

AVC Moves To Organize Ag Campus

'Full Cooperation' to New National Slate Endorsed by Group

The American Veterans committee decided yesterday to move into the Ag campus and help form an affiliate there.

A motion was passed to give aid to another University AVC chapter until it could shift for itself.

In a general membership meeting that lasted two and one-half hours, the fight between the right and left factions continued but with a few signs of agreement.

The two hottest battles were about a chapter bylaw, on the delegate to the state AVC planning board and on a resolution of confidence for the new national AVC officers.

Don Fraser, Law sophomore, proposed that the chapter delegate to the state board be the incumbent chairman of the local group.

If passed, this would remove Vince Carlson, former head of the chapter.

But club statutes state that an amendment to be read before the membership must have at least 20 signatures. When Fraser was called to read the amendment, it was discovered that the signed petition had disappeared.

A new list was made and the amendment read. Action will be taken at the next general meeting.

Wording of a resolution of confidence for the new slate of AVC heads was wrangled back and forth among such terms as "wholehearted support," "full cooperation" and "cooperation." The group finally agreed on "full cooperation."

U Fund Trustees To Elect Director

Eight trustees of the newly-created Greater University fund will meet at luncheon Wednesday at the Union to elect a fund director and determine policies of fund distribution.

The fund was set up by the General Alumni association to finance projects outside the usual University maintenance.

Biggest task before the trustees, according to E. B. Pierce, association secretary, is to locate the 200,000 University alumni for contributions to the fund.

Morrill: City On 'Inside' for '56 Olympics

By Steve Alnes
Minneapolis is on the "inside track" in its race to get the 1956 Olympics games staged here.

So said President Morrill yesterday at his first press conference since returning Tuesday from Sweden where he was a member of the Minneapolis delegation to the 1952 Olympics site-choosing committee.

Minneapolis got five votes and ran in a second-place tie with Los Angeles behind Helsinki which got 15 votes.

Dr. Morrill said Helsinki got the nod because the 1940 games were scheduled for there until they were called off because of the war and "because there is an enormous sympathy for the Finns."

"But some of the delegates expressed grave doubt that Helsinki will be in a position to handle the contests," he added.

Dr. Morrill said he doesn't regard the Los Angeles tie as much of a threat in the 1956 race.

The president said he went to Sweden on two other "errands" besides his delegation job. One was to further educational relations between the University and the northern Scandinavian countries; the other was as unofficial ambassador to the "many friends and relatives of people in this area."

In regard to educational relations, Dr. Morrill said, "I sought a way for the University to help Scandinavian schools. I think that we should be able to give very material aid to such schools as the American institute of Upsala university in Sweden."

"Also, they feel an exchange of professors and students is desirable. I think it's a powerful force in world understanding. International relations after all comes down to the level of human relations."

Dr. Morrill also met King Haakon of Norway and he said the king expressed "great interest" in the Norwegians here.

Dr. Morrill said he couldn't be sure of his impressions because of the short time he was overseas, but he said it seemed to him that the Norwegians are happy and optimistic beyond belief.

Sweden on the other hand seemed to have an undercurrent of grave anxiety, Dr. Morrill said. "Of course, I can't be sure on such brief contact with the country," he said, "but it seemed that there is a sharp split over the Russian five-year pact."

'Earnest' Could Be More So But Reviewer Says Show's Good

By Bernard Elevitch
Daily Theater Critic

Oscar Wilde, a man convinced of the importance of being witty, is exhibited to good advantage in the University Theater's current presentation of "The Importance of Being Earnest."

His three-act exposition of the ridiculousness of being a Victorian concerns a wealthy young man with an imaginary brother and two very earnest young women who believe themselves engaged to the brother.

Few, however, are interested in the impossible plot. "Earnest" was written solely to induce laughter at the expense of Victorian manners, habits and morals. Wilde's sparkling wit is therefore of primary importance and his conversation-ridden story is full of it.

One even gets tired of laughing, of course, and before the play is over some members of the audience must be weary of hearing sparkling literary gems.

Because the Theater itself does not always treat the author as it should, the admirably ridiculous play occasionally degenerates into silliness. For example, Algernon, responsible for most of the delightfully artificial conversation, is played more as a happy-go-lucky and precocious boy than as a decadent young aristocrat.

An air of sobriety—an impression that the characters really are taking themselves seriously—probably would enhance the joke.

Arthur Ballet does very well as Jack Worthing, Robert Moulton plays Algernon. Corinne Rickert is a winning Cecily and Norma Jean Wanvig (Gwendolen) gives a performance of professional caliber—as usual.

Remaining performances will be given at 3 and 8:30 p.m. today and at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Music auditorium.

Convo Small Talk She Likes It Here

A short, witty woman from England who could barely peer over the speaker's stand in Northrop auditorium spoke to a Convocation audience yesterday on a score of topics ranging from rationing in England to radio commercials in America.

She was Mrs. Emilie Jacobson, English actress and stage director. She talked on "England As I Left It—America As I Found It" for two reasons.

One, she said, was because she likes to make speeches; the other because she has to stay alive. Her funds, she explained, are tied up in England.

Among other topics, she discoursed on: The English fuel shortage. "A bath in England during winter takes a kind of heroism. The English are allowed half a ton of coal per house each six months."

American food.
American drugstores.

American radio commercials. "I was particularly upset after a performance of Schubert's 'Ave Maria' to hear an announcer advocate a certain brand of laxative because it is gentle and kind."

Uniform costumes for students. "I approve of the English system of uniform costumes as a leveling influence."

British Labor party. "It's not communistic."

American cops. "Only in America would a policeman greet me after an absence with a 'Hello, honey!' I like it, though."

British-American relations. "In a world which needs friendship now more than ever, we who have a common language should take the lead in spreading that friendship."

LSA Offers Social, Religious Activities

"Christ in This Modern World" is the theme for the summer program of the Lutheran Students association.

This Sunday, students will meet at the LSA house, 1813 University avenue S.E. at 4 p.m. and from there will go to Phalen park, St. Paul.

The program also consists of Bible studies held at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. daily at the LSA house. These studies are conducted by the Rev. Lael Westburg.

Chapel sessions led by students are held Tuesday and Friday from 12:30 to 12:45 p.m. Wednesday chow chats are held at 12 p.m.

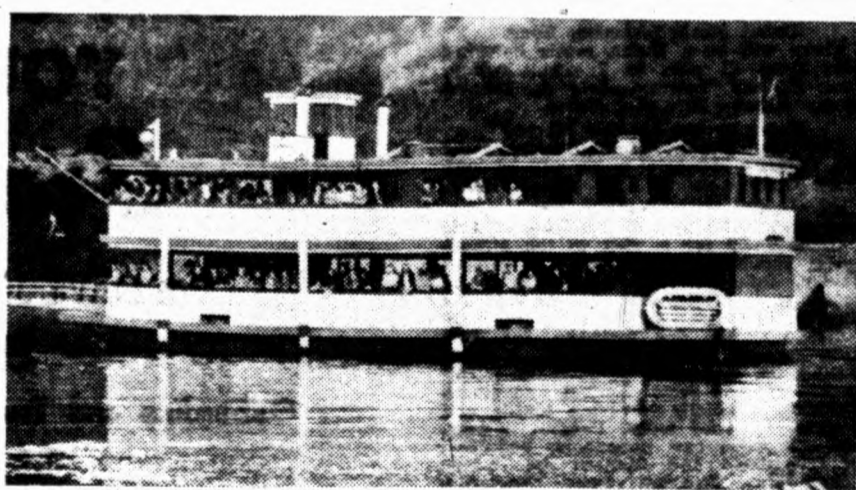

U Hospitals 'Close' 25 Beds; Shortage Of Nurses Blamed

The nursing shortage yesterday was blamed for the closing of 25 beds for surgery cases in University hospitals.

Gertrude M. Gilman, assistant superintendent of the hospitals, said that efforts are being made to get more nurses by newspaper ads and through employment agencies.

The surgery waiting list has increased to around 200, she said, compared with a maximum of 25 to 30 normally.

Miss Gilman said that more nurses are practicing now than ever before but that the demand for them far exceeds the supply.

River Boat Donna Mae

River Flivver Donna Mae Away

You can sell your girl on going down the river. At least, that's what students have been doing for 12 years. Every summer for that period, the 225-passenger river boat Donna Mae has been leaving its dock on the river flats below the Union for a three and one-half hour moonlight cruise.

The Veterans club is sponsoring the second trip of the summer sessions at 7:30 p.m. today. All students may attend, and tickets are on sale at the Union information desk and at a table in the Postoffice.

The boat was designed and built by her skipper, E. W. Hölstrom, and it's, completely manned by members of his family.

The usual cruise is to the mouth of the Minnesota river when the current is slow. A shorter trip is made when the current is fast.

"No one ever has fallen overboard from the Donna Mae," the skipper said yesterday, "although one man jumped in on a bet and tried to swim ashore. We had to fish him out."

who will make TIME

in the weeks just ahead?*

NOT US. We are Lyman Newlin (Manager) and Elizabeth Dunn (Book Department), your friends at the Minnesota Book Store—and Paul Madison, your student representative at 3240 Idaho Avenue. We'll see that your entries in this contest are forwarded to TIME. And we'll also be glad to enter TIME subscriptions for you at the special College Rate of only $4.50 a year. This saves you $5.90 under the newsstand price, $2 under the regular subscription price at $6.50 a year.

TIME THE WEEKLY NEWSMAGAZINE

9 ROCKEFELLER PLAZA • NEW YORK 20, N. Y.

YOUR ANSWER MAY WIN $25 AND A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO TIME!

How keen is your news-sense?

Are you good at predictions?

Then who do you think are the 20 newsmakers most likely to be pictured in TIME's pages during the next few weeks—the men and women who will find themselves in the world's spotlight during the next 30 days?

You don't have to be a TIME subscriber (or even a newsstand buyer) to enter this contest—but your chances are better if you have been a regular reader of TIME.

For every week TIME has told you the news of the world in the human, intimate, flesh-and-blood terms of the people who make the news (and brought you the pictures of 50 of these newsmakers in each weekly issue). TIME has filled in the background to show WHY this news happened—sighted ahead of the news and figured out its implications to show what is likely to happen NEXT.

Now TIME invites all students and faculty members on this campus to test their knowledge of the news and the people who make it by entering this Newsmakers Contest.

Try it for fun. Talk it over with your friends. Everyone has his own ideas about the news of the weeks ahead—and YOUR predictions may be close enough to right to win for you the $25 prize and the free subscription to TIME for the 52 exciting, important, news-packed weeks to come!

HOW TO WIN TIME'S $25 PRIZE

1. TIME will give $25 and a year's subscription to TIME to the student or faculty member at the University of Minnesota who most closely predicts 20 of the approximately 200 newsmakers whose pictures will appear in the July 14, July 21, July 28 and August 4 issues of TIME. Newsmakers do not have to be listed in the order of their appearance in TIME.
2. This contest starts today, June 27, and all entries must be in by midnight, July 9. (You will find boxes at key points around the campus where you can drop your entries.)
3. All students and faculty members of the University of Minnesota are eligible for this contest; you don't have to be subscribing to TIME or buying it at the newsstand to enter—nor do you need to become a subscriber or newsstand buyer to win.
4. Each student and faculty member may submit as many entries as he wants to; additional entry blanks may be obtained from TIME's subscription representative, from the office of your college newspaper, at the boxes where you drop your entries.
5. The winner of this contest will be named in this paper, and his prize will be awarded promptly. In case of ties, winners will be asked to enter another contest in which they will try to predict 20 newsmakers who will be pictured in the two upcoming issues of TIME.
6. If the winner of this contest is already a TIME subscriber, he may send the TIME subscription he wins to any person or institution he names.

I THINK THE 20 NEWSMAKERS

most likely to be pictured in the July 14, July 21, July 28 and August 4 issues of TIME ARE:
