THE FIRST BASKETBALL GAME.

Tonight the University of Minnesota is to play its first basketball game of the season. Do you remember that 1,000 per cent team of last year? Well, this year that record is going to be duplicated, provided we do our share. No team on earth can win games on the flimsy supposition that the whole school is behind it. The fellows out on the floor have to see us there; they have to hear our yells; they need our encouragement—it braces them in a pinch. Are we going to be in the armory tonight to give the team a rousing welcome when it makes its first appearance? Let's get the habit of going to basketball games this year; win or lose, let's stick with the team to the end. Tonight there will not be a crucial conference game, and the playing on both sides will probably be a little ragged, but—it's Minnesota's first game and that means more than most of us imagine. If we come to the game tonight in large numbers, the fellows on the team will see that we are back of them; that they are not simply a bunch of fellows playing for the fun of the thing, but that they are the responsible representatives of all Gopherdom, and as a consequence, they will fight their way to victory all the rest of the season. Let's unearh our season tickets or dig up the loose change and come around. Don't forget, that team is your team, its victories are your victories, and its defeats are just as much your fault as the players'—but if you support that team the way it deserves to be supported, there will not be any defeats. Support means pep; pep means team-work; team-work means victories; and victories mean honor for Minnesota. How about it, are we going to furnish the support?

Many ex-doughboys who swore when they were over in France that if they ever got a chance to help the Red Cross, they wouldn't let the opportunity slip, will get a chance to make good soon.

CRAMMING.

This is the time of the year when the university settles down to a period of "cramming." Students who formerly spent their time in everything but the business of being a student, now can be found studying until the wee sma' hours of the night. This all accords with our ideas of making good in the home stretch.

Too often students wake up at the end of the term to the realization of the fact that they have not obtained out of their subjects the things that they should have obtained. Coupled with this is the realization that they have not grasped their subject in such a way that they will be able to pass an examination. It is the fear of the "final" which drives so many on to this process of desperately attempting to cram into their heads in a few weeks, the work that they should have obtained during the whole term.

All too often this process is not a success. No athlete would wear himself out in the last few weeks before an intercollegiate meet, and the student who spends the time preceding an examination in cramming often finds that he loses in power of concrete thinking on the day of the examination, more than he gains in extra knowledge concerning the course.

We should learn from our mistakes, and those of us who are cramming now should resolve that next term we will do our work during the term in such a way that when the end of the term comes we will not have to go through this feverish process again.

Federal authorities want to know if there is any sugar hidden in Minnesota. There are others who would like to know that same thing.

HEEDING THE BELLS.

There is no one factor so conclusively indicative of the personality of the individual as punctuality. Punctuality is nothing more than the fulfillment of an obligation. When we signed our class programs, we pledged ourselves to meet so many appointments, and it is naturally up to us to see that our word retains a recognized characteristic of inviolable honor. The question of punctuality applies to instructors and students alike. The instructor who comes to his class five or ten minutes late each day, or even once or twice a week, cannot hope to obtain the best results from his class because he himself shows a regrettable lack of interest by not appearing at the prescribed time. We have all attended courses under professors who were on time every day, and who started the work at hand the moment the bell rang. It is not difficult to draw comparisons, and we can safely say that punctuality is essential to complete success.

Punctuality takes another form when we consider the matter of prompt dismissal from classes. It is, indeed, an admirable thing to be so engrossed with a subject as to fail to hear the customary horological definitions provided, but instructors should curb their interests that the members of their classes might be punctual in arriving at the periods following. If one instructor keeps his class overtime, probably a dozen other classes are interrupted by the arrival of stragglers. A little thoughtfulness in this matter on the part of both instructors and students would be sincerely appreciated by all parties concerned. Let's obey the bells!

Evidently Uncle Sam wants to give Mexico a chance to prepare before he starts anything dangerous. At present, the war would be too one-sided to be interesting.

Final exams are approaching. We saw two card tables and a pool table not being used yesterday in the Union.

We understand that the manufacturers of fountain pens are in favor of the notes between Carranza and Lansing.

The announcement that thick mustaches help to cause appendicitis may aid in alleviating that form of frightfulness.

D'Annunzio plans to fly to the United States very soon. Seems to us that we have enough trouble here right now.

About time for the Town Tea Kettle to blow off steam.

Communication

This column is conducted for the benefit of readers desiring to present their views on all subjects of interest to the university. All communications must be signed as evidence of sincerity, but names will be withheld if desired. While the Daily does not hold itself responsible for the contents of its communications all such material must pass through the hands of the Managing Editor and should be so addressed.

To the Editor of the Daily:

In regard to the editorial on "The Blanket Tax" which appeared in Saturday's issue I wish to say that I heartily agree with the idea of such a tax being put in operation. It most certainly would be an advance for the Better Minnesota movement, and personally it appeals to me. Why not take a popular vote among the student body on the subject?

WARWICK D. MCCLURE.

To the Editor of the Daily:

Some time ago there was an editorial in the Daily lamenting the fact that there was not as perfect honesty on the campus as there should be. It has been my good fortune to come in contact with much more fair and honest spirit than I deserve in the last few weeks. I have lost my purse three times and each time it has been returned by the finder absolutely intact to the Lost and Found department at the postoffice. Needless to say, I don't intend to carry the slipper purse any longer. I want to thank the finders from the bottom of my heart. And doesn't this show there's a lot of good in us yet? or perhaps I should say, a lot of good people among us still.

A. H.

To the Editor of the Daily:

The faculty and students of the university undoubtedly realize to the fullest extent that publications on the campus, such as the annual, are possible only by subscriptions. The campaigns, naturally, should be short and effective. Many young women of the highest type are kind enough to devote their time and energy toward the accomplishment of the goal. They do this purely out of the kindness of their hearts.

Those participating in the campaign become somewhat excited, perhaps. If, in the excitement, questions were asked or answers made which were in anyway flippant or disrespectful, I hereby offer my sincerest apologies. I know, and insistently maintain, however, that the young women who participated in the recent campaign were conscious to the highest degree, of propriety and proper conduct.

Forum Meets Tonight

Mexican Question and University Building Program to Be Discussed.

The Forum Literary and Debating society will meet tonight at 7:45 p. m. in the Minnesota Union.

The topic for the round table discussion will be: "Should the United States Intervene in Mexico?" There will also be a paper read on the University building program.

Any men not members of this society, but who are interested in better public speaking are invited to attend.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS.

Y. M. Cabinet Plans For Gordon Program

Many Speeches Ahead for Canadian—Stag Party on Calendar for Saturday Night.

Cabinet members of the Y. M. C. A. met at 4:30 in the east rooms of the Minnesota Union yesterday to discuss business matters concerning the association. A committee was appointed to assist in carrying out the program of Major Gordon in his sojourn here.

At 6:30 Thursday night, Major Gordon is to address the joint cabinets and the student volunteers. On Friday he will speak at a mass meeting in the Little Theatre and there is a possibility of his speaking at Andrew Presbyterian church.

Plans were completed for a big stag party in the Minnesota Union Saturday night, to acquaint new Y. M. C. A. members with each other. A live program has been arranged and refreshments will be included. Bible discussions will continue after Christmas time, no more being given at the present on account of finals. At these discussions the following men will speak: President Burton, Dean Vance, of the Law school; Frank Rarig, head of the public speaking department, David Swenson, of the philosophy department, and Dr. A. E. Jenks, of the Americanization department. The meetings will be held at the intervals of one week.

The total membership of the Y. M. C. A., according to the committee report is to date 340. It was decided that sight seeing trips and hikes formerly given on Saturday afternoons be discontinued until after Christmas vacation to allow students to work on their final examinations.

To Attend Zionist Meeting In Boston

Mose Buckman Chosen to Represent Minnesota Chapter at National Conference.

At a meeting of the university Zionist society, held in 104 Folwell hall yesterday noon, the society chose Mose Buckman, of Duluth, to represent Minnesota at the Inter-Collegiate Zionist convention at Boston during the Christmas vacation. Mr. Buckman will leave for Boston immediately at the close of school.

"The fact that the realization of Zionist ideals is now at hand has prompted the Minnesota chapter as well as chapters in all other universities, to assume a new enthusiasm for the purpose toward which they are working," said Rose Feigelman, president of the Minnesota organization.

The society is active this year in conducting study circles in Hebrew and Zionist history. It is expected that the report brought back by Mr. Buckman will serve not only to inform the local members in regard to recent Zionist accomplishments, but will spur them on to greater interest and zeal in their local activities.

AG. DEBATERS TO ARGUE AGAINST AMES SATURDAY

Assembly Hour Thursday to Be Pep-Fest as Send-off for Team.

AG. AUDITORIUM WILL BE SCENE OF DEBATE

Speakers Hold Records of Wide Experience—Lansing, to Go Also.

The Ag. college assembly on Thursday, December 11, at 10:15, will be in the nature of a pep and song-fest to give the college debaters an enthusiastic send-off. The teams will meet Ames Saturday night, the affirmative team remaining here, while the negative opposes Ames at Ames.

The debate here will be held in the Ag auditorium, Dr. C. P. Fitch, presiding.

Members of the affirmative team are Charles Hickman, Herbert Robertson, and Phil Wilson. Members of the negative team are Vernon Williams, Edgar James, and Myron Loomis.

Charles Hickman is a senior in the College of Agriculture and a former collegiate debater, being a member of the team that defeated Macalester in the winter of 1917.

H. J. Robertson is a former East High star.

Phil Wilson was a member of the Stillwater high school debate teams for several years.

The negative team is also composed of experienced debaters. Vernon Williams, famous as a football player, has also a splendid debating record in the Mora high school. Edgar James and Myron Loomis are experienced speakers.

Ag. Y. M. Secretary Returns From Detroit

4,228 Representatives Attended Convention—Problems Discussed.

W. L. Witte, secretary of University Farm Y. M. C. A., returned last week from the international "Y" convention at Detroit, Mich.

Every branch of the Y. M. C. A. was represented, including army, navy, city, railroad, industrial and student branches. The general topic for discussion was "The Association's responsibility toward home and foreign problems, social, industrial, political and religious." There were 4,228 representatives from practically every college and university in the United States.

Mr. Witte also attended a meeting of secretaries of state associations at Ann Arbor, which was held for the purpose of working out a correlative program for the coming year.

Class in Ornithology

Dr. T. S. Roberts to Start Course Next Quarter—Preparing Large Bird Group.

Dr. T. S. Roberts will have a class in ornithology next quarter, membership of which will be limited to ten juniors and seniors. The course will consist mainly of field work in the spring quarter.

Dr. T. S. Roberts, while in the east recently attending the meeting of the American Ornithological union, took the opportunity to visit the great museums of the eastern cities in search of possible ideas for the zoological museum here, of which he is in charge.

He said that the groups in the museum here are fully equal to any seen in the east and that the bird group which they are now working on will be superior to anything yet mounted in the university.

CALL FOR CARS.

Cars are needed to bring children to the Christmas party at Shevlin Saturday, December 13, from 2:30 to 5:00 o'clock. Anyone who would be willing to help, please put his name and postoffice box number in box 2092.

Legion Post Formed On Other Campus

Two Former Units Amalgamated—Plan is to Solicit Members From Both School and College.

The organization of Post No. 43, of the American Legion, is now completed and an attempt is being made to enroll every ex-service man on the Ag. campus within its ranks.

This post is the result of an amalgamation of two Legion posts which were organized last spring, one of which was formed by students attending a special term of the school of Agriculture, and sent here by the federal board for vocational education; and the other was composed of former service men from St. Anthony Park. Less than a month ago representatives of the two posts got together and arranged an amalgamation of the two posts and called it St. Anthony Post No. 43.

Every service man on the farm campus, in both school and college, is invited to attend the meetings of the post, which are held at 7:30 p. m. on the first Tuesday of each month in the basement of the St. Anthony Park branch of the public library, on the corner of Carter and West Como avenues, to become a member if he is not already a Legionaire, or to transfer his membership from other posts, if he sees fit. "The policy of the American Legion is 100 per cent Americanism, first, last and all the time, and this post is laying special emphasis on that," says Kenneth Law, historian of the post.

The officers for the coming year are: Clarence Cary, president; Bernard Uhlin, adjutant; Glen H. Greaves, treasurer; and Kenneth B. Law, historian.

Annual Ag. Freshman Party Slated Friday

Entertainment Features Being Planned by Committee—Six Piece Orchestra for Dancing.

The All-Fresh party at the Ag. campus will take place Friday, December 12th, in the Ag gymnasium. There will be no admission.

Everyone is expected to be there ready for the fun at 7:30.

The first part of the evening will be devoted to a program which has aroused much curiosity in the minds of members of the class.

Dancing will be one of the features of the entertainment. A six-piece orchestra will furnish the music.

This will be the first chance for the freshmen to celebrate the victory of Field Day, and the historic green freshman flag will be at the party in a conspicuous place.

Dr. and Mrs. Boyd, Dr. and Mrs. Gay and Dr. and Mrs. Fitch, will be the chaperones.

Flight Of Birds Shown

Dr. T. S. Roberts Prepares Map Indicating Migration of Species From North.

The location of the different birds which visit the state this winter will be indicated by a map to be hung this week in the third floor of the biology building.

Dr. T. S. Roberts is at present busy getting in touch with correspondents throughout the state who will report the appearance of these birds, which come down from the north in the winter and stay in the state until spring, when they return to their colder homes. They are of special interest to bird students because of their rarity and their appearance here when the rest of our birds have gone south.

As there are only about a dozen of these kinds of birds it will be possible to mark the place they are reported from by colored thumb tacks.

DEBATING TEAMS WELL BALANCED

Negative: David Lundeen, captain; C. I. Weikert, R. R. Gibson.

Ossanna.

Among the former varsity debaters is Fred A. Ossanna of Duluth. Mr. Ossanna started his debating career with the Norway, Mich., high school team, which he captained for two years. While at the university, prior to his leaving for service in 1917, Mr. Ossanna became a member of Alpha Sigma Phi and Delta Sigma Rho. He was president of the academic class in 1917, and is a former president of the Forum Literary society and Pan-American club. He was a sophomore debater, sophomore orator, university extension debater, and a member of one of the 1917 varsity debating teams which won against Wisconsin in that year. He is this year a member of the law school student council, and president of the All-University Forum. While in the service Mr. Ossanna was commissioned second lieutenant in the field artillery in 1917, and served nine months in France with the 91st division.

Lundeen.

David Lundeen, also a veteran, was captain of the Hamline team for two years, and captain of a Minnesota team in 1915 and 1916. He also debated with the university extension for two years. Mr. Lundeen is a member of the Shakopee Literary society, Delta Sigma Rho and Delta Chi. He holds a Minnesota B. A. degree and is this year a senior in the College of Law. Mr. Lundeen served with the A. E. F.

Weikert.

Claire I. Weikert, a senior law student this year, also led a Minnesota team to victory against Wisconsin in 1917. He is a member of Delta Chi, Delta Sigma Rho, Iron Wedge, Scabbard and Blade, and has held the presidency of the Forum Literary society. He also led the Forum inter-society team. Mr. Weikert left school to enter the service in 1917 and established an interesting record. He was a captain in the Ninth infantry, Second division and was cited for bravery in action. His over-seas service extended over a period of 23 months, six of which were spent in Germany.

Shapiro.

Max Shapiro began his debating work in North High, where he took part in forensic activities for two years. He was also awarded first place in a high school oratorical contest. Mr. Shapiro began his college debating as a member of the freshmen team last year, and as a contestant in the freshmen-sophomore oratorical contest. He is a member of the Forum Literary society and a sophomore academic.

Gilkinson.
 Bryan A. Gilkinson carried off honors in an inter-collegiate oratorical contest while attending Carleton, winning over the representatives of 12 states. He was leader of the Carleton debating team against Cornell college. Mr. Gilkinson is a member of the Forum Literary society, Delta Chi, and Delta Sigma Rho. He served in the navy as a commissioned ensign.

Gibson.
 Robert R. Gibson comes from the Ohio state university, which he attended before entering the service, and also for a short time last spring after returning. He was active in forensic organizations there. Mr. Gibson was attached with the American air service, and saw eight months of actual flying service with the Royal Air Forces. He is a member of Delta Theta Phi.

All the men, according to Mr. Chas. F. Lindsley, who is coaching them, have been working hard on the question for several weeks, and are prepared to present interesting arguments on both sides of the question. Mr. Lindsley stated that he was satisfied that the men would show up well both here and at Urbana.

The debate tomorrow night will begin at 8 o'clock.

GIFT-TIPS

From day to day between now and Christmas it is our purpose to offer suggestions as to giving—telling briefly the glorious preparations we have made for your wide selection—and recounting from our long experience those gifts most suitable for certain persons and personalities. We believe this is the greatest service our advertising can perform for you during this merry season.

BOOKS

There are gift books and—then there are gifts of books—there is a distinction and if you are discriminating and fastidious you will be pleased with the book section and stay a while. If you are seeking a gift book you will find that easily whether it be a book for a child or a grown person. Merely to suggest books—

Theodore Roosevelt's Letters to His Children—$2.00
 "The Book of a Naturalist," by W. H. Hudson—$3.50
 Letters of Susan Hale—$3.50
 "Sir Harry," by Archibald Marshall—$1.75

Powers—Main Floor.

HANDKERCHIEFS

For a small gift which is really more a greeting and yet carries with it an abundance of Christmas atmosphere there is nothing quite so holiday looking as one of the novelty handkerchiefs in colors—blue, pink, brown or greens or any color you prefer—this bit of gay color boxed in one of the attractive boxes with a spray of a sachet is very smart.

Fancy Linen Handkerchiefs, 29c, 35c to $3.00
 Novelty Handkerchiefs in colors, 15c to 50c
 Men's Linen Handkerchiefs, 29c, 35c to 75c
 Children's Handkerchiefs, box of 3, 25c to 50c

Powers—Main Floor.

STATIONERY

A gift of note-paper this season is such an attractive gift that it is in itself alluring. The beautiful linen papers in their varied tints and the stunning color combinations in the correspondence cards and envelopes are themselves attractive and the boxes and cabinets are truly gift boxes. From the most fanciful to the dignified, and at all prices, the stationery gift will please everyone.

Box—24 sheets and 24 envelopes—50c
 Christmas Cabinet—48 sheets, 48 correspondence cards and 48 envelopes—$1.00 to $5.00
 Circassian Walnut Cabinet—48 sheets, 48 correspondence cards and 48 envelopes—$12.00
 Fountain Pens—$1.50 to $12.00

Powers—Main Floor.

LEATHER GOODS

Leather cases for toilet things are such a joy and they are so "just a little bit of all right" now-a-days. With their fittings of ebony or of imitation ivory a set of military brushes and all the other necessities for a man, the leather traveling cases are a joy forever. At the same place there are the manicure cases for both men and women and the "First Aid" cases and ever so many others.

Leather Traveling Cases, $2.75 to $35.00
 Leather Manicure Sets, $2.75 to $25.00

Powers—Main Floor.

THE SPINAL COLUMN

"Without Which There Could Be No Life" By "Ting"

CONTRARY TO RUMORS ON THE CAMPUS, THE DAILY WILL NOT DISCONTINUE ITS EXISTENCE NOR WILL THE COLUMN BE INCLUDED AMONG THE MISSING.

I sing of Jessalyn Salmon Some news of her I wish. Because her name is Salmon Is no reason she's a fish.

We notice that us and our column is mentioned by the big league writers. Fame is coming, Leo! Fame is coming!

Of course, we admit we're good, but still we have a lot of respect for those who taught us how to hold a pen, viz., Joe McDermott, Leo Sullivan, Ed. Walker and Bull Smith.

TO SAY NOTHING OF HAROLD ROGERS OF THE LAW AND LIE SCHOOL. THERE IS NO BETTER SPENDER IN MINNEAPOLIS THAN HAROLD—PROVIDING YOU'VE GOT THE MONEY:

We've got To do Something To fill Up space.

It may seem rather queer, but we haven't mentioned anything about "Hungry" Murray so far this year. And "Ginger" used to be such a good topic.

After looking over the stuff so far, there's nothing clever in today's column.

A guy must be a regular genius to write stuff like this every day.

A person ought to be able to pick up text books pretty cheap as soon as the majority of the campus funks the finals.

WE HAVE DEMANDED AN INCREASE IN SALARY. A FEW FREE PENCILS CAN WELL BE CONSIDERED AN INCREASE OVER OUR FORMER REMUNERATION.

THE SHINDIG. There's a bunch of jolly miners At the U. of Minnesota Who will gladly bid you welcome, one and all.

At the hop they're going to give you On the thirteenth of December. Be sure you do not miss it. Costs one dollar. Better call. Just because they say that number Is inclined to be unlucky. Don't be so pessimistic as to fail to come at all.

If you do, do not be jealous If you find some other fellow Has your dearest little girlie at the Soph'more Miners' Ball. (Paid Adv.)

We didn't write the above. We hate plagiarism.

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN. Seeing as how C. Branham and Bob Ahern are connected with the Central Alumni dance it should be quite a success. They'll likely be wearing new clothes if they find enough suckers to buy tickets. (Paid adv.)

The Kappa Sigs have tendered us a vote of thanks for our lit'ry mention of them in yesterday's column.

As a well known Minneapolis newspaper writer remarked, Doggonit, Ting, you've got to be clever to hold down my job.

A writer's modesty is only rivalled by a prize fighter's.

We believe that the world's champion optimist is the college student, who, when he removes himself from a class room is asked, "Did you funk your quiz?" smiles and says, "No, my fountain pen ran out of ink so I couldn't write anything."

Facing an absolute shortage of all coal after the Christmas holidays, university authorities Thursday decided that oil would be used when the university coal reserve is exhausted.—Oklahoma Daily.

Conservation of coal and use of wood in place of it was urged by President Stratton D. Brooks yesterday. Normal man will not be able to get coal until February 1, he believes.—Oklahoma Daily.

REMEMBER THE "M" BANQUET.

Quack! Quack!

Women's emancipation breaks forth again when seven co-eds, imitating the Ugly Duckling club of the men, claim that the men have nothing on them and maintain that they are uglier even than any of clock-stoppers of the male persuasion. We have it from "Ting" that this is just a pose, and Ting should know—he is Grande Monarch of the mis-applied countenances. However, the feminine poseurs have chosen one well able to represent them as chief Goose of the Gooey Goslings in Marion Jones. The other gumming Goslings are: Hazel Gleason, next big Goose; Mildred Hogan, keeper-of-the-goose-quill; Mabel Prothers, gatherer of the eggs; and Jessie Owen, nest builder. The eggs yet unhatched are: Jane Wilder and Rachel Beard.

Around the College World

OKLAHOMA. Fifty university men will leave over the Rock Island railroad, Oklahoma City, this evening to work in the strip mines at McAlester at the call of C. B. Nesbitt, member of the state council of defense, late Friday evening to Pres. Stratton D. Brooks for volunteers.

NORTH DAKOTA. Melvin Johnson will read the "Christmas Carol," by Dickens, Sunday, in the old gymnasium. This is the revival of the custom prevalent at the university in past years, when this ideal Christmas story was read each year by Professor Koch. For 13 years the reading was one of the traditions of the campus, and it was discontinued only when Professor Koch left last year for Carolina.

PENNSYLVANIA. Serious voting is to be the slogan of The Pennsylvanian straw vote, starting today and continuing until tomorrow, to determine the features contributing in a major way to the success of the Philadelphia papers. The importance of careful voting cannot be overemphasized. Modern newspapers have come in for a great deal of severe criticism, and much of it has been pointless. The Pennsylvanian is advocating serious and intelligent voting.

WISCONSIN. Warning that extensive curtailment of transportation facilities due to the coal strike may seriously complicate the matter of getting students home in time for Christmas is voiced in a letter sent to the faculty yesterday by F. J. Zoelle, Northwestern local agent. He suggests that an earlier starting of the holidays than December 23d, the date originally set, would help the railroads to handle the large added passenger traffic of several thousand students going home for the vacation, before the regular heavy Christmas passenger traffic sets in.

OHIO. Funds to bring the present appropriation for the university payroll and maintenance for the year beginning July, 1920, up to the medium level of the existing needs of the university, and a proposed five-year budget to increase the payroll of the instructional force, thereby putting Ohio State professors and instructors on a competitive basis with other universities in the country, will be asked of the present session of the Ohio legislature by the Ohio State board of trustees. No attempt will be made at this time to ask for appropriations for new buildings, which are much needed on the campus, owing to an existing appropriation for which there are no bids because of the instability of building conditions.

CHICAGO. "After all, has the English novel advanced?" questioned Hugh Walpole as he closed his lecture on "Modern English Novelists" before a large audience in Mandel hall last night. "Have the lengthy psychological writings of Henry James depicted more of human life than the early stories of 'Tom Jones,' or 'Tristram Shandy'?"

Mr. Walpole pointed out the origin and history of the two schools of English novel writing; on one hand "the bread and butter" school and on the other the "hashes." He showed the gradual development of the two schools touching at length on such high lights as his own ancestor, Horace Walpole, whom, he said, started the romantic movement, George Elliot, Henry James, Kipling, Wells, Bennett, Beresford, Ethel Sidgwick, and Dorothy Richardson.

JENKS SPEAKS IN SO. DAKOTA. Dr. A. E. Jenks, director of Americanization training, is in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, to speak this afternoon on the subject of Americanization. He will lead the discussion of Americanization before the inter-church movement program being given for South Dakota this week.

At The Theatres

By GLADYS BARKE.

Up to this time reviews of downtown theatres have been running in this column in a spasmodic fashion. From now on, they will appear regularly every Wednesday.

WIDOW BY PROXY.

If widows in general should have the charm and fascination which Marguerite Clark displays as the "Widow by Proxy," university girls would indeed have cause for worry. However, there is only one Marguerite Clark and she is too far away to be dangerous. Draw a deep breath again, girls. Taking care of Dolores Pennington, a sick girl friend, whose husband was supposedly killed in France, proves detrimental to the finances of Gloria Grey (Marguerite Clark). She goes to the Pennington home, in place of Dolores, to get the husband's share of the estate. Pennington's brother immediately falls in love with the "Widow by Proxy," causing laughable complications to arise when the husband shows up very much alive.

Enough has been said of irrefragable Marguerite Clark. Nigel Barrie makes a good looking hero though little can be said for his acting.

A Sennett comedy is another feature of the excellent bill at the Strand this week.

BROKEN BLOSSOMS.

"Broken Blossoms," running indefinitely at the New Lyric, tells of a ragged little English girl, whose father, a prize fighter, has abused her all her life. How she falls in love with a Chinese boy, who has shown her the only kindness she has ever known, is a pathetic story, nor does the blot brighten when her father finds her in the Chinaman's house. "Broken Blossoms" has not a ray of humor and moves slowly in spots, but yet, the exquisite acting of Lillian Gish holds your interest throughout the film. Richard Barthelme plays the Chinaman realistically. It is the heaviest role he has attempted and he does it extremely well.

TOYS WANTED FOR PARTY.

All university women are asked to contribute inexpensive toys for the poor children's Christmas party to be given next Saturday by the W. S. G. A., the Y. W. C. A., and the W. A. A. Contributions should be put in the barrel in the entry of Shevlin hall.

The price of fuel oil has soared since the coal strike to a high point. It can probably be obtained at from $2 to $3 a barrel. Getting tank cars possibly will be harder than oil. Felgar said. Installation of oil burners, the dean indicated, will mean adoption of oil as a permanent reserve fuel. Normally fuel oil is no more expensive than coal. Pipes may be laid later for pumping the oil from the railroad, though for this year it will have to be hauled. Sixty or seventy barrels of oil a day will be the maximum requirement for the university on freezing days, it is estimated. A car usually holds about 200 barrels.—Oklahoma Daily.
