

Use of Sex Hormones Seen in Mental Health

By Bernice Schumacher

Mental patients someday may be treated with hormones such as diabetic patients are being treated today.

Two New York psychologists suggested this possibility yesterday in making the first report locally on the research with sex hormones and histamine in restoring mental health. They are Drs. Mortimer D. and Arthur Sackler, associate directors of the Creedmoor Institute of Psychobiologic Studies.

The talk was sponsored jointly by the department of psychiatry and neurology and two state groups.

The belief still is common that a mental patient is "weak in the head," Dr. Mortimer Sackler said. However, the hormone theory indicates that this patient is suffering from disturbed glands.

The social implications of this theory is that it removes the stigma formerly associated with mental illness, he explained.

Biologically it is a union of psychology and physiology.

"This theory makes possible the fusion of Pavlov's physiology and Freud's psychology," he explained.

The studies leading to these conclusions were made on three types of mental patients—schizophrenics, mental depressives and involutional psychotics—at the Creedmoor institute.

Dr. Arthur Sackler summarized the significance of these studies:

- The recognition of the importance of an early diagnosis. Six of seven patients or 86 per cent of the patients between 16 and 25 years old reached the convalescent stage through this treatment. This means the patient responded to the hormones within four weeks and was sent home.

- The new therapy is simpler and reduces the load on overburdened institutions.

- The sex hormones and the histamines have more than doubled the number of mental patients able to leave the hospital when used with the older types of therapy, such as shock.

- The theoretical point of view lends orientation and direction to research.

Millions of persons fall into the schizoid personality type, the doctor said. However, they need some occurrence superimposed upon this existing condition to make them psychotic.

The cause is a disruption in the balance between the adreno-cortical hormones and its opposition—the sex hormones, thyroid, histamine, insulin and possibly other hormones.

He predicts from this the occurrence of mental disorders from the overuse of ACTH and cortisone which are now bringing important results with rheumatoid arthritis.

U Will Bar Race-biased Landlords—Williamson

By J. L. Cash

The University student housing bureau will not list any rooming house for students where landlords discriminate because of race or religion.

This point was emphasized yesterday by E. G. Williamson, dean of students, at an open meeting of the University chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peoples.

"The University used to apply restrictions regarding moral, hygienic and study conditions in rooming houses. Now we apply anti-discrimination restrictions too."

Robert Coles, president of NAACP, reported that last fall he tested several rooming-house landladies to see if they were obeying the housing-bureau ruling.

Coles, a Negro, went to four houses and requested a room. Three houses refused him a room, he said.

Half an hour later a white friend of Coles went to the four houses. At each place, Coles said, the friend was shown a room that was for rent.

Coles asked Williamson if these houses were still approved by the University.

Williamson said the housing bureau had investigated these cases and was not convinced that the facts agreed with Coles' report.

"It's sometimes difficult to establish truth on the evidence available after a thing happens," Williamson said, "but we warned them that if they were discriminating, their houses would be removed from the list of homes that University students can live in."

In answer to a question from a member of the audience, Williamson said the housing bureau makes no inquiry on their questionnaire to landladies about race or religion, "but we send out two people to investigate the rooms for rent and in their conversation they find out if the landlady has any prejudices this way."

Regents to Meet Today

There will be a meeting of the board of regents at 9:30 a.m. today in the regents' room in the Administration building.

STUDENT HOUSING bureau director Mabelle G. McCullough, listens to a complaint from Frances Lowery, arts junior, following yesterday's open meeting of the National Association for Advancement of Colored Peoples. In the background is E. G. Williamson, dean of students, who gave an informal talk at the meeting on University housing policy concerning discrimination. About 35 persons were present.

23 Groups Plan 'Religion' Week

Sponsors of Religion in Life week, which ends tomorrow, are the Ag and Main campus Student Councils of Religion.

Composed of two representatives from each religious group on each campus, the councils are independent of one another.

On Main campus, 16 groups are represented on the council, and on Ag campus seven groups participate.

"One important reason for the councils," Dr. Henry E. Allen, religious coordinator, declared, "is to aid students of diverse faiths to learn to know and understand each other."

Religion in Life week was the first main activity of the councils this year. Some of their later activities will include Brotherhood week and the University Student Day of Prayer.

Advisers to the councils are the Minnesota Councils of Religion, composed of the professional religious workers on both campuses.

Symphony Plays Memorable Concert

By Arnold Rosenberg
Daily Music Critic

Only time will tell, but I think last night's concert by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra is the first since Antal Dorati took over that will leave an enduring impression.

Of the several factors involved, not the least of these was his exquisite reading of the Mozart "Linz" Symphony. This is one of Mozart's finest, boasting one of his most exciting finales, but we had to wait until last night to hear its first performance here.

The sensation of the evening was created by the beautiful Blanche Thebom, mezzo-soprano, who sang with ringing tones and executed her solos only as a great artist could.

Her interpretations of Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer" and "Song of the Wood Dove" from Schoenberg's "Gurre-lieder" were tremendously moving, and she was backed up by some wonderful orchestral playing.

Respighi's "Pines of Rome" provided a roof-raising finale. Despite the excitement and noise of this piece, the excellent performance couldn't shatter the memory of what had preceded it. The program opened with a terse and well-played performance of Beethoven's "Prometheus" Overture.

The audience was super-generous with its applause, and Miss Thebom favored it with two Brahms songs as encores.

Council Order Sets Student Trailer Move

By Bill Chevalier

The University will provide temporary space for about one dozen student-owned house trailers as a result of a Minneapolis city council order.

The order, issued to remove trailers without city permits from private property in the University area, was announced yesterday by the University.

A city ordinance provides for permits with a 60-day limit to be issued for trailers, but these permits cannot be renewed. The permits are issued in accordance with city ordinances concerning minimum standards for water, electric and sanitary facilities.

At present, some students are living in trailers in rented yard-space in southeast Minneapolis.

Complaints to the city council from neighbors of these students resulted in the order to move off the land or face arrest, Frank Pearce, director of men's residences, said.

Following the first announcement of the order, Alderman Glen Wallace had asked the University to find some remedy for the situation.

Pearce agreed yesterday to permit the trailers to be moved to University Village until June.

"But we're not going into the trailer business," he said. "We have been trying to get rid of our own trailers in University Village and we don't want any more."

The University's action is meant only to "alleviate this emergency." No more trailers will be allowed, Pearce added.

Home owners renting space to the students complained earlier today about the council's order.

Mrs. Roberta L. Belois, 316 Walnut street, said the whole issue was caused by habitual "trouble-making" neighbors who reported the trailers to the city council as "eyesores."

Dr. Clair Stresses Service At Religion Week Coffee Hour

By Roger Thompson

Personal decisions in everyday life in relation to their service to mankind were explained at a Religion in Life week coffee hour yesterday in the Ag Union lounge.

"Any vocation that you enter with the idea of making a profit rather than of servicing humanity—to that extent you cease to be a Christian," said Dr. Matthew Clair, main speaker at the coffee hour.

Referring repeatedly to the axiom that a Christian must always think in terms of service, Dr. Clair added that he wasn't suggesting that a person should be indifferent to money.

"I don't say you will not make money, but what I do say is that you put service to your fellow man and to Christ first and you will always become a success in your heart," the minister said.

The Rev. Clair is pastor of St. Mark Methodist church, Chicago. A former army chaplain and professor of practical theology at Gammon seminary, Atlanta, Ga., he holds a degree of doctorate of divinity.

Answering students' questions at the meeting, Dr. Clair explained Christian love in terms of good will. "We have distorted the Christian meaning of the word love by interpreting it as family love," he said.

Spanish Film Series To Open Downtown

Spanish language films will be shown at a downtown theater every Monday, beginning this week, James A. Cuneo, associate professor of Romance languages, said yesterday.

The first movie, "La casa del Recuerdo," will be shown continuously from 4 to 11 p.m. Monday at the Crystal theater, 305 Hennepin avenue.

The series was suggested by the association of high school and college Spanish teachers in the Minneapolis area, Cuneo said.

Zeta Beta Tau To Hold Banquet

A Founders' day banquet will be held by Zeta Beta Tau, academic fraternity, at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Italian room of the Radisson hotel.

A trophy will be given to the active who has done the most to better the fraternity and the University community.

Helping to celebrate the conclusion of the fraternity's first year on campus will be Rabbi Louis Milgrom, director of Hillel foundation, and Jim Borreson, assistant director of the student activities bureau.

'Sombrero Swing' To Be Held in Union

Sombreros, cacti and painted fans will create a Spanish atmosphere for the "Sombrero Swing," from 9 p.m. to midnight today in the Union main ballroom.

Jerry Dibble's band will play and Andi Owens, arts freshman, and his Troubadors of Swing will entertain at intermission.

Cokes will be available in the ballroom annex. Admission to the dance, sponsored by the Union board of governors' Saturday night dance committee, is 70 cents a person.

Center for Continuation Study Offers U's Shortest Courses

By Marlys Bieck

Some of the shortest courses on campus may be taken at the Center for Continuation Study.

Length of classes runs from three days to a full quarter. The subjects on the curriculum range from how to run a resort to fundamentals of investment banking.

Established in 1936, the center is a residence college, specializing in short courses for special students.

Persons who already have received professional, technical and general instruction beyond high school or college have access to further education, Julius M. Nolte, dean of the general extension division, said. The students have the opportunity to live and work together at the center, he added.

Taking the courses are persons who are in the 40- to 60-year-old age group. Registrants who have received advanced degrees are a close second.

The center is where the University makes its teaching program flexible to meet specific, technical and professional needs as they arise, Norman Johnson, director of the center, said.

Complete with its own time schedule, name, curriculum and faculty, the center arranges each course to meet specific needs of its participants.

Lectures are on an hour and one-half basis rather than the usual hour lecture in the various University colleges. Part of the hour is devoted to discussion questions.

Classrooms are comfortable and don't resemble the average school-room, as lectures and discussions are conducted on a round table basis.

Plans, details and blueprints of the center were worked out by Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, former University president. Dr. Coffman was a confirmed believer in adult education as a necessary part of a state university's program.

Geology Coffee Hour

Students and faculty of the geology department will be guests at a coffee hour sponsored by the Union board of governors from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Monday in the Union men's lounge.

A movie, "The Life of the Eskimos—Their Arts and Crafts," will be shown Dec. 3.

Sorority House Mothers To Be Honored at Tea

The Panhellenic association will honor all sorority house mothers at an open house tea which will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday in the Gamma Phi Beta house.

By Mike Soffin
 Sophomore Bob Gelle will be missing from the Minnesota defensive lineup this afternoon when the Gophers conclude their home schedule against Purdue in Memorial stadium.

Kickoff time is 1:30 and a crowd of 45,000 is expected to watch the contest, for which Purdue has been established a six-point favorite.

It was revealed yesterday that Gelle who played linebacker Saturday against Michigan State, has a bone fracture on his right arch and will be out for the remainder of the season. Bob broke his foot in the same place in his senior year in high school. The instep has been troubling him ever since and he missed the Northwestern game earlier because of it.

Purdue too has been forced to make several changes in its starting lineup because of injuries. Regular offensive left half Mike Maccioli will not see action along with No. 1 defensive right tackle Billy Bruner and reserve quarterback Dick Schnaible.

Neil Schmidt will move over from right half to Maccioli's spot today and Earl Heninger will take over at right half.

The Boilermakers arrived by train yesterday morning and held a light workout both indoors and outdoors. The team appeared relaxed as it limbered up.

Minnesota followed Purdue onto the Fieldhouse turf and the Gophers brushed up on their assignments for today's game.

The season records of both teams show a combined victory total of just one. Minnesota has lost six games, while tying Michigan. Purdue has lost six games and boasts only a 28 to 14 victory over Notre Dame earlier in the season.

The hope is that the Gophers will be up mentally for this game. There has been a general desire among the players to win this contest for coach Bernie Bierman, who resigned Monday.

Today will be Dads' day at the stadium and the fathers of team members will form a corridor through which the squad will run when it comes onto the field prior to the kickoff.

Part of the halftime ceremony will be devoted to the presentation of gifts to Bierman by friends, alumni and M club members.

Smith Gets 3-Year Pact

The football contract of head coach Clyde Smith was extended for a three-year period by a vote of Indiana university's board of trustees yesterday.

Illini Shoot For Bowl Bid Against Ohio

CHICAGO—(UP)—Illinois risks its hopes for a second trip to the Rose Bowl in five years against favored Ohio State today. Only a top flight performance by an inspired Illini team seems capable of turning in the upset.

Ohio State, beaten only in its opening contest when Southern Methodist rallied in the final period for a 32 to 27 decision, has rolled to five straight Big Ten wins and six victories in a row while setting a record-breaking scoring pace.

Illinois, with an identical record over the season, has lost one of four Big Ten games, a 7 to 6 decision to Wisconsin. The Buckeyes beat Wisconsin 19 to 14 last week. Illinois is a six and one-half point underdog today.

Both teams enter the game with a major backfield player on the doubtful list because of ankle injuries. The Illini's Johnny Karras has been out of two games and still has a noticeable limp. Buckeye quarterback Tony Currello also is a questionable starter.

The Illinois-Ohio State clash, at Champaign, will be played before an expected capacity crowd of 71,119. The contest headlines a three-game conference schedule.

Cowles to Have Deep First Team

By Scott Nelson

Ozzie Cowles likes to think of his first team as consisting of more than five men.

And he might very well have that kind of team this season. With forward Maynard Johnson and guard Roger Schnobrich replacing Dick Means and Art Anderson as starters within the last two weeks, it is apparent that Cowles has more than five men he can rely upon. Cowles had planned on Means and Anderson as starters ever since late last summer.

It isn't that Means and Anderson have disappointed the Gopher coach, but just that Schnobrich and Johnson have proved they're still in the fight for starting spots they held last year.

Guard Glenn Mattke, forward Bill Holmes and center Bill Bliss, now on the second five, are three more cagers expected to see plenty of action this season.

Cowles sent the squad through a long scrimmage yesterday with the first team pulling away from the second after the scoring was even most of the way.

Bob Gelle, promising cager, who has come up with a fractured right arch in football, watched practice with a cast on his foot.

With the cast not expected to come off for three to six weeks, Gelle may be lost at least until the Big Ten season begins Jan. 6.

Tom Bergstedt, former Gopher cager, will help assistant coach Joe Vancisin with the freshman team this year.

Ex-Gopher Faunce Has 6-2 Record as Coach

Ev Faunce, former Minnesota halfback, compiled a six and two record coaching Minot State college this fall.

Faunce, one of the Big Ten's best backs in 1948, was in his first year of coaching. His team scored 168 points to its opponents' 77 over the season.

Violation Gives Sigma Chi All-U Touchball Crown

Sigma Chi was crowned the all-University intramural touchball champion last night when it was discovered that No Names, the independent league champion, used several ineligible players.

Intramural director W. R. Smith said that players on the No Names were also playing for the Pioneer House XII team which won the dorm league championship.

Under the intramural eligibility rules no player may participate in the same sport with two teams, and if the rule is violated, all games in which he plays for both teams will be forfeited.

"Therefore Sigma Chi is the all-University champion," said Smith, and there will be no official independent or dorm league champion this year."

Larry Wilson scored his second TKO in as many days yesterday as the stage was set for the finals of the Contenders boxing tournament.

Walt Wick was the victim of Wilson's two-pronged attack—a smart left jab and a straight right hand. The first round of the 155-pound bout was fairly even as was part of the second. But about 20 seconds before the end of the second round, Wilson connected with a series of hard rights in quick succession.

Wick was still on his feet after absorbing the punishment in the far corner but coach Ray Chisholm ordered the referee to stop the fight. Wick seemed to be more amazed at having the fight stopped than hurt from Wilson's blows as he made the long walk back to his own corner.

Only three fights have failed to go the distance in the tournament thus far and Wilson has been responsible for two of them.

After less than two rounds against Wick and a one-round TKO over Bob Worrath Thursday, Wilson is in the finals.

In the other half of the senior welterweight division yesterday, Pete Lee earned a finals spot with a close decision over Bob Illies.

The fight was decided in the final round when Lee caught Illies flat-footed in the center of the ring and landed enough solid blows to turn the decision "Leadward."

Gene White, who never had a fight before entering the Contenders, won his second straight yesterday, decisioning Bob Teitenberg in the heavyweight class.

The raw-boned 190-pound athlete landed consistently with his left and also planted some damaging rights on Teitenberg's jaw. Teitenberg made a game comeback after absorbing a terrific right in the second round but couldn't overcome White's advantage.

In the 130-pound class, Jim Benson advanced into the finals with a win over his rangier opponent, Roy Olson. Maurice Durkee gained the welterweight finals by decisioning Don Lilienthal.

The finals in seven divisions will be held Tuesday in the main ballroom of the St. Paul hotel in conjunction with a meeting of the Minneapolis and St. Paul Rotary clubs.

Romnes Gets Into Injury 'Spotlight'

Most of the attention was focused upon coach Doc Romnes yesterday as the Minnesota hockey squad completed its third week of workouts in Williams arena.

Romnes injured a knee late in the drill when struck just above and behind his left knee by a 13-foot puck shot.

A quick trip to the trainer brought about a cold pack treatment, and the assurance the injury wasn't of a serious nature.

It marked the second time this season Romnes had been struck on the knee by a puck. Earlier he had taken a shot off the boards on the right shin.

Junior center Russ Strom joined the growing list of Gopher ice casualties, too, when he suffered a gashing chin wound during a high stick melee around the goal.

Two stitches were required to patch up the cut, but Strom returned to the ice again and resumed his center spot on the Duluth line.

Romnes thought he could direct practice again Monday.
