UMC Men's Basketball Hosts Third Annual Junior Eagle Day

CROOKSTON, Minn. – The University of Minnesota Crookston men's basketball program held their third annual Junior Eagle Day Sat., Nov. 19. The Golden Eagles would put on a clinic in partnership with the Crookston Youth Basketball Association. Minnesota Crookston had 55 participants in the camp, continuing a tradition of good turnouts from the community after 60 last year and 50 the first year of the clinic.

"I am very happy with the turnout for our Junior Eagle Day," said UMC Head Men's Basketball Coach Dan Weisse. "It is fun for me as a coach to see the interaction between our players and the youngsters in the community. This was just a great experience for everyone involved. A special thank you goes out to the CYBA for helping make this happen. We look forward to continue to get out in the community and impact young people in a positive way."

Participants in the youth clinic received instruction from the Golden Eagle coaches and players. They did skill sessions and drills with the staff and players at Lysaker Gymnasium.
