MCNALLY IN CHAPEL TODAY.

Popular Campus Baritone Will Sing "Die Zwei Grenadier."

Music is to be the main attraction at chapel exercises at noon today. Miles McNally, member of the Glee Club and prominent in University musical affairs, will sing. He will render a solo in German, "Die Zwei Grenadier," as his main number.

FIFTY-THREE ANSWER FIRST CALL OF BASEBALL COACH

Denny Sullivan Pleased With Number of Candidates at Yesterday's Meeting in Armory.

Coach Cautions Candidates on Habits and Baseball Methods to be Expected.

Fifty-three men reported to Coach Sullivan in the band room of the armory yesterday in response to his call for baseball candidates. This means that the prospects for a first class team this year are much brighter than last year when only thirty-five men reported. The men seem to be very enthusiastic and the coach is confident that there is material for an excellent team. The new system regarding professionalism will be tried out this year for the first time. Freshmen as well as the older men will be required to report to the athletic board in this respect. Coach Sullivan made a few remarks and cautioned the men against smoking and profanity on the baseball field and spoke on fair methods in baseball.

The inside training will begin on Tuesday, but only the regulars and the freshman pitchers and catchers will be allowed to practice inside. Coach Sullivan says that besides the men who turned out today there are many other men of varsity calibre who ought to aid materially in strengthening the list of candidates.

FOLWELL HONORED BY ALUMNI

Former Students Tender Absent President-Emeritus Banquet on His Eightieth Birthday.

At the annual banquet of the University alumni, held at Donaldson's team rooms last night, President-Emeritus Folwell of the University addressed the assembly through the medium of a phonograph. Dr. Folwell is in Leonardtown, Md., and, as he was unable to attend last night's banquet, he sent his regards and appreciations by phonograph record. Dr. Folwell was eighty years of age yesterday and the banquet took the form of a combination birthday and valentine party, and alumni celebration. The dinner was attended by President Emeritus Northrop and President Vincent, each of whom received a number of valentines. Both Dr. Northrop and Dr. Vincent made short addresses. Toasts were responded to by various faculty members and others present. The University string quartet furnished music and the Glee Club also gave several selections which were highly appreciated. About five hundred of the alumni attended.

DR. CRAIG ACTS AS CRITIC FOR "ARMS AND THE MAN"

English Professor Discusses Shaw's Comedy and Dramatic Club Production.

"Excellent Amateur Performance Well Received," is Critic's Comment.

Dr. Hardin Craig of the department of English in criticising the Masquers' production of Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Arms and the Man," at the Shubert theatre Thursday evening, said: "Arms and the Man" is a clever comedy, every scene and every character capable of manifold interpretation, though the meaning of the whole is by no means so clear as most critics maintain. It is a hard play to do justice to, because of the complexity of the background. In spite of the limited number of characters, the play teems with social and even racial satire. Then, there are ideas expressed in it about war and peace, the brutality and vanity of war, about sentimentality and reality in the individual, about the relationship of heroics to commonplace talk, about servants and masters, soldiers, and officers, and many other Clavian verities and vagaries. The performance by the dramatic club of the University was an excellent performance and was well received. The audience was not small, but it is a shame that in so large a University and in a city where there are so many alumni there should have been any vacant seats.

"Miss Zellar played the part of Raina Petkoff with a degree of finish and composure in her acting unusual among amateurs. Miss Zellar has marked natural talent and she has had a great deal more experience

GOPHER FIVE MEETS MAROONS

Chicago Rooters Display Confidence in Basket Ball Team Before Game is Called.

Chicago, Ill., Bartlett Hall, Feb. 14, 8:00 p. m.—Maroon rooters are gathering in large numbers, confident of victory over the Gopher quintet in the game tonight. Chicago has plainly the heavier and more experienced team on the floor, the only uncertain quantity being Wipperman who is bigger and speedier than Des Jardien, the maroon center. Johnson, the crack Minnesota guard, will be matched against Norgren, leaving Vruink, the star forward for the maroons as free as possible with his deadly basket shooting. Molander and Bell, the maroon forwards, are expected to handle the light Minnesota forwards with ease. The floor work and the basket caging ability of Bell is, however, still uncertain.

The Maroons expect to raise their percentage of 800 tonight and thereby give Wisconsin a close race for conference honors. With the band playing and rooters cheering, the crowd is nervously waiting for one of the fastest games of basket ball of the season played in Bartlett gymnasium. There will be dancing after the game.

WILLIAMS GOES TO N. Y.

Gopher Coach Attending National Football Conference.

Doctor H. L. Williams left Minneapolis last Wednesday evening to attend the big football conference in New York which is considering changes in the present rules. In Dr. Williams' opinion only slight revisions are expected. The Gopher coach will remain in New York until the conclusion of the session, returning to the city next Wednesday morning.

GOPHER BOARD ANNOUNCES JUNIOR ANNUAL FEATURES

Fourteen Points of Superiority Enumerated in List Made Public by Board Yesterday.

Junior Year Book Will Reach Total of 648 Pages. Paper and Binding to be Featured.

The Gopher Board yesterday made public a list of special features to appear in this year's junior annual. The board believes the number and quality of the new features will make it the "best ever" and are so predicting to the college public. A more detailed announcement of 1914 Gopher features will be made in chapel Tuesday as that meeting has been given over to the junior board. The following is the board's statement.

1. The binding of the book will be of black full morocco leather with a maroon leather impress upon which an original title design will be stamped in gold.

2. The edges of the book are gilded and its size will be 10 1-2 by 7 1-2 inches.

3. There will be 648 pages, exclusive of inserts; nearly 150 pages more than ever before.

4. The fly-leaf paper is of a wine colored stock which has been imported from Italy, and upon it is printed an original ex libris design in three colors.

5. The paper for the main book this year is of better quality than has ever been used before in the Gopher and it is of equal quality with the best stock ever used in a college annual.

6. A full page photograph of President Vincent will be bound and not merely inserted into every book. The picture used is new and has been copyrighted. It was taken especially for the Gopher and has not been used before.

7. Full page original half-tones of the deans of every college in the University will be a feature of this year's book.

8. The page borders this year will be unique, being done in high-light halftone and gold and the effect produced is different from that in any other annual.

9. Eight entirely new views of the campus have been taken by Mr. Harvey of the Bureau of Engraving, especially for the Gopher, and this will be done into a special section in duotone sepia ink. This will give an effect which is distinctive and well worth keeping.

10. There will be seven three colored inserts throughout the book and the black and white work is very cleverly done. Besides the inserts, as an innovation in color work, the

SCHOOL OF MINES BURNS

Building Gutted by Fire Starting at Late Hour Last Night. Damage Not Known.

The school of mines building was badly gutted by a fire last night which was first reported at 9:30 o'clock. At 10 o'clock, when the fire had gained great headway and was anything but under control, the third alarm was sent in and aid summoned, as the firemen present were unable to cope with the situation. No injuries had been reported at a late hour last night, but several students were caught and had difficulty in escaping. In all probability the building will be unfit for occupancy for the rest of the term. At the moment of going to press the fire was still burning menacingly and no estimate of the damage done could be made.

McAlmon and Sawyer Win.
Wm. McAlmon was elected president of the board by a large majority, winning in every college. McAlmon is a member of the Delta Chi fraternity, a middle law, and half-back on the 1912 football team.

Emmons Sawyer was also elected vice-president by a large majority, winning in all but one college. Sawyer is a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, tackle on the 1912 football team, a member of the 1912 and 1913 basketball squads and a freshman law.

Anderson and Doerman Hold Over.
There was no election in the case of secretary and academic representatives as Ted Anderson and Henry Doerman the present holders of these offices hold over until next year.

Medic Contest Close.

THE RESULTS WERE—?
By a vote of nearly two to one university women were yesterday deprived of the right to a voice in choosing the officers of the athletic association by the passing of an amendment, excluding women from membership in the association, thus limiting the franchise to men.

The total vote polled yesterday was heavy in all departments, but of the eleven hundred students registering less than five hundred voted on the amendments. That the action taken early in the week by the Women's athletic association, and the statement issued by the officers of the organization favoring the adoption of the amendment had its effect upon the result is quite likely, but the general lack of interest in the whole matter seems to be the real explanation. The election showed pretty clearly that the women do not want or care particularly about the privilege.

In spite of the delayed appearance of a number of the candidates a considerable degree of interest developed in the choice of new officers. The results were in no case very close, but strenuous campaigning continued from the opening until the closing of the polls.

Sentiment has been growing continually stronger against some of the practices that are indulged in by campus politicians but it seemed to have little effect upon the conduct of a number of them yesterday, according to reports given out by the judges of election. In a number of cases ballots were challenged and destroyed on the spot for questionable methods in influencing voters, and the "fifty-foot" electioneering zone was not very effective. On the whole it seems that we have not made such a great deal of progress toward clean politics after all.

CONTINUE VESPER SERVICES

Second Vesper Service Will Be Held Sunday at 4 p. m. Walker and Hanson Will Sing Duet.

The second of a series of vesper services for students will be held in chapel next Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. Dr. J. W. Powell will speak on the subject, "Following the Gleam." A duet will be rendered by Keith M. Walker, baritone, and O. M. Hanson, tenor. The number will be "Hark! Hark! My Soul" by Nevin. Miss Jessie Phillips will play the accompaniment.

At a similar service held last week about two hundred students were present. It is for these services that the present alterations in the chapel platform have been made. The platform will be carpeted and the pulpit restrained to match the rest of the chapel furniture.

Wisconsin Track Meet Cancelled.

Owing to a mixup in dates, the Minnesota-Wisconsin dual indoor track meet has been cancelled. It was scheduled for March 15th. Unless Wisconsin arranges for a meet with some other college before the date of the conference indoor meet, it will mean entering that event with no previous contests.

VOTE IN ATHLETIC BOARD ELECTION UNUSUALLY HEAVY

Sidney Stadvold was elected law representative by a small majority. Stadvold is a Sigma Chi, a middle law and a member of the 1912 track team.

Aggies and Engineers.

Lynn Robertson, an Alpha Zeta, and a junior aggie, was elected agricultural representative. The candidate for engineering representative, Alfred Bierman, a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, a junior miner, and half-back on the 1912 football team, had no opposition.

Football Men Favored.

Football men are evidently coming into favor again, for four of the six newly elected members of the Athletic Board, are football men. As a result of this election one-half of the members of this board will be football men.

Women Lose Suffrage.

The amendments restricting women suffrage were passed by a three to one majority. Hereafter no woman will take part in the Athletic Board elections unless a subsequent amendment is passed giving them the ballot again.

Will Canvass Ballots.

The vote in yesterday's election has not yet been declared official. The auditing committee appointed by the Athletic Board of control will have to go over the ballots again before the official vote is given out. The Athletic Board will meet next Wednesday to ratify the election.

two frontis pieces, the dedication and foreword will be worked out in gold, maroon and black.

11. The University year section will include write-ups and pictures of all doings throughout the year and the country fair, the sophomore vaudeville and several other affairs will have special sections all their own.

12. The feature department is a closed book, even its name being a secret. But Ben Webster has 100 pages all his own for general "feature" stuff and he promises lots of real "pep." The different colleges will run the usual features in their sections also.

13. Attempts have been made along other lines to make every department in the book full of life and interest. For example the fraternity and sorority sections will have new and excellent pictures of every fraternity or sorority house at the University and those who do not have houses will have seals or badges.

14. A number of incidental things have been planned, for example, a distinctive type for both titles and reading pages, and a complete index and numbering of the pages. The book will be set up in monotype which represents the latest improvements in printing and every attempt is being made to make the book mechanically, as well as artistically, one of the best annuals ever produced.

It is expected that the finals will be reached in a very few days.

than college amateurs usually secure. There was a repose and certainty about her acting and speaking very satisfying to the audience and encouraging to the other actors. Her looks were charming and her facial expression admirable.

"Miss Loomis, as 'Louka,' showed powers that will be valuable to the club in future plays. She understood her part perfectly, and her charm as a mere uppish servant girl in the earlier part of the play was heightened by a new fascination in the last act where she assumed before our eyes a new dignity of bearing and a new self-respect. As she approached nearer and nearer to her fortune, she stood out, like one of Shakespeare's charming woman wooers boldly seeking her own preferment, and became one of the unexpected joys of the play. The part of 'Madame Petkoff,' although important, is one which directs attention away from itself. Miss McKelvey's presentation was good, particularly where, as in the second act, she had fair opportunity. She acted the self-obliterating part with a full measure of ease and naturalness.

"Major Petkoff,' a fussy, officious goose and an annoyance, was cleverly presented by Mr. Wilk. His acting and speaking lacked finish, but he made up for it in some measure in the spirited fashion in which he played. The part was highly amusing, and was well received by the audience.

"Shaw says somewhere that he meant the part of Saranoff to resemble Lord Byron. He arrives at the idea of similarity somewhat in this fashion: Bulgarians were in 1885 in somewhat the same cultural position as the English were during the age of Byron. They indulge in the same heroics about patriotism, liberty, the rights and wrongs of man and so forth. You, therefore, might find a Roumanian Byron embittered (but not so embittered that he does not enjoy flirting), self-centered yet scornful of himself, having his own set of heroics, (the heroics of a 'sulky dandy'), but despising heroics. Mr. Doermann acted the part of Saranoff splendidly. His bearing and voice were inimitable, and his mustache, to which these columns referred almost contemptuously a few days ago, was the crowning touch to his make-up. Mr. Wilson's part as Nicola was slight, I did not feel that his make-up was successful or that he had exactly the right conception of the part. There was some suggestion of the English butler type of a servant. I should rather build it upon some of the Armenian or Italian servants in Marion Crawford's novels.

"This is a play of many interesting parts, but I think it properly called The Chocolate Soldier. The part of Major Bluntschli is crucial. This victim of an 'incurably romantic disposition' who has seemed all through the play to have absolutely no romance in his whole being, is the puzzling, the difficult part. Shaw's notion seems to be that he is not called 'Blunt' and 'sly' for nothing, and that he differs from Saranoff chiefly in having more sense and more experience. I do not think that he is meant to be altogether ideal. He wins his sweetheart in a very clever fashion. She is not thrust upon him. He wins her by consummate trickery. If this is right, then Mr. Hodson's presentation is not. Mr. Hodson makes him as stolid, sad-eyed, unemotional as could be imagined. He is a good actor, though he succeeds mainly through the excellence of his finely keyed voice, and not through action.

"The performance needed more work and closer criticism (of a constructive kind); but to say this is only relative. It was an excellent amateur performance and was well received. I have only one wish in connection with it, and that is that the alumni and student body had been more generally represented."
