'Caddie Woodlawn'— Story, Book, Play

A fondness for telling stories to her children has grown into a profitable hobby for Carol Ryrie Brink, wife of Raymond R. Brink, professor of mathematics at the University.

Carol R. Brink

About 12 years ago, Mrs. Brink started to write down the imaginative adventure stories she told her son and daughter. One of them grew into the book, "Caddie Woodlawn," to be presented in dramatic form by the University Theater beginning at 3:30 p.m. Monday.

"Caddie Woodlawn" received John Newberry medal in 1935 for being the year's most distinguished contribution to children's literature. Mrs. Brink recently dramatized the book at the request of numerous little theater groups.

Like the book, the play tells of the adventures of a pioneer family in Wisconsin.

Seven children's matinees are scheduled from Monday through next Saturday at the Music hall, as well as three evening performances, Thursday through Saturday.

Mrs. Brink has seen only one rehearsal but intends to be on hand for the opening performance, "to see how the children like it."

Her first novel for adults, "Buffalo Coat," published in the fall of 1944, is the story of pioneer days in Idaho. Mrs. Brink just finished a biography of the singing Hutchinson family, "Harps in the Wind." It will be published early this spring.

Mrs. Brink attributes her switch from writing for children to writing for adults to the fact that her children are now grown up. "There's nobody left on whom to practice," she says.

Race Tolerance To Be Observed

Brotherhood Week
Set for Feb. 16-21

"In peace as in war—teamwork!" is the theme for Brotherhood week, which will be observed on campus Feb. 21, under the auspices of the Student Council of Religions.

The campus observance will be in conjunction with national Brotherhood week, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Observance of the week this year will emphasize reaching students through organized groups, book displays and radio programs. An inter-racial panel discussion to be conducted by Frank M. Rarig, chairman of the speech department, is being planned by KUOM.

The YWCA-sponsored festival of nations, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 16 at the YMCA, will be the first event of Brotherhood week. Theme of the festival will be "India Tomorrow."

The Rev. Clifford A. Nelson, member of the World Council of Churches, will be speaker at the world day of prayer program, to be held at 7 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 17, in the Union main ballroom. Other numbers, including the Psi Omega choir, will be on the program.

A coffee hour, to be held from 3:30 till 5:30 p.m. Feb. 20 at the Lutheran Student association house, will be one of the week's main events. A special program, representing various racial backgrounds, is being planned.

Jean Parker, Education senior, is general chairman, and Mary Alice Beck, campus director of Congregational students, is adviser. Committee chairmen are: Shirley Witebsky and Martin Nisker, publicity; Gwen Lageson, radio.

Others are Betty Heath, organizational contacts; Marie Harrigan, faculty contacts; Virginia Pappas, festival of nations; Fred Landt, world day of prayer; Elaine Oberg, coffee hour.

5 of Pioneer's 16 Houses Will Be Vacated by NROTC

Flt. to Grant U 100 Family Units

Trailer Occupancy
Slated for April 1

Emergency housing units for the Como avenue camp rose to a total of 410 yesterday with the announcement by the Federal Housing Authority in Chicago that 100 additional housing units will be allocated to the University.

The University previously had requested 250 additional living units but William T. Middlebrook, vice president in charge of business administration, said yesterday that officials of the regional FHA office had informed him only 100 units would be granted.

The 100 units are in addition to 214 trailers and 96 prefabricated living units now on order—bringing the grand total on order or expected to 410.

No one as yet however, knows where the 100 units are. The Chicago officials, according to Middlebrook, have not yet decided from what locality the units will be transferred to the University.

Action is expected soon, said Middlebrook, though he doesn't know whether the additional family quarters will be more trailers or more prefabs.

Meanwhile, the first of six laundry and toilet facilities at the Como avenue camp is nearing completion according to Roy Lund, University engineer, and work on the 20 trailers now on the site and the prefab foundations is progressing steadily.

The trailer camp, said Lund, should be completed and ready for occupancy by April 1. The first two of 121 trailers being brought here from Charlestown, Ind. are expected to arrive soon, although icy highways have been delaying their arrival.

An additional 75 University-owned trailers will be brought here from Buchanan, Mich., but are not yet ready to be shipped, said Lund.

The first group of veterans, however, are scheduled to start moving into the trailers in three or four weeks and into the prefabs shortly after that.

W. M. Fitch, head of the construction company erecting the prefabs, has estimated that the first one will go up about the middle of next week and that all 48 will be up in about six weeks.

Let's Try Robot

Groundhog Is Out of Date

By Bayle Zurovsky

In an age of science (not to mention atomic energy), people are still suckers for a legend. Witness the groundhog fabrication.

Annually on this day, men, of otherwise acceptable intelligence, wait for the groundhog to chase his shadow back into his hole or to cavort shadowless on the icy ground.

If the shadow appears, these otherwise intelligent men settle back without a word to six more weeks of firesides and carpet slippers. If the shadow is absent, they polish up their golf clubs.

Silly behavior in an age of radar moon-bouncing and rocket planes. If the tradition must exist, why choose the groundhog? Why not a robot animal sensitized to light rays and equipped with special mechanisms to determine within six minutes the advent of spring?

And more than disregarding science, the groundhog angle contributes to regionalism in a time of world cooperation. How about the Southern people who never see a groundhog? Any naturalist will tell you the groundhog is strictly a northeastern and Canadian animal. First thing we know, there'll be another Civil War.

Obviously the whole thing points to a groundhog fact-finding committee, appointed to study the merits and demerits of groundhog activity. While the groundhog waited 30 days, the committee could study all factors of the custom.

They would have to consider various kinds of groundhogs—after all, there must be some varieties so conditioned that shadows do not frighten them. What would happen in an arbitration case of that kind?

Without running down the groundhog, let's have no more of blind superstition before the facts are known.

Organist Takes Over

By Katherine Stickney Daily Music Critic

Northrop auditorium is without the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra these days and would have been absolutely desolate last night if it hadn't been for a superb recital by the noted organist, Ernest White, of New York.

To organists attending the recital, the program was satisfying because of the variety displayed by White in his choice of program and registration of the compositions.

Museum Exhibits Rare Birds

By Shirley Dickson

Wax flowers, excelsior-stuffed birds and painted backdrops—but the five cases of Minnesota birds in the Museum of Natural History look as real as any outdoor scenes around the campus.

However, the birds exhibited are of a species that no one would find on the University campus. According to Dr. Walter J. Breckenridge, curator of the Museum, the bald eagle, snow geese and Lake Pepin shore birds mounted in the cases used to be popular game birds.

Possibly too many hunters were intrigued with their mating dance which consists of assorted jumps and bows, because now these birds are almost extinct.

The birds for the exhibit were obtained near North Platte, Neb. by Dr. Breckenridge last spring, and the exhibit was completed only last month.

After the birds were collected, they were skinned and stuffed with excelsior which was custom-tailored to fit their shapes. Then they were mounted and set in the cases in life-like poses.

The painted backdrops for all the exhibits were done by Francis Lee Jacques who formerly painted backgrounds for the New York American Museum of Natural History.

Specialized sessions at the clinic will take up problems of vocal training in elementary and rural music as well as vocal problems in junior and senior high schools. A second series of specialized discussion will be conducted on band problems.

Gophers Tie Michigan In Wild, Woolly Tilt, 3-3

By Rod Rasmusson

Michigan's Wolverines skated and talked their way into their first Big Ten hockey title since 1938 when they played a 3-3 overtime tie with the Minnesota Gophers.

An underdog Maroon and Gold team held the vaunted Michigan attack to three goals, something that hasn't been done all season. Coach Larry Armstrong's men were behind only once in the first period but were hard pressed, even with the Wolverines shorthanded, to halt the powerful Michigan attack.

The game was marked by the verbal protests of the Michigan players who appeared willing to challenge Referee Goheen on every decision. Goheen dished out a total of 13 penalties to the Wolverines—everything from charging the goalie to four major misconduct penalties.

Led by hard checking Joe Tergesen, who played with a broken wrist, the Gopher defense proved too tough for the Maize and Blue to crack. Time after time the Michiganders' offensive thrusts were broken up at the blue line or else by the sterling net work of goalie Duff McDermidd who twice stymied Michigan men single handedly when they split the Gopher defense.

The first period began listlessly as the Gophers appeared satisfied to play a waiting game only breaking into attack at opportune moments. Eveleth's Wally Gacek got the first red light of the evening for Michigan when he beat McDermidd after a face off inside the Gopher blue line.

Bob Carley tied it up a moment later with a goal scored on a sleeper play. Michigan goalie McInnes had no chance when Carley came in on him alone, faked him out of position and drove in the goal.

Second period play started rough and verbal at least for the Wolverines who got three of their misconduct penalties in this period after putting on a sob act that had the 2,000 fans booing lustily. Only score of the period was Bob Fleming's shot from close in which ended the period with the Gophers leading, 2-1.

Three goals were scored in the first seven minutes of the final regular period ending the scoring for the night. Grant and Gacek scored for Michigan and Joe Tergesen made a solo dash through the entire Wolverine sextet to tie up the game at three all.

The overtime period was an anti-climax, both teams making no serious scoring threats. Al Renfrew, Michigan wingman, was forced from the ice with two minutes to go when he ran head-on into the boards. The game ended with the puck at mid-ice.

The same two teams play again tonight in the final game of this year's series. Game time is 8:15 at the Minneapolis Arena.

Gopher Title Hope On Line Tonight

By Don Grawert

Minnesota's 1946 conference title claim will go on the line for the sixth time at Lafayette, Ind., tonight when the Gophers encounter Purdue's Boilermakers in a "comeback" scuffle. Sporting a one-game losing streak, their only loss in Big Ten competition, the Gophers will tackle the Boilermakers in what amounts to a "must" game for the Maroon and Gold.

After tonight's encounter, the Gophers will return to the home

Doster Passes McIntyre to Assume Lead

CHICAGO, SPECIAL—Although on a recess from conference play last week Bob Doster of Illinois retained his position as the man to beat for the season's Big Ten basketball scoring honors. His total of 104 points is only five more than that of Purdue's Bob Miller but is based on seven games against Miller's eight.

Doster's game average of 14.9 points tops the conference and the average of 14 points set by Bob Cook of Wisconsin who has a total of 84 points in six games.

Third in average scoring is Max Morris of Northwestern, who has 83 points in six games for an average of 13.9. Tony Jaros of Minnesota stands fourth in averages with 12.4 points but he is thirteenth in total points with 67.

Jim McIntyre, who had led Doster in average scoring last week with 45 points in three games found the going rough over the weekend as he collected but nine points in two games and he slipped to ninth place in the averages.

Iowa's defending champions vaulted back into the conference lead Monday by trimming Minnesota in an overtime game, but the Gophers retained their scoring leadership with a game average of 58.6 points. No team was seriously challenging the defensive average of 39.9 points which Illinois maintains.

baseball manager as cop at Lafayette tonight and split even next week, the Gophers will move into the four game home-stretch on the crest of the Big Ten wave.

But the matter that rests heaviest on the shoulders of the Golden ones is the immediate business at Purdue. Mel Taube and his gas-house gang lost their first opportunity to play the role of giant-killer when the two teams met in the Field house a week ago, and tonight they will be out to square the matter.

It's a rather unappetizing task for Purdue, however. They will take the floor wearied from last night's duel with Northwestern to face the hottest offensive team in the league.

Statistics alone, all else disregarded, will favor the Gophers. Boasting a 58.6 scoring average to top the loop, the MacMillanmen hold a substantial 11.2 advantage over the Boilermakers, whose average ranks them sixth in the conference.

There's little to choose between the Gophers and Boilermakers on the matter of defense because the teams rank seventh and eighth, respectively. A mere eight-tenths of a point separate the two, an infinitesimal advantage to say the least, with Minnesota's average yield of 48.6 points slightly more respectable than Purdue's 49.4.

When the Gophers line up for the tip-off tonight, the same five that have started the last few games are expected to be at their posts. That would be Jaros and Carlson at the forwards, McIntyre at center and Ajax and Kernan at the guards.

Other games in the conference tonight find Chicago at Iowa, Michigan at Wisconsin and Notre Dame at Northwestern.

Swimmers, Trackmen Active on Two Fronts Against Cyclones

By Clifford D. Merriott

Gopher athletic teams will tangle with Iowa State college on two fronts this afternoon as Jim Kelly's tracksters take on the Cyclone cindermen in the Field house while the respective swimming squads duel in the Cooke hall pool.

Field events will start at 2 p.m. and track at 2:30 p.m. The swim meet will start at 2 p.m. Student athletic tickets may be used for admission, or 40 cents admission may be paid at the door.

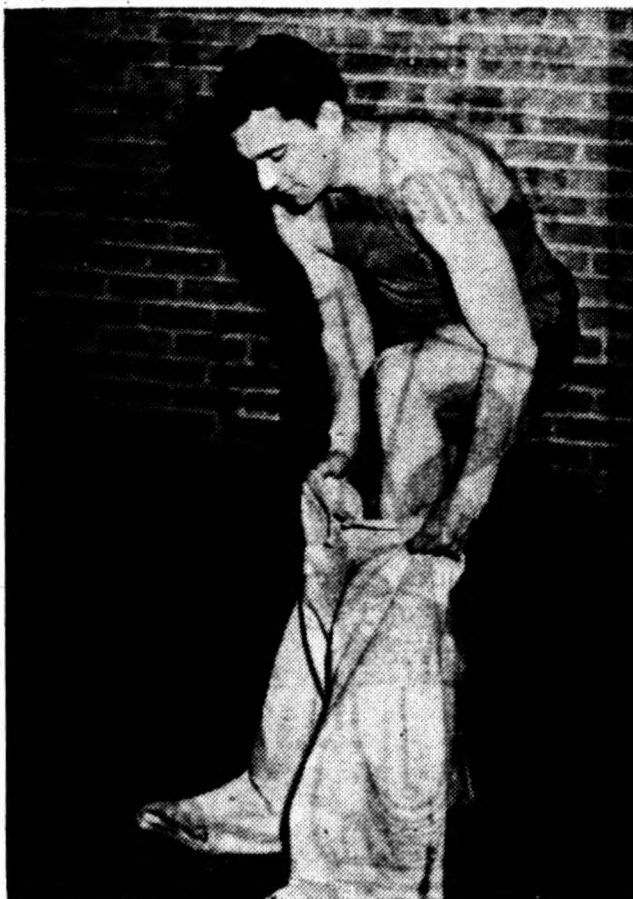

It will be the first home appearance of the Gopher swim team, which last week split with Northwestern and Illinois while on the road. The lineup as announced by Coach Neils Thorpe will be much the same as used on the Illinois jaunt.

Ron Jones, free style dash star, and backstroker Roger Ahlman are considered by Thorpe as the Gopher's best potential point gatherers.

Veteran trackmen on hand are Ray Tharpe in the 70 yard high and low hurdles, broad jump and 60 yard dash; Walt Wilder in the mile run; Armin Bauman and George Kilen handling the high jump competition; quarter milers Jack Anderson and Harry Covey; Gill Gaarder in the shot put event.

Kelly's team w/l lineup as follows:

Mile, Wilder, Brown, McKenna; 60 yard dash, Wallace, Comer, Tharpe; 440 yard run, Anderson, Covey; high hurdles, Tharpe, Mikelsen, McPherson; two mile, Schimmell, Hochman; low hurdles, Tharpe, Mikelsen, Gold; high jump, Bauman, Kilen, Nicholson, Anderson; pole vault, Andreko, Pose; shot put, Gaarder, Novotany; broad jump, Tharpe, and Wallace.
