SEASON TICKETS READY

Be Economical, Buy One Now and See Every Game -- Don't Delay Until too Late--Nine Games for Five Dollars

Season tickets are still on sale. Every man is expected to do his duty and his plain duty is to buy a ticket. Nor is it the duty of the men only, but of the women as well. There is nothing so inspiring to a football player as the cheers of his female friends, and there is nothing so healthful and invigorating as a short time spent in lusty shouting. Let every one buy who can possibly do so. Cut the theatre and some other amusements and buy a season ticket. We must support the football team. There is no shirking our duty along that line. Every student will go to at least four games during the season, and then if the association finds it necessary to call on you for another dollar you won't refuse it. That makes the five dollars. Take it now and buy a ticket. Take in all the games, help out the association, enjoy yourself and when we carry off the championship next fall proudly say to yourself, "I helped them do it."

Every Freshman wants a ticket for your course is not complete without it. It is as necessary as the receipt for your registration fee. You know you are to meet the Madison Freshmen this fall. You know you must win. The University expects it. The faculty expects. Prexy expects it. Buy your ticket and help all you can. You can well afford to give a little of your money if the football boys can give so much of their time. Buy now and get it off your mind. Go to the manager and he will tell you all about it. Do what you are expected to do and the act will be a source of joy and pride to you during the entire fall.

THE UNIVERSITY BAND

Director Rose met the band boys for the first time Saturday afternoon. The outlook was especially fine, and the University will be sure of a good band again this year. Twenty-one old members were on hand and enough new material to make up several bands. As the supply of instruments is limited some of the aspirants for positions will be put through a weeding out process, and only the best will secure positions. There were 16 slide trombone players seeking positions and only eight instruments to be had. There were cornetists galore, who were looking for instruments and a chance to display their musical ability.

Nine more players who have had considerable experience will return this week, as soon as the medical department opens.

Manager Rose wishes to impress upon the minds of all the players that they are to be on hand during the entire year, not merely during football and baseball seasons and then fall out. Certainly all who have heard the concerts in chapel last year second in the strongest terms these remarks of Mr. Rose. We need the band and the entire band during the winter and early spring, as well as during the seasons when free tickets are in vogue. The vast crowds which the band concerts draw must repay the boys in part for their hours spent in practice.

One thing is certain we want a good band to go to Madison this year, and we want the boys to be on hand at every practice. That is the only way that a band can be secured which will be a credit to the institution.

The next practice will be held Wednesday night at the band room in the armory at 7:30. Any new applicants can meet the director at 7:15 in the band room.

HIGH TRIBUTE TO DR. WILLIAMS

A dispatch to the Chicago Record-Herald, from New Haven, Conn., contains a high tribute to the skill of Dr. Williams. Yale is looking for a coach, and this is what the Chicago Record-Herald's correspondent has to say:

"Yale men would be glad to get for a coach this fall Henry L. Williams, half back in '91. It was Mr. Williams' tackle and back formations which gave Yale her victory last fall, and it was the same play by Mr. Williams as coach at the University of Minnesota which gave that eleven a claim to the western championship."

"The question of head coach is at present undecided. Gordon Brown, last year's captain, was expected to be on the lines, but his uncle, J. P. Morgan, in whose office he now is, will not allow him to desert his business for the football gridiron. It is probable that Yale will have to look farther than Minnesota, however, for a coach."

Y. W. C. A. RECEPTION

The Y. W. C. A. were hostesses Saturday afternoon at a reception given to the young women of the University, from 2 to 5 o'clock. The '05 girls were in attendance and became acquainted both with members of their own class and those of the upper classes. The room was tastefully decorated, and presented a beautiful appearance. A guessing contest was the amusement of the afternoon, and that, together with the musical selections, formed a very interesting program. Lemonade and wafers were served.

SATURDAY'S GAME

Both Teams Show up well. Rooters Much Encouraged by their Work. Score 12-0

Many football enthusiasts came out Saturday to see what sort of men were out to represent Minnesota this fall. No one cared very much for the game in itself. It was of little importance who won. The rooters looked over the material, found out what old players were out again, got a line on the style of playing, then looked happy and wise as they expressed their opinion that everything looked promising.

During the first half there was no score. The ball was in the second team's territory a greater part of the time, but the offensive work was ragged so neither team was certain of gaining ground. The defensive work was better on the part of both teams. The Varsity team found themselves up against a stone wall many times and were forced to leave the line alone.

In the second half Dr. Williams succeeded in waking up the first team somewhat. They went at it in the old style and pounded their way through the opposing tackles for a touchdown. Shortly afterwards Thorpe made a 25-yard run for a second touchdown. Knowlton kicked both goals, making the final score 12 to 0.

Dobie, La Fans, Mueller, and Knowlton, of last year's team, were in the line up. Page played center for the second team and captained them. Without doubt Page will be in the game again this fall. We all know what it means to find Page in his old position as center when it is recognized that he is the best man in that position in the middle west. It is reported that Johnnie Flynn will be on hand again. We need the little fellow back again in his old position and we want him right away. Fee's relatives tell us that he will return soon, so we may expect to see him back again in his old position again at left tackle. Aune will be in the game and will make the eighth member of last year's team who will be seen on the gridiron again this year.

Rogers, last year's captain of the Carlisle Indians, will prove a valuable man. He is an Indian clear through, but plays ball with all the vim and dash of his white companions. He breaks up end runs with a ferocity that carries terror to his opponents. Liggett and O'Brien, of St. Paul, showed up well. Irsfield, just at the end of the second half got around Bidlake's end and made a run of 35 yards, bringing the ball within 10 yards of the Varsity's goal.

Evans, Thorpe, Bidlake, Boeckman, McDonald, did good work. Just how these men will develop we cannot say at present. They are not yet up to the Varsity standard, but they haven't had time yet to show just what they can do. Each man will have to hurry, for no position is filled with certainty as yet. There is a chance for every man and a position

High Schools and the Daily

The DAILY would like to renew its request of last year that at each high school of the state there be appointed someone as reporter for the DAILY who will send in the results of all contests in which his school takes part. A postal card addressed to the DAILY with the names of the contesting schools and the scores is all that is desired. The DAILY wants not only the results of football games, but of all interscholastic contests, whether in athletics, debate or whatnot, and such reports will be published in the first issue after receiving them.

More Room

There is great necessity for more room for the classes taking work in the department of English. The lecture room is over-crowded. Every seat is filled. The aisles are blocked with chairs. The walls are covered with students clinging to every projecting point and ledge, hoping against hope that a larger room may be forthcoming.

We do not wish to make too many suggestions, but it does not seem hardly proper to sit quietly by and see Dr. Burton try to accommodate two hundred students in a room intended for only a hundred. We know just how pleasant for the students for we have been there ourselves.

As this is the only chance for the Seniors to take this work, would it be more than right for them to be given the preference? Can't some arrangement be made whereby we can have use of a larger lecture room, or even chapel hall?

We urge prompt action on the part of some one in authority.

Dr. Burton why don't you invite in the Board of Regents? Give them a chance to sit comfortably for an hour on those book shelves, and then calmly await results and a larger lecture room. We trust that something may be done in the near future to give all a chance to take this work with Dr. Burton, and that the crowded condition may be removed.

PRESIDENT NORTROP ON PRESIDENT MCKINLEY

Saturday, in chapel hall, Pres. Northrop spoke a short time on the topic which was uppermost in the minds of all loyal Americans—the death of President McKinley. Every student was present, and all listened intently to the words of the President. He said:

"I have deemed it best not to suspend the work of the University this morning on account of the death of President McKinley. The day of the funeral has not yet been determined upon, but whenever it is we shall undoubtedly be found in sympathy with the rest of the nation and shall join in the observances of the day. President McKinley is dead—shot down by the bullet of an assassin aimed not at him as a man, but at him as president of our republic; the representative of law and order and of organized government. Three presidents have now been assassinated—Lincoln, by the bullet of a man infuriated by the defeat of a cause in which he was deeply interested; Garfield, by the bullet of a political crank inflamed by personal anger at the president by reason of disappointment in political advancement,—but McKinley, in a time of profound peace and prosperity, in a time when it would seem the angels of God might have proclaimed peace on earth and good will to men, without any personal enmity to himself, has been struck down simply because he represented the people of the country in the maintenance of government. And how long shall these things go on? How long shall the American people permit their highest officials to be assassinated by the hands of those who openly proclaim anarchy and disorder? Shall not something be done that will make it impossible for those who proclaim hostility to our government and practice anarchy, even to breathe the air of this free republic? Will not the American people drive them from their land?

Multitudes of people will mourn for President McKinley because they loved and honored him as a man, and every true-hearted American will mourn for him because he was the lawful president of the country and was assassinated because he was the representative of law and order."

The Y. M. C. A. reception Saturday night was attended by over 150 men. The program for the evening had been changed, and after a touching address on President McKinley by Dean Pattee the time was spent in singing patriotic songs and in quiet conversation.

The first meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the association room and those present enjoyed a good talk by Miss Edith Foulke, '02, president of the association, and a vocal solo by Miss Hejen Currier, '02.

Callahan—What are you? An academic?

M. W. Bockman has just received a silver medal from the W. I. A. A., as a reward for taking second place in the 120-yard hurdles at the Chicago meet in June. He has also been granted a special gold medal for breaking the western record in the 220-yard hurdles, but will not receive it for some time, as a special die had to be made for it. Bockman broke the record in his trial heat, but fell in the finals, and so did not get a place in the event which was 2-5 of a second slower than his record—25 seconds.

Conditioned Students

The Y. M. C. A. Educational department announces that classes will be organized in Higher Algebra, Caesar, Solid Geometry, History, Virgil, Physics. Registration for these classes will be begun Tuesday, Sept. 17, at Y. M. C. A. building. These classes will be organized Tuesday, Sept. 24. If more classes are found necessary they will also be organized.

The first regular meeting of the Minerva literary society will be held this evening at 7:00 o'clock sharp. All members are especially urged to be present.
—By Order of the President.

ALUMNI

The engagement is announced of Miss Elizabeth Mathes, academic, '92, and William H. Merriman, instructor of the mechanical engineering department of the University.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrist are living in Paris, where he is employed by the Deering Harvester company, as general agent. He writes that their little boy talks French like other little Parisians, and that a little daughter has recently come to bless their home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Talcott Hooker announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Loomis Hooker, academic, '07, and Frederick Melvin Bailey, of Waseca, Minn. The marriage of Miss Hooker and Mr. Bailey will be quietly solemnized in September.

English Seminars

I will form the Senior seminar at the second hour next Thursday in my regular recitation room, No. 11, Library building. I will meet those wishing to join the Graduate Seminar on Journalism next Friday at the third hour, in the same place. The Senior seminar subject this year will be: The English Ode.
Richard Burton.

Secretaries—Notice

The DAILY will print every Wednesday the programs of the literary societies. In order to have them appear in this issue the secretaries of the different societies must hand them in not later than Tuesday noon.

Notice—Stamp Collectors

There will be a meeting of the Minneapolis Stamp Collectors Society at the Y. M. C. A. building, 10th St. and Mary place, on Tuesday evening, Sept. 17th. Any University students who are interested in the hobby will be welcome.

COLLEGE WORLD

Bronze busts of Washington and Lee were presented to the University at the Washington and Lee commencement exercises.

Nebraska plays Princeton football. Wisconsin uses the same style. Nebraska will give us a taste of what we may expect when we meet Wisconsin.

Coach Purington, of Bates college, Maine, has arrived at Northfield, and is giving the Carleton football team some hard practice. It is reported that Carleton has fair football prospects this season. The new athletic field is not yet completed, but the work is progressing rapidly.

The Carlisle Indian band from the Carlisle Indian school at Carlisle, Pa., is giving free concerts at the Pan-American exposition. The members of the band are full-blooded Indians, with the single exception of the conductor, Lieut. Joel B. Ettinger. It is a splendid organization, composed as it is of 45 well-trained musicians. They have a magnificent complement of band instruments and are handsomely uniformed in red fatigue coats with wide black band trimming and gold ornamentations, red and black fatigue caps and dark blue trousers with wide black stripes down the sides.

Attention is called to a framed photograph which has been placed in the office of President Northrop during the summer. The photograph was made last Memorial Day, in Paris. It is the custom of Americans in Paris to decorate the grave of Lafayette upon Memorial Day each year. The photograph shows the grave of Lafayette and a number of the leaders who have service in charge. The central figure is General Horace Porter, delivering the memorial address. The photograph was presented by Charles M. Andrist, academic, '94, formerly an instructor in the University.

"Jack" Harrison, a former gridiron hero and captain of the team for two years, has returned to the North Dakota Agricultural College at Fargo, where he will begin his duties for the second time as football coach.

NEBRASKA AT WORK

The Football Squad at Lincoln in Fine Condition. The Rooters Confident

Nebraska has followed the example set by Minnesota, and has spent two weeks in hard out-door training near South Bend, 40 miles east of Lincoln, on the Platte river. Ideal weather, an ideal camp and brilliant prospects for a strong team this year have filled the corn-huskers with great hope that they will make their mark on the gridiron this fall.

Coach Booth is with the team again this year. His confidence in the team knows no bounds. He considers that the team will be an improvement even over a veteran team and does not hesitate to express his opinion to the athletic authorities at the University of Nebraska.

Eight of the members of last year's team were present with the squad at South Bend. Upon these eight men the corn-huskers place their hopes of trailing Minnesota in the dust this fall. Eight veterans are a wonderful foundation upon which to build up a winning team. Capt. Westover, right tackle; Ringer, right guard; Koehler, center; Cortelyou and Ryan, ends; Bender and Crandell, half backs, will face the Gophers again this fall. Seven substitutes were also at the camp. They were selected from the best of last year's second team and the most promising of the new material.

Stringer, a veteran of '97, and '98, is out again. His old position is at end where he won great honor during the two years that he played. He has just returned after an absence of two years heavier and stronger than ever. There will be at least 200 pounds of Mr. Stringer to be found on one end of Nebraska's team. Kingsbury, of the '98 team, has been trying for full back, but will probably be put in the line as tackle, his old position. This will push Brew, last year's captain over to the position of guard. Shedd, for four years a player on the Lincoln high school team, will try for end. Dram, last year's quarter will probably return at the opening of the school year.

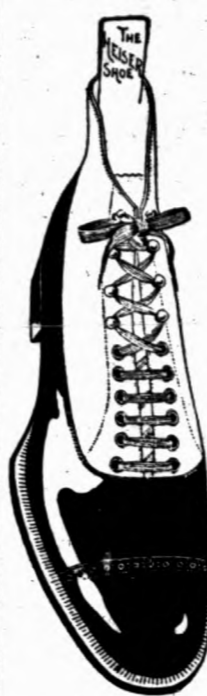

The first game of the season will be played next week with the Lincoln high school.

Well, Mr. Booth, bring up your veterans. We will be glad to see them any time.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting Sunday afternoon was largely attended especially by the new men. After the address by Mr. Grace and a beautiful solo by Miss Thompson, registration for Bible study was begun, and it is believed that over 200 names will be enrolled this year. A short business meeting followed for the purpose of electing a president in the place of W. E. Moyer, who does not return, and a law vice-president to take J. W. Graham's place. U. S. Duncan, '02, was elected president and W. A. Rice, law, vice-president.
