highest scorer of last season and also a baseball letterman, has been working hard as guard.

Gordon Muske, former all-state man from South Dakota and reserve center last season is another returning letterman. Other veterans are Howie Peterson, third baseman and leading slugger in last spring's baseball nine and reserve forward for last fall's cage squad; Ken Poehler, track man and also a reserve forward last year who saw plenty of action; Gordon Emerson, also a track team letterman and reserve of last season's basketball squad.

Among the high school greats who have moved up into Big Ten competition with the Gophers, are Ray Christesen, all-city player in both basketball and football, from St. Paul Murray, and Bob Sampson, all-state forward from Duluth.

Both boys have been concentrating on offense play in the practice sessions and can probably look forward to heavy action this year.

Other notables from high school fame are six-foot, seven-inch George Kilen, former all-city player from St. Paul Humboldt, who is working hard at center; Joe Knoblauch, 180-pound all-city man from St. Paul Murray; six-foot five-inch Curt McCamy, all-state center from North Dakota who scored 595 points last season. All high school conference player from Muncie, Ind., Bob Stassen; and six-foot, three-inch Edmond Karlrud, second highest scorer in Montana are among those who were prep stars.

GORDY MUSKE will be back again this year in the competition for the center position on the Gopher cage squad, as Minnesota opens its 20-game schedule.

Shooting Today Providing . . .

Pheasant Outlook Gloomy

. . . There's Anything to Shoot

By Terry Covert

In contrast with the present bright duck hunting outlook, the pheasant season, which opens today, may wind up being the most catastrophic in years, according to reports from all over Minnesota and parts of South and North Dakota. Severe winters have taken a serious toll of these birds over a period of the last three years.

This year's open season of pheasants will extend through November 12; the limit will be three roosters per day.

Were it not for the fact that there are fewer hunters this year than before the war, a short three-day season, such as was held in 1937, would be in order, but the state conservation department expects that the protection of hens will find the pheasant population on the upgrade within the next two years.

The western and southwestern counties report most of the pheasants and that area, as in past years will provide the state's best shooting.

Ammunition is available in better regulated quantities this year, because of more efficient method of distribution devised over last year.

Last season it was a case of first come first-served, and many hunters had to be content with what little ammunition they had left from the year before. This year's allocation of four boxes of shells per hunter gives each game-chaser an even break.

Servicemen hunters stationed within the boundaries of the state will be charged only the $1 resident license fee. Servicemen home on leave may use their furlough papers in lieu of a license.

With the duck season already a month old and the northern flight yet scheduled to begin, hunters still report some fairly decent shooting on local ducks in the west and west central part of the state.

The season's opener on September 20 confirmed a state-wide duck census by the state conservation department and sportsmen's clubs which reported more local ducks within the state's borders than there have been for over a decade.

Other optimistic news comes from Ducks Unlimited in Canada which predicts that this year's southward migration will break records.
