AHLQUIST CONCLUDES CAREER WITH MINNESOTA VOLLEYBALL

(Minneapolis, Minn.) -- Senior outside hitter Emily Ahlquist ended her Minnesota career by contributing to the success of the 1992 Gopher squad. Ahlquist finished her career with 1,034 digs, fourth on the all-time school list. Her 3.14 season dig average and her 411 digs in 1992 both rank third on the respective single season lists. She finished with 148 career service aces--sixth on the Gopher career list. In 1992, Ahlquist set new career highs in kills (258), digs (411), service aces (48) and total blocks (45).

The University of Minnesota 1992 volleyball team (25-12) won more than 20 matches for the seventh time in Stephanie Schleuder's 11 years as head coach and finished with its best record since 1989. After winning six more matches in 1991 than in 1990, the Gophers improved even more this season, surpassing last season's victory total (14) by 11.

At the end of the regular season, Minnesota was one of 20 teams selected to play in the National Invitational Championship, held this season in Kansas City, Mo. The Gophers were one of the four top-seeded teams and advanced from their five-team pool to the tournament semifinals by winning three of four matches and two playoff games. Minnesota lost its semifinal match to Bowling Green and tied for third in the tournament.

The season was marked by consistency, as the Gophers never lost more than two matches in a row. In the Big Ten Conference, Minnesota finished fourth with a 13-7 record, its best conference finish since tying for second place in 1989. The Gophers' 13 conference wins equaled the school-record Big Ten victory total also posted by the 1986 and 1989 teams.

Contrary to the norm, playing away from home was where Minnesota had its greatest success. The Gophers were 7-2 at neutral sites and 10-4 in road matches. The team's road winning percentage (.714) was its third-highest dating back to 1984.

Among the 1992 highlights was a seven-match winning streak to start the season, which was Minnesota's best start since it went 7-0 in 1987. The Gophers won Alabama's Crimson Classic, tied for first in a tournament at Florida State and finished second in the Minnesota Classic.

Ahlquist graduated from Armstrong High School in 1989 and is majoring in child psychology at Minnesota. She is the daughter of Gary and Ann Ahlquist.
