

Attendance goes money down Union last year

By JUDY HEWETT

Happy house-counters at the Union recorded a 39 per cent jump in attendance at Union activities for the 1958-59 school year.

Less happy money-counters at the Union recorded a deficit of $1791 over the same period.

These facts were announced with the budget for the 1959-60 school year at the Union Board of Governors (UBOG) meeting last night.

NEXT YEAR'S BUDGET is $29,000, an increase of $4,353 over the past year.

Increased attendance at Union activities was attributed to an increased number of programs, and a larger average attendance at already existing activities.

Barefoot boy?

Some people really seem to take signs seriously.

An extremely thoughtful person, upon seeing a "Keep Your Campus Clean" sign on a refuse can, the other day, obligingly dumped a pair of rubbers and a pair of shoes alongside it.

Maybe he didn't want to track up the campus?

Summer session attendance showed an upturn of 27 per cent over last summer's attendance.

UBOG AUTHORIZED Gordon Starr, Union director, to go ahead with replacement of the roof.

"The roof has been repaired several times," said Ron Moe, house-finance committee chairman. "But this time, it's reached the point of no return."

Estimated cost of replacement two years ago was $48,000. UBOG set aside a fund not to exceed $50,000.

Starr said cost of replacement would be shared by Food Service, Campus Club and the Physical Plant.

THE BOARD also discussed plans for Orientation, Welcome Week, Homecoming and the Creative Arts Festival.

Public Relations committee chairman Ben Kaufman said the Union movie won't be ready by Welcome Week.

The acting and technical work is "excellent," he said, "But the movie won't be finished on schedule if the quality is to be kept up."

Clerk's heat-beating measure misfires

By MAURICE HOBBS

A "beat-the-heat" measure turned against itself yesterday and started a fire in a Fourth St. parking lot.

Irene Gregg, senior clerk typist in the Mechanical Engineering building, parked her '52 Ford on the lot about eight a.m. and walked off to her job.

ABOUT 11 A.M., another driver noticed that Miss Gregg's car was full of smoke and told the lot attendant.

When the fire department arrived, the car was still smoldering. The fire was put out and blamed on the sun—which has taken a lot of blame in the past few days anyway—shining through a window and then through a gallon water jug on the back seat.

MISS GREGG SAID the water, which is usually left on the floor, is for the fuel pump—"when the car overheats."

She didn't know about the fire until a Daily reporter called to ask her about it. She took the news calmly.

POLICE ESTIMATED Miss Gregg's cooling agent will cost her about $55.

It will cost her some effort, too. The foam used by the Fire Department to smother the smoldering back seat can't be washed out—it hardens when mixed with water. She'll have to scrape it out.

Profs will study small businesses

Corner grocery stores and shoe stores may be among the subjects of a research program University business professors are about to undertake.

Seven faculty members of the Department of Business Administration are sharing a $40,000 Federal grant from the Small Business Administration to conduct research.

OBJECTIVE OF THE STUDY is to adapt for smaller firms principles which have been used successfully in larger firms.

The seven researchers will study management development, transportation, marketing, finance, forecasting and labor relations.

THIS IS THE FIRST YEAR the Small Business Administration, set up in 1952, has issued study grants. It also publishes pamphlets and gives information to small businesses around the country.

The University's contract with the Administration, said Delbert Hastings, associate professor of business administration and director of the research program, requires only that it complete and submit a report. But the information may be useful throughout the country.

"To have a healthy economy," Hastings said, "there must be opportunities for small businesses so that anyone with the capabilities can start one and build it from a small to a large business."

One gallon jug of water plus one sun equals...

Spirits to invade ballroom of Union

Spirits—ghosts, that is—will have plenty of reason to howl and clank chains at the Union today.

A program of ghost stories will begin at 3:30 p.m. in the Union main ballroom. The big ballroom will be darkened, and a small semi-circle of chairs will be placed around the spot where the story-tellers will weave their tales of horror.

A SINGLE SPOTLIGHT, shining on the story-teller, will be the only light.

William Hillard, theater graduate student who is writing the Varsity Show, will read Edgar Allen Poe thrillers. He will read "Bernice," "The Duc de L'Omlett," and "The Tell-Tale Heart."

HILLARD HAS a KUOM show, "Your Novel," and is currently appearing at the Plaza in Hopkins in "East Lind."

James Horswill, theater senior who performed in "St. Joan" and "Ruddigore," will read "August Heat," by W. F. Harvey, "The Open Window," by Saki (H. H. Munro), and "The Chaser," by John Collier.

Early registration needed for housing

University students are urged to register immediately for fall quarter housing, said Mabelle G. McCullough, director of the Student Housing Bureau.

MISS McCULLOUGH ANTICIPATES a decrease in moderately-priced accommodations for married students this year.

"Because the demand for apartment-type housing in the reasonable price range is so great," she said, "the Bureau, wherever possible, reserves such housing for married students."

UNIVERSITY residence units on the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses will total 4,973 this fall with the completion of Frontier Hall and the addition of 120 married students apartments on the St. Paul campus.

For the first time certain quarters in Centennial Hall will be reserved exclusively for upperclassmen and graduate students, and Twin City students will be welcomed at the on-campus residences.

Naval Reserve extends first enlistment age limit

The Naval Reserve has extended its first enlistment age limit from 17-18½ to 18½-26 years. Enlistments are being accepted at the Naval Reserve Training Center at Navy Island in St. Paul.

For persons with no prior military service, the period of enlistment is for six years and includes two years active duty.

Agriculture Institute names Colter head

Making use of home-grown talent, the University's Agriculture Institute has named a dairy husbandry professor head of the department of dairy industries.

S. T. COULTER, a staff member since 1925, will take the post.

He will be taking over a new department—the Department of Dairy Industries—which will be located in the recently completed dairy industries building.

The department is responsible for teaching, research and public service in dairy manufacturing and dairy bacteriology. Until now the work had been done by the dairy husbandry department.

COULTER'S University history has been marked by national recognition in his field, particularly with processing butter and cheese, the development of powdered milk and the production of dried milk.

He has served on committees of scientific and professional organizations including the National Academy of Sciences, National Research Advisory board and the American Dry Milk institute.

50 Holsteins in habit 'health resort' in state-wide feeding system study

By JAN MANDELSTAM

Most dairy cows expect a summer vacation on lush, green pasture. But on the Geir farm, the bovines do it differently.

THEY HAVE A YEAR-ROUND "health resort" right in the barnyard and appear quite pleased with the setup.

Twin brothers Ray and Ralph Geier have been working with University agricultural economists in a state-wide study on dairy feeding systems.

Their 50 Holsteins stay in a paved barn lot instead of going out to pasture, and get all their feed from storage—winter and summer alike. To prove they like the system, the cows averaged more than 400 pounds of butterfat each last year, nearly double the state average.

MILK PRODUCTION becomes most stable under the Geier plan.

"Controlled feeding is the important thing," said

3 teams stay unbeaten in I-M softball league

By ROY TUTT

Second summer term's intramural softball got off to a warm start Wednesday night at Delta Field with three teams, Grove East, R.O.T.C., and Vet Medicine winning both ends of their five inning double headers.

A WARM START is a mild expression of the real temperature as all fourteen teams braved the 95 degree temperature to play their games.

Defending champion Grove East continued its winning ways beating the Cosmics 12-2, behind the hitting of Jerry McClung, and then squeezed out a 13-12 slugfest win over Combo A.U.C. in the second game.

R.O.T.C. AND Vet Medicine each won both of their games to tie for the lead in division II.

R.O.T.C., who finished with six straight victories in the first term of summer session, made it eight straight.

Vet medicine found themselves coming back from a poor record last month to edge the Old Pros 4-3 and whip the Standard Deviates 9-6.

ALL TEAMS ARE scheduled to play next Wednesday at 6 p.m.

Ralph. "If you confine the cows and feed them the same way all year around, you have more uniform milk production. The minute they leave the yard, you lose money."

The Geier's say their system is ideal for a large-scale farm operation.

"THE 200-COW DAIRY herd will be common in the future," Ray said. "We hope to have that many cows ourselves some day, and storage feeding will fit the large herd."

This summer the Geiers put grass silage in one silo and oat silage in another, and will feed the cows from both until early fall. Then they'll refill with corn silage for winter feeding.

DURING ONE YEAR each Geier cow devours 40 pounds of silage and 25 pounds of hay, along with a pound of grain mix for every 4 or 5 pounds of milk it produces.

The farm has been expanding continually since the storage plan was put into effect last July.

Bolivian likes blueberries

Bolivian newspaper editor Albert K. Bailey visited journalism classes here yesterday and lunched with faculty members at the Campus Club.

BAILEY, 29, EDITOR of the Presencia in La Paz, Bolivia, is currently touring U.S. newspapers.

It's his first visit to the United States, and he took advantage of the trip to meet his grandmother for the first time. She is a Minneapolis resident.

BAILEY'S FATHER is a mining engineer who was educated at the University and has spent the rest of his life in Latin America.

The visiting editor says he is "very impressed" with America. "My point of view has changed since I have seen how Americans really live," he said.

DURING HIS SHORT stay in Minneapolis, Bailey has cultivated a liking for blueberries. "I never saw them before yesterday," he said, "and now I like them very much."
