DULUTH--Dr. Mohammed Quereshi, assistant professor of psychology at UMD, will be guest speaker when the UMD Council of Student Religious Organizations holds its spring banquet at 5:30 p.m. Thursday (May 10) in Kirby Student Center ballroom.

Dr. Quereshi will discuss "Religious Thought and Action", stressing the nature and function of religious experience, the role of religion for individuals and groups, the concept of the supernatural in religion, and the problem of authenticity of religious experience.

Dr. Quereshi was born in West Pakistan. He first came to the United States on a Fullbright scholarship, received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Illinois, taught at the University of Michigan, and spent one year back at the University of Illinois under a post-doctoral fellowship. He came to UMD in 1960.
