PRESIDENT BURTON URGES UNITY OF PURPOSE

Present Year Is Called One of Readjustment, Flux and Change.

Minnesota! In this first issue of the Daily, I want to ask every student to think for a moment about his University.

What I am about to say applies equally to civilians and soldiers.

We are gathered together under very abnormal conditions. Our country is at war, and has asked us to do our part as a University. It means the breaking up of many of our established customs and the necessary readjustment of the University to war conditions. The opportunity for change. Everything must be done in a state of flux. Student soldiers will come and go throughout the year. It is going to be very hard to change our

CHANGES IN THE MASTHEAD.

For the first time in eighteen years our University opened this year without the daily advent of the campus newspaper that had grown out of the infancy of the days of the "Ariel" to a place among the first college newspapers of the country. In those years the Daily had so identified itself with campus interests that it had become part of the essence of college life at Minnesota. Alumni look back with affection and not a little pride upon the time when they "heeled for the Daily." In their under-graduate days, and up to the present time, the editorial staff consisted of men, elected from the student body. Until the fall of 1918, the Daily progressed under the management of men students singularly fit to direct its output. With war, however, come changes in the masthead. At the beginning of the fall semester, the publication was without its elected administration, since those chosen last year for editorial positions had gone into the service. Yet, knowing the value of the bond that such an organ exercises among the student body, and seeing the good of it for a student body that is this year more than ever in need of a common bond, those who remained of last year's staff could not stand back, resigned to an abnormal situation, created by obstacles that could be overcome. In three weeks of planning and organization, those obstacles have been overcome. Outlines have become solid, and we become articulate. It is our pleasure to welcome those who are new upon the campus, and to greet again those with whom we have worked and played in the past. To the students of the Army Training Camp and to the members of the Naval Reserve Unit, Minnesota extends her hand. We want you to become a part of us, to share our ideals and our interests, our work and our play, to help us to carry on the spirit that is Minnesota, as you embody the spirit that is America. For the loyal support given us by the entire student body, we cannot say enough, but in our service to the University we hope to convey better than in words, the gratitude we feel, and the confidence which that support has given us.

SETTING IT RIGHT.

Whether it was the fault of someone in the Daily office, Dame Rumor or the overturn papers, at the time of going to press the board has been unable to discover, but for the erroneous statements regarding the discontinuation of the Bulletin we wish to apologize.

THE ROMANCE OF THE COMMONPLACE.

Once upon a time there were college traditions, but they have all disappeared. No freshman need be afraid of innocently breaking any of the ancient laws of the academic sone by saying "How do you do" to the wrong person, or wearing the wrong kind of a hat. We've stopped caring about things like that now.

Act like a human, and use your own judgment, that's all. The best account you can give of yourself is to keep smiling. If you are uncomfortable, grin. If the sergeant jolts your sensibilities, cheer. The college has gone to war—all of it—lock, stock and barrel.

Attend everything that looks like a patriotic meeting. Give your old clothes to the Belgians. Save your money for the United War Work Campaign. Until we who are left can get into the fight ourselves let's do our best to brace up those who are in it. "If you only knew how much pleasure your money gives over there, you'd give and give and give." There is a great deal of romance left in the commonplace, prosaic staying at home, and the most certain way to find it is to help.

W. S. G. A. CONSTITUTION AMENDMENTS.

The women of the colleges of S. L. and A., Agriculture, Education, and of the School of Nurses, have combined this year and will meet on a common W. S. G. A. board.

To include the women of the College of Agriculture and of the College of Education and of the School of Nurses the present constitution of the W. S. G. A. must be amended.

The following amendments have been drawn up: Article 4, on management, which reads: "The Executive Board shall consist of the following members: the Dean of Women ex-officio, the four officers, one representative from each class, one representative from the all-University Council, one representative from the Women's Athletic Association, the president of the Women's Academic Council, president of Pan-Hellenic Council, the president of the House Council, chairman of the committee for the care of Shervin, the chairman of the Committee for the Care of Other Buildings, the chairman of the Committee of Social Affairs, the Social Hour chairman, and the chairman of Junior Advisors." The amendment or clause to be inserted in Article 4 shall read: The ex-board shall consist of one representative from the College of Education, one representative from the College of Agriculture, one representative from the School of Nurses, etc.

To Article 5, Section 4, on Elections, which reads as follows: The class representatives for the ensuing year with the exception of the freshmen shall be elected by the women of the respective classes about the time of the spring election of officers. The freshman representative shall be elected by the women of her own class at the first regular meeting in the fall, shall be added: The representatives from the Colleges of Education and of Agriculture and from the School of Nurses shall be elected by their respective colleges.

THE POISONED PUP

ONE, TOW, THREE, FOAH.

Go view it (I have)
University Ave.
About thirty and eight in the morn
You will see a parade
That will put in the shade
Any Sousa that ever was born,
My dear,
Any Sousa that ever was born.

It's the S. A. T. C.
And it surely thrills me
As their companies march down the street,
Each one comes along
With a different song
And the tunes in the middle do meet.

"Good morning, Mr. Zip, Zip, Zip,
With your hair cut just as short as mine."
Then it's "One, tow, three, foah, hip, hip,
Get over there and keep your line."
The "Smiles" fill "K-K-K-Katy's" face
As rookies strive to keep the pace.
"Good morning, Mr. (Hip) Zip (Hip),
With your hair cut just as—"Keep your line!"

"Keep the home-fires burning
And smile, smile, smile."
The bunch in front have their uniforms
We'll get ours after while.
"I hate to get up in the morning"
For I know it will raise a row,
Since "the gang's all here,"
With a rousing cheer,
If we don't get the Kaiser now.

Avi: What they got the mail flag at half mast for?
Ato: Aw, they got so many dead letters inside.

Pauillac Pilot.

I know my face it ain't no star,
I know just how homely I are,
But I don't mind it,
Cause I'm behind it,
But the fellow in front
Gets the jar.

Ex.

"Oh," said she, as she read the paper over the fat man's shoulder,
"I see that the Germans are being Yanked out of France."

S' LIFE.

It's great, boys, great!
Same old idiotic life,
Same charmingly insane human nature,
Civilians affecting trench watches,
Coeds wearing "Go-to-Hell" caps,
Osifers with white arm-band insignia,
Zats wearing what can be assembled,
Military passes worn one day
And discarded the next,
Treat and tags and tickets and touches
Holidays, all-days, half-days and plain-daze
Soup, sleep and soldiers
Ecstatic combination,
Silly, sentimental, cynical.
Oh, boy, we're all back again!
Praises be!

A MODERN EVE.

Paradise Lost, Nov. 8, 1918.

Dear Adam:

This place isn't paradise any more since you went away. I'm awfully sorry I let you eat that apple, for maybe if I hadn't, we'd never have known what Sherman meant about "War!"

That miserable serpent has been snooping 'round again, and Addie, if you'd believe it, he's grown wings! He says his name is Enza. I forgot and left the gate open the other day, and in-flu-Enza! Caused an awful scare among all the animals! Many of them were so terror stricken they had to be shot and some still have to wear white mussels.

Enza says I must gargle my throat and wear a bag of camphor around my neck when I go out among the other animals. You always did love to hear me giggle—but if you could just hear me gurgle—I'm getting so I can do tunes!

Enza says I must go and put on my rubbers now, as it's raining. Oh, Addie, if he had never entered our Garden!

Eternally,

YOUR EVE.

BOOK REVIEWS

By Elizabeth Lynskey.

New books have perennial interest for thoughtful minds, for in the annual list of best sellers, pot-boilers, and works of genuine scientific and literary interest always appear some which catch neatly the thought, the feeling, the spirit of the moment, the instantaneous flash of sunlight on the waves, while others give a more permanent picture of the food beneath, the power of its moving. It will be the purpose of this column to touch at irregular intervals the new material accessible to thoughtful University students; suggestions will be received with welcome.

WATTS, MARY S. "The Beardman Family." Macmillan Co., N. Y. 1918. Price, $1.50.

Here, trenchantly told, is the age-old story of the development of one generation upon the one which precedes it. That the story is dated in the last years of the nineteenth century and the first of the twentieth can only give it an added relish. Yet so swiftly have we moved that one feels as if one's bigger sister and brother, and not the youth of today, were the chief actors in the plot. Cassandra Beardman, the daughter of the prominent family in a middle-western city, seeks self-expression on the dancing stage. The typical hit-producer, by good fortune, comes upon her, and makes her the drawing-card of Broadway; then he loses his heart to her charms, and only by the accidental appearance of a submarine whose aim is successful does she find the happy ending of a matrimonial mix-up that threatens to eclipse her personality. The author is a master hand at the delineation of ineffectual character; the brother Everett is nicely characterized. Sam Thatcher, who finally wins the bride, the associate of his youth, presents vividly the modern man of business; but we do wish that the strength of Cassandra's character had rung a trifle truer when she becomes the object of her producer's attentions. The love scenes, which are few, in addition lack reality. The whole, as a story of today, merits thoughtful reading.

MORELL, WM. NELSON. "Rhymes of the Fleet, and Other Poems." The Stratford Company. 1918.

Already the poetry brought into being by the conflict "over there" has reached a point where anthology has become practical. Yet there is always room for one book more; and this little collection has a rather unusual interest. The author is at present a sailor; but one reading his verses would not be slow to say he had not been a sailor long, nor a poet either. Some of the selections display a strong philosophic bent; but the most powerful songs in the book have no reference to the war, but in their crooning melody recall the cowboy songs of the western plains. The versification in most cases is crude and far fetched, yet if one chants them in the longdrawn call of the cowboys the glaring faults lose their harshness. "Jimmy-legs" and "The Veteran's Advice" are two examples of this quality; "Songs of the Desert" and "The Canyon of Larney" are most truly lyrical; and in "Ailias of Ulster" and "My Lady of Dreams" one finds a fanciful Celtic strain. The whole book will not take more than a half-hour's reading.

GOPHER TEAM LEAVES FRIDAY FOR IOWA CITY

Iowa Team Has Had a Month of Hard Practice.

PROSPECTS ARE FAIR, SAYS DR. WILLIAMS

This Is First Big Gopher Game of the Season.

Dr. Williams sent the varsity squad through a light workout yesterday preparatory for the first conference game next Saturday. On account of the weather, the field was in no condition for practice, so the drill was held in the armory. Hulkrans was in uniform and he and Culligan worked out at half.

Coch coach of the Iowa team made several changes in his line, endeavoring to strengthen the team in order to stop the Gophers on Saturday. Skyles, the left half, was injured in practice Wednesday, but the extent of the hurt is not known as yet. Kirk, a former Iowa All-Western tackle, has returned to college and is helping Coach Jones whip the team in shape.

The Gopher team will leave for Iowa City Friday night at 7:30 over the Rock Island. From all reports, Iowa has a strong and quick team. The Gopher team has been handicapped this year because of the late coming of the "U." Since the football season is light in Iowa City, the public will be admitted to the game. This is the first time the game of the season. They will undoubtedly be a light practice game and a special drill Friday.

The probable Minnesota lineup will be:

Substitutes—Culligan and Burman.

SWIMMING TEAM HAS FINE PROSPECTS.

Dan Besseisen and Three Veterans Report to Coach Foster.

The University swimming team will enter all the Twin City meets this year. Dan Besseisen, captain, said that the team this year promises to be the best in the history of the University. Prince, Hucksansen, Al Besseisen, and Dan Besseisen, who swam on the team last year, have all returned this year. Dunwoody and the Overland are having teams. Chasmooy Hyatt, of the Minneapolis Athletic club, is coaching them. J. P. Lehter, world champion plunger, is at the Overland. Then the usual meets with the Minneapolis Athletic club, Shattuck and other Northwest teams will be staged.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS TO BE EXTENSIVE

EVELYN VOSS IS NEW SWIMMING INSTRUCTOR—BASKETBALL TO START SOON.

Field hockey for women is to be abandoned this fall. Poor weather and a little time for practice have necessitated this step. Basketball practices will start in a few weeks. There will be class and house basketball teams this year. The natatorium is now open and girls who have not registered for courses in swimming may come in any time. Miss Evelyn Voss is the new swimming instructor. Miss Voss was a student at the University two years ago and she attended a physical training school in New Haven last year. More girls than ever before have expressed desires to take part in some kind of athletics this year.

Boxing at "U"

MATCHES WILL BE HELD IN ARMORY WEEKLY FOR S. A. T. C. MEN.

Boxing will be one of the major sports for the S. A. T. C. men at the "U" this year. Every week, according to Dr. Cooke, there will be boxing matches at the armory.

There is some very good material here this year. John Gilman, John Showers and "Kid" Stein will probably be the three strongest competitors for the championship.

NEW ART COURSE IS ESTABLISHED

FIFTY NEW STUDENTS HAVE ENROLLED IN NEW FOUR-YEAR COURSE LEADING TO B.S.

Since January, 1918, there has been established on the campus a new Department of Art Education, which was formerly known as the Handicraft Guild of Minneapolis. It is now a department of the college of education. The course is a four-year one, leading to the degree of B.S. Besides a major in art, each student is required to have a minor in some academic subject. During the freshman year a regular program of fifteen hours is carried, including design, textiles, freehand drawing and composition, handicrafts, rhetoric and physical education. During the junior and senior years practice teaching is offered in the public schools of the city.
