U. OF M. O.; CENTRAL O.

An Exasperating Game in Which the 'Varsity was Played to a Standstill.

But for the fact that the game Saturday is being taken so seriously the result would be ludicrous. As was predicted the game was made very interesting for the 'Varsity team. Central's last year's champion eleven, showed remarkable form and played with the same dash and precision which last year won them so many victories.

On the other hand the work of the 'Varsity was in no way satisfactory, and in many respects it was ludicrous.

The men were inferior to their opponents in both defensive and offensive play, in rapidity of execution, and in the knowledge of the finer points of the game. They excelled Central in weight both in and behind the line but because of their inability to mass were unable to employ this advantage to the securing of any substantial gains, though what gains 'Varsity made were made in this way. Though the work in some departments of the game and in certain positions calls for severe rebuke yet it seems best not to criticize anything or anyone particularly as it might give the impression that in other features and other positions the game was played well, which would be erroneous. There were few redeeming features in the 'Varsity's play.

From the kick-off to the call of time in the last half the 'Varsity was on the defensive. In the first half Central rushed the ball to within a few yards of the 'Varsity goal where but for an error of judgment twice repeated the High School would have scored. The fake kick did not work as well as an end or line play would have done, and Bidlake's refusal to try a place-kick because he thought he saw a man off-side cost them the ball. The 'Varsity then kicked it out of danger.

In the second half several changes were made in the 'Varsity team: Page went in at full, Knowlton taking left-half in place of Harris, while Hoyt displaced La Fans at right half. Carrigan and Acomb, ends, gave way to Schoch and Otte, and Mueller was replaced by Tift at guard. Captain Page coached his team energetically and played as hard as his condition would allow, but toward the close of the half Central pushed the ball across the 'Varsity goal line but it was brought back for a mis play. It was then lost on a fumble and the big "U" men saved from a defeat.

While the result was somewhat humiliating, there is nothing in the result to discourage the 'Varsity lovers of the game. With a new coach, an entirely different system, with men, many of them new to the game, playing in new positions, with no team work previous to the game, and playing against a team of veterans, every man of whom with the exception of one, had played together in the same positions for a year past and for a month this fall, under an old coach and an old system; a team equal in every respect to any team Grinnell or Ames have sent here for several years, the game is not so discouraging as it might seem without thought. The DAILY would

A GOOD THING.

A Branch of the Public Library Likely to be Established at the University.

To General Secretary James H. Nicol, of the Y. M. C. A., is due the credit for securing for the students of the University something that has long been desired—that is a branch of the City Library here at the "U." Dr. Hosmer, City Librarian, has assured Mr. Nicol that if he could secure President Northrop's consent, the branch would be installed in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. That consent has been secured, and it is likely that within a week or so, the students will be able to get fiction and reference books without going to the East Side branch at University Ave. and First Ave. southeast.

The branch if established will be in charge of the Y. M. C. A., and the same rule will govern the returning and loaning of books as are in force at the other branches. The branch is sure to be well patronized, and Mr. Nicol has the unanimous thanks of the student body for his services in the matter.

THE MASS MEETING.

Saturday afternoon a large and enthusiastic meeting of the friends of debate and oratory was held in Chapel. Dr. McVey in a few words of explanation called the meeting to order and called on Prof. McDermott to address the gathering. Prof. McDermott spoke of the hard work which would be necessary this year to defeat Michigan and Iowa, the two strongest Universities in the West in debate. His remarks on our two victories of last year were received with applause.

Mr. McIntyre then spoke as one of our debaters, urging everyone to persevere if they expected to make one of the teams. He was followed by Mr. Hubbard who emphasized the need of hard and constant work if one desired to succeed in oratory. Dr. McVey then introduced Prof. Sanford, who spoke as only Prof. Sanford can speak and was received by the audience as only Prof. Sanford can be received. She spoke of the necessity of joining some good literary society and urged upon those already members to work; not to get all the best men into their own society, but to get those whom they do admit to do their very best along literary lines and not drag down the standard of the society, and indirectly of debate and oratory at the University.

There were about one hundred students in attendance, fully half being new students. The University is to be congratulated, especially on its executive board which promises, if their work in the past is any criterion, to do everything possible to raise the standard of debate and oratory at the University.

Reception to Students.

A reception to students will be given this evening at the Olivet Baptist Church, Thirteenth Ave. and Fourth St. S. E. All students, old and new, are cordially invited.

BACK IN THE GAME.

Injured Players all Appear for Practice. Wickersham Chosen Assistant Manager.

The game Saturday proved a stimulus to hard and better work as shown by the improved practice last evening. If Central has really impressed upon the 'Varsity players the necessity of getting down to hard conscientious training the trouble they caused the team and rooters on Saturday will be overlooked. There was a tendency shown last evening to get into the game that makes the faithful hope the team will get together. Several changes were noticed in the line-up and this substitution will take place indefinitely or until a good playing combination is secured. The trying-out process will be a long one and may not be completed until one or two of the big games shall have been played.

Fumbling was the fault most apparent last evening. Slowness in starting the plays prevented the best results in ground-gaining. Constant and careful practices may be relied upon to remedy these weaknesses.

All the players were out except Fosseen who, however, is ready to get into the game again. Captain Page was in his place and aided Coach Williams in infusing the proper spirit into the play. The aggressive coaching of Assistant Coach Donaldson kept the college eleven in the game. Smith's work at half showed marked improvement, his experience and training considered.

Price Wickersham, who successfully managed last year's team has been chosen assistant manager to Dr. Williams. It will be gratifying to learn that "Wick" has been retained in this capacity.

CAPS AND GOWNS.

The committee appointed last spring to look up the matter of caps and gowns has been at work getting the sentiment of the class as to procuring caps and gowns at the beginning of the year, and thus making it possible to get some practical use of them.

Formerly, the practice has been to order the caps and gowns during the third term and to wear them the two or three weeks preceding Commencement. To many the expense is hardly justified by the short period of use, and for this reason a large number of the Senior class refuse to don the cap and gown.

If the present Senior class decides to set aside this former practice the members will not object so much to the outlay. The caps can be worn commonly throughout the year and on occasions when the entire class is concerned, it would certainly add to the spirit of the affair if the class presented a uniform appearance. This could be secured by all wearing the gown.

Thus far in the canvas, the committee has found that the plan is meeting with the approval of the Seniors, and soon it may be possible to distinguish these dignified people from the students just entering the University.

A class meeting of the Seniors will be called soon to take definite action upon this and some other important matters.

Meantime let the class agitate the question and be ready to adopt the plan when it is formally presented.

Debate and Oratory

The meeting held last Saturday in chapel in the interest of oratory and debate was a concrete expression of the spirit of earnestness and enthusiasm which has manifested itself along those lines during the past two years.

The meeting was a significant one both from the point of view of the interests of the students, and that of the University. It was designed to interest the students—the new ones especially—in oratory and debate, and to bring them into contact with the work to be done along those lines. All who are desirous of improving themselves in address and independent thinking should lose no time in taking measures to fall into line with that kind of work. The best way to do that is to join some literary society. The opportunity there afforded for practice and training is measured very largely by one's efforts and desires; and the degree of competency to be secured will depend in a measure on the same conditions. A reasonable amount of effort and earnest application will bring about results there as elsewhere, which make it worth one's while to try. Of course persons are differently endowed. All are not born to be Ingersoll's and Depews in oratory, nor is that desirable. Most students can, if they try, attain to that degree of efficiency in public address which is essential to a proper discharge of those duties which ordinarily cross the path of a college-bred man, and which ought to be regarded as an essential element of a liberal education.

From the point of view of the interest of the University, such a gathering is to be regarded as of much significance. Our success in intercollegiate oratory and debate demands that students do not wait until the second or third year of their course to familiarize themselves with our competitive relations with other institutions and the opportunities which those relations afford. Most students have never faced an audience when they come to the university, and along that too many wait for that solemn occasion until their Junior or Senior year. But proficiency in public speaking is not obtained in a few days or weeks, and those students who have any ambition to become proficient in that most useful art cannot begin too early to avail themselves of the opportunities that afford proper training.

A Prophecy and a Warning.

The DAILY wants to make a prophecy and it wants to emphasize every word of it. It is this: The man who is "knocking" today will not have an opportunity to knock two months from today; if he tries to he will be run out of the University so loyal will be the support which a team playing honest winning foot ball will have from the student body. The DAILY doesn't believe that anybody is knocking very hard, but if any are there is just one word of advice to be given, and that is, stop. It doesn't exhibit common sense in the first place and in the second place it shows a lack of University spirit which is despicable and intolerable. Minnesota hasn't any use for the knocker, and the DAILY wants everyone to remember its prophecy that in a few weeks he won't be tolerated on the campus. The Varsity has had just two days too much of him already, and he had better use nine parts of discretion to one of valor in his future conduct.

The DAILY can't imagine anything more contemptible than to hear a person "knocking" after the first game of the season—it shows such an utter lack of brain matter that perhaps pity rather than contempt would seem to be his due. If the DAILY mistakes not the students are not going to have the practice indulged in much longer, and the "knocker," if he is still around with his senseless twaddle and his contemptuous and contumelious words, had better hie himself whence he came.

Central High Spirit.

The DAILY wants to congratulate the Central High School on the magnificent team which it has put in the field this fall, and wishes the boys success in their games with Madison and Hyde Park.

The only thing, in fact, which can keep them from defeat is the disease commonly called "the swelled head," and the team has altogether too good management to suffer long with that complaint.

The DAILY wants to call the attention of the students of the Varsity to the spirit which has made possible such a team. It was delightful in the extreme to see mothers and fathers of the Central High players in the grandstand wearing colors and as enthusiastic over their boys' success as the boys themselves; the yells which came from that bevy of young girls, just drowned in the red and blue, would make the oldest man in the crowd enthusiastic and young again. That is the spirit which has made the team possible; it is the spirit which after several defeats enabled the Central boys to win from Madison last year.

The DAILY wants to say that the same spirit manifested here will do the same thing for Minnesota. We had it last fall, even after the Northwestern game, and it accounted for the team's work in the game with Madison. We are going to have it this year, and if we can't learn it from any other source, let us learn it from the example set us on Saturday.

The Opening Reception.

Don't make but one date for next Saturday evening, and let that be for the opening reception to be given in the Armory by the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A.
Last year over one thousand persons were present; this year there ought to be and undoubtedly will be fifteen hundred.
You should be one of them. A delightful program, new in almost every respect, will be rendered, and you will have an opportunity of meeting socially almost every student in every department of the University, and all your professors and instructors, including, in all probability, President Northrop.

The Y. W. C. A. Reception.

The informal reception given by the Young Women's Christian Association to the young ladies of the University, was as usual a successful affair. About 150 girls were present, and the new girls were given an opportunity to meet the others so they will no longer seem strangers. Each guest was presented with a flower and topic card as a souvenir. A guessing contest formed a pleasing feature of the occasion. The room was beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers, and frappe was served.

Notice to Subscribers.

Beginning with this morning's issue
the DAILY will be put in the Post Office

the error corrected. Some mistakes in marking so many boxes are bound to be made but those errors will be rectified if the management is only notified. If you don't have a box you had better get one,
or else let the business manager know that you intend to get the DAILY right along at his desk. Please attend to this matter as it is important for the management to know just where you intend to get your DAILY—then it will be there on time.

A GREAT WORK.

The Work of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. Outlined. What They Have Done This Fall.

Not by any means the least among the manifold student activities at Minnesota, is the work done by the Young Men's and the Young Women's Christian Associations. Founded on very broad lines, undenominational and interdenominational, their work comprehends everything that helps the new students, gives them rooms and room mates, directs them to good boarding houses and clubs, loans them money, rents them books at a very low charge, finds for the persons who must work their way through college, honest employment, offers the conditioned student unexcelled opportunities for making them up and, last but not least, tends to raise the standard of student life and ideals by offering to students pleasant parlors, game rooms and reading rooms, in which to spend their spare time, and holding regular religious meetings addressed by students and prominent men and women of the city.

Both the Y. M. and the Y. W. C. A. have employment and board and room bureaus. The Y. M. C. A. has so far this year given permanent employment to about 40 men and the Y. W. C. A. has furnished employment for about a dozen young women who without this help would not be able to continue their University work. Every new student uses the board and room bureau and knows what a service it is to him.

The students' loan fund, designed to assist young men who find themselves in special financial embarrassment, loaned last year an aggregate of about $700.

In the educational department last year 79 students were enrolled, almost all of whom finished their work satisfactorily. The registration is still going on this year, the classes being started about October 1st.

The loan library assists students who are not able to buy text books but who can pay a slight rental. The assistance given by this department is much appreciated.

The social work undertaken by both associations is a feature of University life always remembered by all students. The opening receptions to men and women, given on Saturday last, were part of the year's work in this department. The large general reception on next Saturday evening is the biggest general social event of the University year, to which everyone goes and at which everyone always has a good time. The men give social entertainments at their building about once a month, and the women at about the same intervals in their parlor. The Post-Exam Jubilees nobody misses.

The religious meetings of both associations are well attended and very profitable. The Bible study work is very successful and very popular both with the men and women of the university.

Both associations have the support of the Faculty and the President. The membership of the Y. M. C. A. is about 450 and that of the Y. W. C. A. about 275. The parlors of both associations are open day and evening and every student has a most cordial invitation to use them freely.

Besides these two religious organizations the Catholic Students' Association has recently been organized, and will undoubtedly do a good work among students of that sect.

The DAILY would urge every man and woman who is at all interested in the work of these various associations to join one of them—it pays.

AN ALUMNUS TO THE FRONT

Andrew F. Hilyer, '82, a colored man, is making quite a name for himself in the East where he is now located. At a late meeting of the National Negro Business League held in Boston, Hilyer presented an address on the Negro and Business, which was printed in full in the Boston Transcript of August 23rd and which was commented upon very generally by the editors of the East.

Mr. Hilyer has also during the last summer contributed to the Popular Science Monthly an article in deprecation of the cry that the higher education of the negro has been a failure, which article was reviewed editorially by the Washington Post and the New York Evening Post.

The DAILY is pleased to learn of Mr. Hilyer's success, and is proud that Minnesota can claim him as her son.

Address Slips.

Address slips have been placed in all the post office boxes and the students should see that these are correctly filled and promptly returned to the faculty box in the Library or handed to the registrar. Within the last week there have been twenty messages, special delivery letters, telegrams, etc., taken to the registrar which he has been unable to deliver, not having the addresses of the students. Such messages are constantly coming to the registrar and it is to the interest of the students to have their addresses on file.

The last two blanks on the slip which the associations request to be filled out should not be detached but filled out with the rest. All the religious organizations in the University are desirous of obtaining the information here asked and can be greatly aided in their work if this matter is attended to at once.

FOUNTAIN PENS

We keep the largest stock of pens in the Northwest, including all the leading makes. When buying a fountain pen be very careful not to buy one that will prove an unmitigated nuisance. The gold pen must be of the very best, run smoothly, and just fine enough and just flexible enough to suit the hand of the user.

The Waterman and the Swan pens have been tested by time, and those who use them will testify that they are Fountains of Pen satisfaction.

Every pen sold on approval, and may be exchanged, or, if desired, the money will be refunded.
