Workmen are handling all stages of the apartment-style housing complex now underway on the northwest corner of the campus. The project will have 76 pre-built units capable of housing 300 students by fall. An additional 24 units will be added next summer. Here, workmen attach a porch to one of the units.

11 Faculty Appointments Announced by Provost

Eleven new appointments to the faculty have been announced by UMD Provost Raymond W. Darland.

Darland said the eleven represent new positions as well as appointments to replace terminated or retired faculty.

The new appointees are:

Thomas F. Jordan, professor of physics. A Duluth native, Jordan received his B. A. degree from UMD and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Rochester. He taught previously at the University of Rochester and the University of Pittsburgh.

Joann Marlene Johnson, associate professor of physical education. Miss Johnson also received her bachelors degree from UMD and earned her masters at the University of Colorado and her doctorate at the University of Southern California. Most recently, she was an assistant professor at Smith College.

Louise Brown, assistant professor of special education. Her college teaching appointments have included Indiana University and George Peabody College for Teachers. She earned her B.A. degree at the University of Missouri, Kansas City, and her M.S. Ed. and Ed.D. at the University of Kansas.

Theodore M. Breu, instructor of business administration. Breu earned his B.A. degree from St. Mary's College, Winona, and his M.S. degree from Purdue University.

Nicholas A. Fattu Jr., instructor of political science. He received his bachelors and masters degrees from Indiana University and expects to receive his doctorate from there by September.

Conrad E. Firling, instructor of biology. He received his bachelors and masters degrees from De Paul University and expects his Ph.D. from Southern Illinois University in August. Firling taught previously at De Paul University, Washington University and Southern Illinois University.

Ronald W. Garrett, instructor of geography. A native of Floodwood, Garrett received his B.S. degree from UMD and his M.A. degree at

Brave New Workshop Presents Its Satire Tuesday In Ballroom

Dudley Riggs' Brave New Workshop, billed as the "oldest existing satirical revue company in the United States," presents the story of itself at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the UMD Kirby Student Center Ballroom.

The evening's show is entitled "I Am Curious (Red, White and Blue)" or "The Story of the Brave New Workshop." Tuesday's program is free and open to the public.

The Workshop is the creation of Dudley Riggs, former circus performer turned cafe owner and actor. It was begun in 1966, evolving out of the Cafe Espresso, a coffee house which Riggs operated near the University campus in Minneapolis.

Currently, the Workshop is located in a restaurant-coffee house-theater at 2605 Hennepin Ave. in Minneapolis.

Described as an actor's theater, most of the satirical sketches used by the Workshop are developed through improvisation sessions held several times weekly. Frequently, shows contain a section of live improvisation based on audience suggestions.

Founder Riggs also serves as producer for the theater's performances. Now 38 years old, Riggs was born into the Riggs and Riggs high-wire act with Ringling Brothers Circus. At the age of five he became part of the act and continued in the circus business for 20 years.

In 1957, he fell off a high wire pole, decided the theater might be safer, and enrolled at the University of Minnesota as a theater major. During his undergraduate years at the University, he opened the Cafe Espresso near campus where he featured espresso coffee, plays and poetry readings. He received his bachelors degree in theater in 1963.

Regents Adopt Policies To Encourage And Fund Educational Innovation

Two new policies which will broaden educational horizons and development were approved recently by the University's Board of Regents.

The All-University Policy on Liberal Education attempts to create a near-radical departure from the traditional classroom approach. It encourages off-campus study, scientific expeditions, foreign travel, "living-learning experiences" and independent study.

All colleges are urged to fulfill the new objectives of liberal education by meeting requirements in four basic categories of knowledge: 1) communication, language and mathematics; 2) physical and biological sciences; 3) man and society and 4) artistic expression.

The second plan allocates three per cent of University instructional resources for educational development.

Purpose of the proposal is to improve undergraduate and graduate education. The funds, by the end of a five year period, will be budgeted in approximately equal amounts at three administrative levels—departmental, collegiate, and all-university. The money will be allocated through a merit review procedure designed to insure that the resources of the program are directed toward a coordinated plan to address the complex of educational problems at a large university.

Both proposals grew out of student-faculty sub-committees in the Council on Liberal Education.

ELEMENTARY ED. EXAMS

The mathematics and English proficiency examinations for elementary education majors will be given at 3 p.m. Aug. 4 in the Home Economics 80 auditorium.

Students planning to take either or both of the tests should sign up in the Elementary Education Office, Education 221, before Aug. 3.

Passing of both examinations is a pre-requisite to enrolling in Ed. 61, Curriculum and Methods in Elementary Education.

The proficiency exams are not required of experienced teachers who are completing requirements for bachelor's degrees.

Dean Says G.P.'s Needed; Youth Will Meet Demand

Dr. Robert E. Carter, newly appointed dean of the Basic Sciences Program for Medical Education at UMD, Wednesday cited a great need for family practitioners and expressed confidence that today's young people entering the medical profession would be willing to meet this demand.

In his first meeting with area newsmen, Carter also outlined some of the upcoming activities necessary to carry out the plan for a basic sciences in medical education program able to take its first 24 students by the fall of 1972.

Carter described the need for family practitioners as "very great." He called the rapid decline in family medicine "a difficult situation throughout the country."

The dean does not anticipate problems attracting young people to family practice.

"They approach medical education with very altruistic feelings. They want to help their fellow man and they want to practice in the area of need. Our task in any new school is to reinforce and to support these feelings and to train them quite specifically to do what they want to do," he said.

Carter said his initial work as dean of the medical science program would be to take steps which relating to the development of a curriculum, the acquisition of key faculty and achieving a status of full accreditation for the school as an educational unit. He added that students would have to be recruited in the six months prior to the opening of the school.

Carter estimated that about 12 or 13 faculty would be needed at the time the first student are admitted to the program, depending on the resources available in the area and the requirements of the various accrediting bodies.

Carter was appointed dean at the July meeting of the University Regents. Since 1967, he has been dean of the School of Medicine and director of the University Medical Center at the University of Mississippi at Jackson. Carter will begin his work at UMD in September.

the University campus in Minneapolis. He taught previously at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, St. Cloud State College and Virginia Junior College.

Craig H. Grau, instructor of political science. Grau earned his B.S. and M.S. degrees from the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

Ronald Haladya, instructor of languages. He has a bachelors degree from Eastern Illinois University and a masters degree from the University of Wisconsin.

Gordon L. Levine, instructor of geography. Levine received his bachelors and masters degrees from the University of Michigan.

Roger C. Lips, instructor of English. Lips received the B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Louisville and has completed his Ph.D. dissertation at the University of Wisconsin.

UMD Course in Sailing Offers Fun for Credit

Physical Education 28—Small Craft—is proving to be a popular way of satisfying UMD liberal education requirements. Put simply, Physical Education 28 means “sailing,” and with fine cooperation from the weather this Summer Session, it has given countless hours of enjoyment to those enrolled.

The sailing class includes classroom instruction as well as practical experience. Most of the sailing is done in the bay of Lake Superior near the Aerial Bridge. The class is also offered during spring quarters.

Small Craft instructors include Bruce Rutherford, Tom Pollack and Neale Roth.

The sailing course was begun last summer when the University purchased four 14-foot sailboats. The boats are also available for rent by UMD students through the Kirby Information Desk. The renters must demonstrate that they are qualified sailboat operators, however.

Calendar of Coming Events

Your Summer Leisure Hosts: Paul Johnson, Sue Desmonde, Neale Roth

Pick a donut right off the "assembly line" to go with your morning coffee during our tour of the Zinsmaster Bakery at 9:30 a.m. Monday. The tour will feature dough mixing, the baking process and wrapping. Sign up at Kirby Desk.

Monday, the second session of our seminar "Contemporary Religions: Attitudes and Changes" will start at 7:30 p.m. in Kirby 250. John Husband, UMD Chaplain and Paul Berg, a Catholic Priest, will lead the discussion of "Unorthodox Religion: Youth's Search for the Mystical Experience." At a time when many young people are looking for a "meaningful" religion this session should be of interest to everyone.

Dr. Dale Olsen is our faculty focus speaker Tuesday afternoon. His topic, "Environmental Quality in Urban America," is everyone's concern. He will present a general overview of the problems of a deteriorating physical environment in our cities.

The highlight of the week is the performance of Dudley Riggs' Brave New Workshop. The oldest existing satirical revue company in the United States will present "I Am Curious (Red, White and Blue)." The Brave New Workshop's satirical sketches are developed by their professional actors. It adds up to an exciting and entertaining brand of theatre. The free performance starts at 8 p.m. in the Ballroom.

We are fortunate to have John Husband show us Duluth through the eyes of an architect on Wednesday. John is a graduate of the University of Minnesota School of Architecture, and is presently a campus chaplain at UMD. Join us as he points out the buildings which were influenced by national periods of history. Sign up at Kirby Desk.

Try a cool, juicy slide of watermelon on Kirby Terrace Thursday afternoon. They go fast, so don't miss out!

If you haven't seen the beautiful scenery of Northern Minnesota, the Sawbill Canoe Trip is a must. The trip is designed for the novice as well as the expert and will provide one of the most enjoyable weekends possible. Sign up at Kirby Desk by July 28.

OFFICIAL NOTICES

Special and Summer Only Students

Special and Summer Only Students are reminded that if they subsequently decide to make application for admission to the Graduate School, they must apply only their first term's work as such students toward the requirements for the Master's degree.

Graduate School

All Graduate School students who have not registered in the Graduate School for two consecutive years or more must take action through the Graduate School Office, SM 206, to apply for readmission at least four weeks prior to entry date.

Graduate School students who have been admitted to the Graduate School, but who have not registered within a year of admission must reapply to the Graduate School Office at least four weeks prior to entry date.

Fall Quarter Readmission

Any student seeking admission for fall quarter who was not in good academic standing during his last regular quarter in attendance must submit a petition to the Scholastic Committee by August 1.

Students attending either or both summer terms should note this on their petitions so that action can be deferred until Summer Session grades are available.

Graduating Seniors

Currently enrolled students who plan on completing undergraduate degree requirements at the end of the current term must file applications for degree in the Office of Records, Kirby 130, no later than July 24, 1970. Applications received after that date will not be considered.

Registration Changes

Any requests for changes in registration after the first week of classes (July 24) must be approved by the instructor involved and the Scholastic Committee. Only in exceptional cases will such petitions be granted.
