FRENCH PROFESSOR AT LAST GIVEN FREEDOM

Jules Frelin Receives Notice of His Release from Military Duty in France.

Jules Frelin is no longer a citizen of France, and according to the French government has never been its citizen.

When interviewed, Professor Frelin said, "With three countries, a few weeks past, I find myself in danger of having more. The University of Minnesota will have an example of 'The Man without a Country.'"

The following letters have been received from Paris by Professor Frelin:

American Embassy, Paris.

Jan. 12, 1910.

Mr. Jules Frelin,
care of the University,
Minneapolis, Minn., U. S. A.

Sir:
I am directed by the Ambassador to send you herewith a copy of the letter received from the Minister of Foreign Affairs with reference to your nationality.

As you will observe, no trace having been found of your "option," you are considered as having lost your French citizenship, as a consequence of the treaty of Frankfort.

I am, Sir,
Your Obedient servant,
C. J. Bailly-Blanchard,
Secretary.

His Excellence,
Monsieur Henry White,
Ambassador of the United States to Paris.

Monsieur the Ambassador:
The 20th of last August you wished to call my attention to the situation in reference to military service in France of Jules Frelin, born the 13th of March, 1870 at Romagley (ht. Rhine), who became a naturalized American, the 22nd of December 1896.

I have the honor of informing you that after making a search, especially in the archives of the Ministry of Justice, that in those of the city of Belfast, there has not been found any record of a declaration of application for option in the name of the aforesaid, who must be considered as having lost the French citizenship by the Treaty of Frankfort.

In consequence Monsieur the Guard of Sceaux has informed the Minister of War of the situation.

Agreeably, etc., etc.,
Paris, December, 29, 1909.

S. Pinchou.

Professor Frelin says that, although his case has been dismissed because of failure to find this document, that he has seen it and knows it is there. If, however, the French Government arrested him without this proof of his citizenship, his arrest was illegal and he will have some fun at the expense of the French.

ENGINEERS' CLUB LECTURES.

Mr. Gillman will give a lecture on the "Requisites of Successful Engineering." February 10 in 311 Folwell, under the auspices of the Engineers' Club.

Chas. Pillsbury will lecture on the Stillwater Prison in Physics Hall, February 24.

TRIALS FOR "PROF AND PRINCESS" TOMORROW

Tryout for Principals and Chorus People Will be Held by Competent Judges.

Tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock the trials for the big Minnesota Union opera are to be held in chapel. It is desired that every one with any vocal talent be there to try out. Because one has not before been identified with some musical organization around school is no reason why they can not take part in this all-men's production.

The cast is large and includes so great a variety of parts that one can probably be found to fit each one's peculiar talents. Particularly is the piece rich in comedy parts and anyone able to play such a role should offer their services. In some of the comic parts especial musical ability is unnecessary.

In addition to the large number of principals required, three large choruses are needed, composed of broilers, fillers and show girls.

As soon as the parts are filled, rehearsals will begin, but they will progress slowly enough to allow those taking part, sufficient time to keep their studies up to the mark.

Wm. Norton, Professor Carlyle Scott, Miss Malcolm and E. M. Allen, the author, are the judges, so that everyone is assured of competent and impartial consideration.

ACCOUNTANT BREN LAYS DOWN THE LAW ON FINES

Monday Broke All Previous Records for Cash Receipts—Many Delinquent Still.

"Students are not registered until their fees are paid and the registrar checks off the receipt for the fees. Most students think that handing in a program is registering, but this is done merely to make it possible to issue a statement for the fees," Mr. Bren said yesterday.

Over $56,000 has been taken in for fees during the last ten days, but there are still a great many who have not paid. On Monday, Jan. 24th, over one thousand students paid their fees Mr. Bren said, and, that twice as many students paid their fees in one day than had ever done so before. The faculty made a new rule this year, raising the fine from late registration from 25c to $1.00. The fine increases 25c each day. For academic students, Jan. 24th was the last day, and Jan 25th was the last day for Engineers, Miners, and Chemists.

From 3,500 to 3,700 have registered up to date, from all colleges except Law. The latter paid their "term" fees just after New Years.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEMBERSHIP FULL.

Already enough names have been handed in to the new college Commercial Club to fill up the limited number, so no more men will be considered.

A meeting will be held today at 4 o'clock, in 20 Library Building to elect officers.

CAMPUS CAROUSAL

Faculty and Students Mingle in Merry Making at Shevlin—Old Rubber Price of Admission.

"Rubber, Rubber, who has a rubber?" One old rubber, or two rubbers, if anyone was so generously disposed, was the price demanded by admittance to the campus carousal given by the Equal Suffrage League in Shevlin Hall last night. One could forget to bring the necessary old rubber, but rather than miss the fun she took off her perfectly good, brand new tan rubbers and handed them over to the rubber-man at the door. But e'er long the pile of rubbers grew so alarmingly large that there was scarcely room for both guests and rubbers, therefore late-comers were admitted free.

Valentines had been sent out to all the members of the faculty beforehand announcing the carousal, so a goodly number of professors turned out to frolic with the students. Everyone found the kind of fun which most appealed to his particular taste. For those who would dance there was dancing, for those who would be entertained there was a free vaudeville, and for those who would know the future, Astro and Astrella told fortunes for a penny a minute. Some men, that they might have a longer time to gaze into the deep dreamy, liquid eyes of Astrella, paid as high as fifteen cents for their fortunes.

But the most fun was the auction when students and profs enthusiastically tried to out-bid each other for a splendid autograph portrait of President Northrop, an autograph book by Dicky Burton, a picture by Miss Clopath, four Northwestern book store posters, and all kinds of home-made pies and cakes, such as mother used to make.

The lottery, in which the professor of the lucky number drew a beautiful blanket pennant from Wilson's the noble cause of Equal Suffrage. Candy, made by the co-eds themselves, was sold at one booth, and appealed so strongly to the masculine appetite that the demand far exceeded the supply. All who attended the carousal declared that they had the time of their young lives, that the fun was well worth the price of many old rubbers.

J. B. SIGNS ARE EVIDENT.

Elaborately waver heads of hair on the part of the fair feminines, and an unaccustomed, economical tendency on the part of the hardy masculines points to the fact that only a few days remain before the juniors will make their contribution to the social history of the University.

Even the excitement over programs is over and there remains but the lull before the storm. Moments of indecision come over gloves, flowers and ties and the agony of those tardy swains who have neglected to engage their cabs is unrivalled even by the agony of our worst final exams or the appearance of our first blue slips.

Sidney M. Owen, regent of the University of Minnesota, died yesterday morning at his home, 1776 Knox Avenue. S. He had been sick for some time of a protracted illness due to valular disease of the heart.

Mr. Owen was first appointed a member of the Board of Regents of the University in 1893, serving until 1901. He was reappointed by Governor Johnson in 1905 for a term ending in 1913. Mr. Owen was also an active member of the state forestry board, and at the time of his death was an editor of Farm, Stock, and Home. In 1890 Mr. Owen was the candidate of the People's party for governor, and again in 1894. Both years he received unprecedented vote for a third party candidate.

In connection with the work of Mr. Owen as a University regent, he was particularly interested in agricultural subjects and much of his time as a regent was given to the upbuilding of the agricultural college.

With his death the University as well as the state loses a man and a citizen of the very best type.

GIRLS' CAMPAIGN BANQUET

Henrietta Randenbush has charge of All-College Gathering of Girls to Talk Campaign Plans.

Similar to the banquet of college men on the first night of the campaign, Feb. 15, there will be a big banquet for college women of all classes and departments on the same night, at Dayton's Tea Rooms.

Dean Comstock is to preside over the toasts, and many well known women, including Miss Louise Holmquist, a national secretary from New York, will be present and will talk.

The attendance will be limited to three hundred and fifty girls, and tickets will be placed on sale today for 50c apiece. They may be obtained from members of the Y. W. C. A., or campaign committee.

Henrietta Randenbush is in general charge of arrangements.

In connection with the campaign, the homes of many of the faculty women have been opened to groups of girls that they may discuss the campaign and meet each other in a social way.

The Bishop Gilbert Society entertained at an informal dancing party, Monday evening at St. Mark's Guild.

Collars and Cuffs That You'll Like To Wear

You'll like to wear the collars and cuffs we launder. They are given a pure white color, are starched to just the stiffness that makes them hold their shape yet be pliable, are ironed with a perfect domestic finish,—and shaped just exactly as they were designed to be by the makers.

Collars we have laundered all have smooth, velvet-like edges.

CAPTAIN BUTTS COMMENTS.

The high rank given the Minnesota Cadet Corps by the War Department speaks well for the institution, and too great credit cannot be given Captain Sigerfoos and the cadet corps for the efficiency and spirit shown last spring. The cadets should understand, however, that, if the plans for target practice at Fort Snelling and other practical work are carried out, it may not be possible to make so good a showing at the next inspection. It was not known last year that a rating was to be made, but if the plan is continued it may be productive of more harm than good in the future. Under the present system of one-day inspections it is impossible for the inspector to determine the real internal spirit of a corps, and the value of the work done through the entire year. Each inspector visits but a portion of the colleges in the country and at the end of the season the several inspectors get together and compare notes on their brief inspections. Under this plan the tendency will be to train each corps to put up a good front on inspection day, regardless of the practical instruction which is really the most valuable part of the work. This is especially true in Class B. colleges, where only three hours per week are given to drill. A corps which does the practical work will be obliged to neglect the formations which show up on inspection day.

The object of the War Department in conducting military work in the colleges is to give the cadets such training as would make them available as officers of infantry in the national guard and volunteers in time of war. Experience in outdoor encampment, with target practice, is absolutely essential to such training. This work has never been undertaken at Minnesota, although it is provided for at some other universities. The best instruction the cadets could receive would be a week in camp at Fort Snelling, where they would have target practice on the range, learn the camp routine and principles of sanitation, and see the practical side of a soldier's life. If this work were done it would probably mean the sacrifice of half a semester's drill. The cadets should therefore understand that if they have target practice at Fort Snelling this spring and next fall, as arranged for, the show parts of drill may suffer a little and the corps may not look so good to an inspector, but the cadets individually will feel more competent than they look.

MINNESOTA PLAYS IOWA BASKETBALL TEAM TONIGHT

Gopher Squad Left Last Night for Iowa City—Go to Madison Next.

Last night at 7:30 the varsity basketball bouncers departed for their battle with the corn-fed Hawkeyes, which takes place tonight at Iowa City. All the men left in good condition, and were pleasantly excited at the prospect of eating on a real dining car. Dr. Cooke has placed a seventy-five cent limit on all orders, however, so that there is no danger of anyone overeating.

The train arrives at Iowa City this morning, and will spend the day in recuperating from the effects of the journey. Following tonight's game, the Gophers depart for Madison where they will meet the Badgers on their own feeding grounds, next Saturday evening. After the Wisconsin game Dr. Cooke will bring them home again, and begin a strenuous preparation for the Maroon contest.

The injury "hoodoo," which has been quiescent for a time, is again on the warpath and this time George Foster is the unfortunate victim. George was one of the most promising candidates on the basketball squad, but will probably be unable to play any more this season.

Wrestlers are active just now and are working hard in preparation for an all-University tournament. No definite plans for this event have as yet been decided on but there is much interest in the game and the affair will undoubtedly be a success.

book is very clever and there has been much comedy injected that brings it up to the moment. The costuming of the second act is gorgeous and throughout the entire production there is an atmosphere of class that is going to contribute much to the character of the audiences that will fill The Alhambra Theatre this week. The big chorus of stunning-looking girls with voices to commend them as well as figures and faces, is an important feature of the production and besides them there is a male department with good singing capacities to their credit."

Ever since the preliminary announcement of the coming of this big production inquiry at the box office of the theatre has been almost incessant, and the advance orders for seats have been unusually large. This would seem to indicate that "The Gay Musician" is going to add another success to its list. The management of the theatre announce that the prices for this attraction will be the same as usual. Tickets purchased from speculators on sidewalk will not be honored at the door, and only a limited number will be sold to one person.

ATHLETIC BOARD ELECTION.

Annual election of the Athletic Association will take place Friday evening, Feb. 12th, 8:15 P. M., in Armory. The annual financial report will be read and the following offices are to be filled:

President, vice-president, Academic representative, medic representative, 1 year; secretary, engineering representative, 2 years.

Every male student in the University is eligible to vote at this election. The students' directory will be used as the voting list and any student not listed therein will be required to present registration slip at polling place in order to vote.

Any amendment to constitution to be voted upon at this meeting, must be published in the Minnesota Daily for at least one week before meeting.

SENIOR GIRLS PAY UP!

Senior girls are requested to pay for their class pins before the week is over, as the committee is required to make a deposit with the jeweler in Chicago, before the pins will be made.

The order has been placed with the George Marshall company, and it is necessary that the pins be paid for immediately if they are to be finished this spring.

THE GAY MUSICIAN

Attracting Large Crowds at the Lyric.

Music lovers of Minneapolis will be pleased to learn, that, after waiting patiently for nearly two seasons, they will have the opportunity of witnessing John P. Slocum's presentation of Julian Edwards' comic opera triumph, "The Gay Musician," which opened an engagement for one week at the Lyric Theatre last Sunday evening.

Here is what Mr. Batwell, dramatic critic of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, had to say about this opera when it was presented in that city a few weeks ago.

"THE GAY MUSICIAN" "A RIOT AT THE ALHAMBRA."

"A house that for numbers and measure of approval expressed will go on record at the Alhambra, gathered last night to add indorsement to the claim that is made by the management that "The Gay Musician," as presented by the John P. Slocum company, is about the best thing of its kind seen in Seattle, unless you go way back in your date book. Everything and everybody came in for a big measure of approval and the unusual happened when they raised the curtain on the finale of the last act and sang "Lovelight" again just because the people had not had enough of it. The Julian Edwards music is splendidly put together and splendidly interpreted. The
