Resident and Fellow Commencement

June 5, 2014

About the Department

Created in 1970 in response to a legislative mandate to train primary care physicians, the University of Minnesota Department of Family Medicine and Community Health remains committed to transforming and renewing family medicine and the primary care workforce through education, research, and patient care.

We are one of the largest departments in the University of Minnesota Medical School, reaching across two campuses: Twin Cities and Duluth. The department's central administrative offices and much of its programming is located on the Twin Cities campus. The Duluth arm of the department focuses on training physicians who will practice in rural and Native American communities.

Our educational efforts include medical student education, resident and fellowship training, and continuing medical education. Learn more at www.fm.umn.edu.
