

INDECISION AND CONFUSION showing in every line, Roy K. Erickson, SLA senior, studies the teletype machine for the latest on the college deferment plan situation. Virginia Murphy, SLA junior, stands by to give him a fond and tearful farewell, as Henry Hoover, SLA junior, prepares a hearty welcome to the ancient and honorable fraternity of soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines.

Clarified Again New Deferment Plan May Not Hold After '51

Another federal group got into the "clarification" act in regard to the recently-announced draft deferment plan for college students yesterday.

The manpower policy committee of the office of defense mobilization ruled that all able-bodied young men will be subject to the draft eventually, regardless of the new plan. The committee especially emphasized that the deferment plan merely gave postponements of military service; that "no man is exempted from the obligation to serve" after the temporary deferments expire.

The committee said further that the present plan has no authority past 1951, and that it therefore does not set deferment standards for any period beyond the academic year starting next fall.

In addition, the present plan does not apply to this June's high school graduates.

A long-term program, the committee said, one that would extend past 1951, will have to wait on passage of the draft bill now being debated in the house of representatives, and more particularly, on the provisions for universal military training contained in that bill.

VA Announces Med Vet Ruling

Veterans in the medical school will be required to attend the first summer session this year, according to a recent VA ruling received by the bureau of veterans affairs.

This ruling applies only to vets discharged from service before July 25, 1947. The VA regards the period April 2 to July 28, 1951 as one instruction unit, and the undergraduate medical student must be training during that period to return under the GI bill fall quarter.

Interpretation of this rule is based on the VA regulation in reference to training on and after the deadline date July 25, 1951. Vets may contact the bureau of veterans affairs in Shevlin hall for further information.

April Showers

Cloudy, clammy weather is expected to continue today with a high of 45 degrees predicted for Minneapolis. April showers which started last night may continue today.

His 'First Offense' But Library Fine Was $98.50

By Bob Klaverkamp

Library fines at the University usually are very inconsequential. They are not usually included in the student's financial budget.

But for one University freshman they are a more important part of his budget than his fee statement.

His library bill for the month of March came to $98.50 . . . for one bound volume of the Saturday Review of Literature.

Robert Kolstad, SLA freshman, took out the Saturday Review of Literature volume in December. He was using it to write a composition essay on the "Duties of A Goal-tender in Hockey."

He forgot to return it to the Library's periodical room. After three months time, during which Kolstad didn't get to his Postoffice box in the Union, he received a postcard at his fraternity house informing him that he had a book overdue at the Library.

Kolstad said, "I forgot all about the Saturday Reviews of Literature." After a frantic search through the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity house, he found them in the Phi Gam library.

"I decided I might just as well return the volume right away," Kolstad said, "and so I walked over to the Library."

"The guy behind the desk in the periodical room told me my bill was $98.50. This didn't particularly bother me because I couldn't even bring myself to imagine a bill of $98."

Kolstad said he didn't even start worrying until the librarian said he would let the bill go at $50. "Then I really got worried. $50—I could comprehend that figure. 'Holy gads,' I said to myself. 'I'm in trouble now.'"

Elated, Kolstad said he got the librarian down to $10. It was my business finesse," Kolstad said. "Why, I could have had a lifetime subscription to the Saturday Review of Literature for $98.50.

Besides," he said, "it was my first offense."

New Ed Building Costs Rise Over First Estimates

Contractors' estimates on the cost of the proposed new college of education building are $433,000 more than the University has earmarked for its construction, William T. Middlebrook, business vice president, said yesterday.

The 1949 legislature appropriated $1.4 million for the education building, but now, because of rising building and labor costs, the building will cost $1.8 million.

The University originally had asked $1.6 million for the education building, but the legislature cut it down.

The cut necessitated the leaving out of an auditorium in the plans and provides no space for the music and speech departments.

State Sen. Gerald T. Mullin said yesterday he was hopeful of getting the legislature to appropriate the additional $433,000.

Ag Body Rejects Athletic Plan

The Ag student council, expressed its disapproval of the McCormick plan at a meeting Thursday.

In a vote taken to reveal its opinion about the plan to the Ag all-University congress representatives, a close majority of the council indicated dissatisfaction.

John Carlson, council member, pointed out to the group that since most of the Ag campus students came from and would return to rural areas, they are not especially interested in McCormick plan sports.

"The school of veterinary medicine and I are solidly against the plan," Chuck McDonald, council representative from the school of veterinary medicine, said. Last year after the plan was put in effect the veterinary medicine students voted unanimously against it.

There hasn't been any noticeable change of opinion since then, he added.

During the meeting the council also appointed Merry Cady, home economics sophomore, and Lee Miller, agriculture sophomore, as Ag all-University congress representatives for the coming year.

Prof Joins Chicago List Asking Reds' Recognition

A University professor has joined a list of 90 University of Chicago faculty members in asking Pres. Truman to recognize Communist China.

Cyrus P. Barnum, associate professor of physiological chemistry, is on the list of faculty members asking the president to seek talks with the People's Republic of China and iron out the present crisis in the Far East.

One Student Files for Main Campus Election

An independent candidate for the sophomore cabinet yesterday was the first from Main campus to file for a student government post to be filled at campus elections April 20.

On Ag campus, seven students have filed, two for home economics representative on the Ag student council; two for forestry representative; one for home economics representative on the Ag Union board; one for agriculture representative; one for home economics representative on the Ag intermediary board.

Four Main campus political parties will hold caucuses next week to name candidates and vote on platforms.

The Tech party will meet at 5 p.m. Monday in 325 Union, Chuck Buchan, party president, said.

The All-residence party and All-campus party will hold a joint caucus at 7 p.m. Monday in 315 Union. Students who want to apply for All-residence or All-campus backing may apply anytime Monday, Frankie Norlinger, a spokesman, said yesterday.

The Gopher Progressive party caucus will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday in Murphy hall auditorium, according to John B. Vandercar, president.

Filings are open until 3 p.m. Wednesday in the student activities bureau on Main campus and in 202 Coffey hall on Ag campus. SAB hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. The Ag campus office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Main campus filing requirements include a $1 filing fee, a blueprint and party affiliation or petition signed by 75 students. None of these requirements is necessary to file on Ag campus.

41 Students Try For Senior Play

Turnout for the two-day senior class play tryouts completed yesterday was described as "encouraging" by writer-director Phil Gelb, SLA senior.

He reported a "good cross section" of the campus was reflected in the 41 persons who auditioned—14 on Thursday and 27 yesterday. Twenty-four of the applicants were seniors.

And he estimated that three-fourths of the cast would be made up of students who never had appeared in a major production.

Of the 41 auditioned, about 20 will get parts in the cast, Gelb said, but everyone will get a chance to take part in staging the show.

104 Election Positions Open

One hundred and four positions are open for elections to campus governing boards this year.

On Main campus, latest figures reveal the following openings.

College boards: education board, five; SLA board, two next-year seniors, two juniors and two sophomores; general college council, nine 1951-52 sophomores; bus-ness board, six men and two coeds.

Class cabinets: senior, 14; junior, nine; sophomore, 10. Junior and senior class presidents will be elected by the students for the first time this year, Jay Rinzel, all-University congress elections chairman, said.

There are openings for seven men and two coeds on the Union board, three elective positions on the all-University congress and five on the board of publications.

Eleven posts are open on the Ag student council, distributed as follows: department of agriculture—one for a one-year term, two for a two-year term; home economics—one for one year, three for two years; forestry—two for one year, one for two years; veterinary medicine—one for a two-year term.

On the Ag intermediary board there are two openings from each agriculture and home economics and one each from forestry and veterinary medicine. Five members of the Ag Union board also will be elected this spring.

Student Claims SLA Board Did Not Grant Him Interview

A student yesterday complained that he was not called for an interview of candidates who filed for SLA board representative to the all-University congress.

John Shumway, SLA junior, said that no one had ever contacted him to tell him when the interviews would be held.

Roger B. Page, assistant dean of SLA, said his secretary told every candidate who filed the time and place of the interviews, and gave them an opportunity to sign up for an interview appointment.

Shumway claims he never was asked to sign up and was never told of the date.

He admitted, however, that he had seen the date of the interviews, April 4, in the Daily at the end of last quarter. He said he filed last quarter in the SLA office, 219 Administration building, and then expected some word about the interviews. This, he claims, never came.

At the interviews, three of the 15 candidates did not show up, Arlene Olson, SLA board secretary, said. She and Dean Page said one of the three indicated he had changed his mind, and another had been seen on campus that day.

Because the board thought everyone concerned knew the time and place of the interviews, it assumed the second candidate also had withdrawn.

They said that no one on the board knew anything about Shumway and so assumed he had changed his mind, too.

Rifle Team to Continue Despite Fund Suspension

By Greg Jensen

Despite the suspension of funds by the University, the varsity rifle team is going ahead with its Big Ten schedule.

Team members are furnishing their own guns and equipment and paying their own traveling expenses to and from meets.

"We just don't know when to quit," Jay Danielson, technology junior and a member of the team, said.

But there's little hope that the team—which has won 22 of the last 27 Big Ten championships and has been "national champions much more than its share of times over the years," according to one present team member—will be able to continue next year.

Funds for the team were discontinued Feb. 26, when academic vice president Malcolm M. Willey wrote a letter to the team coach saying funds were being discontinued due to a "decline in revenue" affecting "the department of physical education—athletics in particular."

"Last year Minnesota furnished the team with $150 plus sweaters and other awards at the end of year," M/Sgt. Paul Johnson, team coach, said. "This year even that has been discontinued."

"At the same time, other Big Ten schools are subsidizing their rifle teams in the thousands of dollars," Johnson said.

The next competition for the varsity team will be the National Intercollegiate tournament at Madison, Wis., today. National collegiate ranking and all-American honors will be decided at this meet.

Two Gophers Named On All-America Sextet

Minnesota's hockey team received a distinctive recognition from the NCAA hockey coaches' voting committee yesterday.

Center Gordy Watters and goalie Larry Ross were named to the coaches' NCAA team during the hockey convention in Boston this week.

Watters was given recognition for his "superior leadership and playmaking ability," while Ross was termed "one of the nation's two best collegiate goalies."

Roommates on road trips, both plan to return to Minnesota next year—Watters in quest of a Master degree in psychology, and Ross in pursuance of his Bachelor's in Business. Watters is ineligible for further collegiate play.

Dick Dargis
Defensive Ace

Watters, in his first and last season at Minnesota, scored 27 goals and 19 assists for 46 points, and was the mainspring of the great Engelstad-Watters-Bjorkman front line.

The Winnipeg, Canada, youth was hailed by Michigan coach Vic Heyliger as "one of the most inspirational men in the game," and his own coach, Doc Romnes, as "Minnesota's greatest since Johnny Mariucci.

Ross came back from a near fatal ulcer operation in November to become the most feared goalie in the country at the season's end. The St. Paul sophomore set an all-time Gopher net record by turning back 88 Colorado college shots during a two-game series in Williams arena.

Meanwhile, coach Romnes returned from the coaches' meeting in Boston with the news that Yale will appear here during Christmas vacation next year.

Ofsthun Advances in NCAA Glove Tourney

by Jerry Jacobs

EAST LANSING, MICH.—(Special)—Bantamweight Neil Ofsthun is Minnesota's lone finalist in the NCAA boxing tournament here after yesterday's semi-finals.

Ofsthun decided Don Camp of San Jose State, but Bill McMoore, the Gophers' other semi-finalist, was eliminated by Idaho's Larry Moyer.

Ofsthun and Camp started off their bantamweight dual slowly. In the second round Neil came out of his corner fast and floored his foe with a sharp left jab which felled Camp.

But the San Jose battler got up quickly before a count could be started, and Ofsthun didn't get any points.

The Gopher bantam kept Camp off balance the rest of the fight with his left, and landed some hard rights to the ribs and jaw. It was a split decision. Two judges gave it to Ofsthun 30 to 27, and a third called it 29 to 28 in favor of Camp.

McMoore dropped a unanimous decision to Moyer in the light heavy class. The Idaho sophomore sensation, who has improved a great deal since McMoore decided him last February, did most of his damage with counter-punches.

Moyer will meet Chuck Spieser of Michigan State in tonight's finals.

In the bantamweight finals, Ofsthun will run into a familiar foe in Frank Echeverria of Idaho.

The Gopher holds two decisions over Echeverria—one in last year's NCAA tourney and the second in a dual meet.

Echeverria decided Michigan State's Henry Amost last night on some fancy footwork which made Amost miss and his superior punching. Ofsthun will have a height and reach advantage but the Idaho scrapper is fast and a clever boxer.

Emmett Gurney, who decided the Gophers' Joe Mackey Thursday, moved into the welterweight finals with a unanimous decision over Danny Orsak of Louisiana state.

In the battle for team honors five teams in the running with a hairline finish in the making for tonight's finals.

Idaho, leading the pack with 12 points, has three left in the finals; four teams still have two boxers left in the running. They are Michigan state with 11 points; Wisconsin, 10; San Jose State, 9; and Washington State, 7. Minnesota is in sixth place with 6 points.

EAST LANSING, MICH.—(Special)—This could be Neil Ofsthun's year.

Ofsthun, poised and efficient, has painted a skillful picture for NCAA tournament fans here. The focal point of that picture has been pace. The Gophers' elusive 125-pounder has extended himself only as much as necessary in each of his two tourney wins—never more.

Against Miami's Mickey Demos Thursday, Ofsthun moved fast and punched straight to carve out a unanimous decision. Last night Ofsthun needed to dig some of his heavier artillery out of the mothballs to beat Don Camp of San Jose State. He had it when he needed it.

Echeverria got the decision and will meet Ofsthun in tonight's finals. He will definitely be the toughest foe the Gopher has faced in the tourney and the only question to be answered now is: Can Ofsthun be good enough to decide Echeverria?—Jerry Jacobs

Fesler Plans New Offense For Gopher Footballers

By Marv Weiner

There will be new plays off the single wing and T formations next fall when Minnesota begins a new football era under Wes Fesler and staff.

And in the backfield will be many sophomores who not only lack Big Ten experience, but also are trying to play positions new to them.

At least, that's the picture as of today—the end of the first week of spring practice. Last year's backfield wasn't a seasoned group, for that matter, especially the quarterback post. Three sophomores currently are calling and directing the limited number of handoffs and pitchouts that are being worked on.

Paul Giel, a left half until this spring, Joe Burgoyne and Bob Rufford are receiving concentrated attention from the coaches, notably on handling Fesler-type T plays.

At right half are Stu Leisz, up from the B team, and senior Dick Wheaton. Leisz, who prepped at Minneapolis Edison, is a tenacious ball carrier who hangs in there tough all the way.

But, like Wharton—a converted quarterback—he hasn't game experience at right half. Wheaton played regular defensive left half in 1950, but carried the ball just a few times.

The right half position defensively should be well taken care of. It will be Dick Dargis can continue where he left off in the last four games last fall. Dargis probably will play only on defense again.

Dick Gregory and George Hudak are experienced Big Ten left halves. They have plenty of competition from junior Dick May. May ran hard and for distance yesterday in an informal scrimmage. Hudak gained along the ground also.

Fullback presently is between Skip Engel, who has limited experience at that position, and sophomore Mel Holme. Yesterday, Holme was right behind May as leading ground gainer.

Fresh Batterymen Get First Outdoor Workout

Although the call hasn't been officially made for freshman baseball candidates yet, fresh batterymen began the spring training grind last Tuesday.

Both pitchers and catchers went outdoors on Northrop field for Thursday and Friday workouts under coach Joe Vancisin.

If weather permits, they'll be out on Delta field Monday.

U Tennis Practice May Begin Monday

Coach Phil Brain hopes to have his Minnesota tennis drills started by Monday to sharpen the Gophers for the coming season.

Brain says the courts are pretty well dried up now and practice will definitely begin Monday unless, of course, more snow comes.

The Gophers will have a little more than two weeks to get ready for their opener with Michigan State here April 28. The Spartans, meanwhile, have practicing for over a month now.

Brain expects about 20 men to report to the first practice session. Leading the list will be Dick Means, who also plays quite a bit of basketball for Ozzie Cowles.

Means was Minnesota's No. 1 man last season and is expected to hold down the same berth again this year. Other returning lettermen include Dean Constantine and Fritz Hurd from last year's team and Whitcomb Rollin, who played two years ago.

"Rollin wasn't out last year because 'law exams kept him too busy,' says Brain. 'But he'll play this season and I think he'll be able to help us.'"

Another man expected to bolster the tennis outfit is Jack Thommen who came over from Augustana college. Thommen was here last year but was ineligible under the transfer rule. Brain expects him to be the No. 2 man behind Means.

Means and Thommen probably will team up to form one Gopher doubles combination while it might be Constantine and Rollin in the other team.

Minnesota will participate in six dual meets this year, with Michigan State, Iowa, Carleton, Wisconsin, Iowa and Northwestern. The dual season will end with the Northwestern battle May 19. Then the Gophers will have five days before the conference tournament May 24 to 26 at Evanston, Ill.
