Minnesota Gophers NCAA Crown!

Coach Dick Siebert's face wore a doubtful expression when this picture was taken early in the spring. But it can be erased now. His Gopher baseballers last night defeated Arizona at Omaha to win the NCAA title, first in Minnesota baseball history. When this picture was first run in the Daily, the caption wondered if 1956 would be a title year. The question has been sufficiently answered. The players are, left to right, Dave Lindblom, Ken Anderson, Gene Martin and Capt. Bill Horning.

Gopher Power Stops Arizona by 12-1

By Special Correspondent
 OMAHA, Neb.—The University of Minnesota last night won its first national college championship since its football teams were the scourge of the nation in 1941.
 Little Jerry Thomas, 5 foot 10-inch right-hander, directed the Gopher drive to the NCAA baseball championship with a 12 to 1 win over Arizona.
 It was his second victory over the Wildcats in the tourney. He stopped them 3 to 1 Sunday in what coach Dick Siebert called, "The key game."
 THOMAS SET Arizona down on five hits in the title test, with only one Wildcat blow coming after the fourth inning.
 Voted the tournament's most valuable player,

Thomas was on the spot in the first inning when he gave up a double to Tom Tomooka and a single to Tom Clarkson.
 After that he was in complete command. And he joined his Gopher pals in slugging three Arizona hurriers.
 THOMAS tripled and singled. Each time—in the and seventh innings—he rode home on Bill Horning home runs.
 Horning, captain of the Gophers, wound up the series with four hits in five times at bat. He had entered the final game with a .182 average, far under par for a .300 plus hitter over the season.
 Horning tagged a pair of fast balls for the homers which cleared the leftfield fence near the 350-foot mark. His other hits were singles.

MINNESOTA actually settled the issue in the first inning. The three hits—with a two-run double Gophers got three runs across on by firstbaseman Doug Gillen the big wallop—along with two Arizona bobbles afield.

The Gophers drove Wildcat starter Ernie Osterveen to cover in the fourth inning. Osterveen, who had previously pitched Arizona past New Hampshire 1 to 0 on a four hitter, was saved with only one run against him by a double play of reliefer Don Hyman's first pitch to centerfielder Dave Lindblom.

Minnesota trained its big guns on Hyman for six runs in the fifth. Jerry Kindall's double started the fireworks.

JACK McCartan, Bob Anderson and Gene Martin followed with singles, but Anderson was cut down at the plate on a nice throw from second baseman Don McGinnis.

Coach Siebert and Capt. Horning received the NCAA championship trophies in post-game ceremonies.

Senate Committee 1956—A Year for Baseball Titles: To Hear Views On Disarmament Conference, District 4, and NCAA

The Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Disarmament will meet at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. tomorrow in Mayo Auditorium.

SENATOR Hubert H. Humphrey (D. Minn.) chairman, said that the subcommittee is seeking a cross section of views on disarmament from interested citizens outside Washington. The University meeting is the second of several scheduled. The first was held in Boston.

The Minnesota World Affairs Center has arranged for a panel of experts to appear before the Inglis of the Argonne National Laboratory, University of Chicago; Col. Hubert Schon, Minnesota Acting Director for Civil Defense; Oscar Litterer, business economist, Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

Sidney Goldish, editor of the Minnesota poll column in the Minneapolis Tribune; Ralph Jones, University visiting associate professor of political science.

Humphrey, in commenting upon the valuable information his committee expects to gather at the hearing, said, "The Government needs help of this kind from private citizens if we are to make progress toward the difficult goal of the effective control and reduction of the weapons of war."

The Senate established the bipartisan disarmament subcommittee in July 1955, and instructed it to inquire into proposals on the control and reduction of arms, their relation to national security, and the economic implications of disarmament.

Members of the subcommittee in addition to Humphrey are Senators Byrd, Sparkman, Pastore, Symington, Bridges, Wiley, Hickel, Saltonstall, Knowland and Bricker.

U Theater to Hold Class Play Tryouts

Tryouts for University Theater plays to be given July 11 and 12 will be held from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Shevlin Hall Arena Theater.

No experience is necessary. The plays will be sponsored by a stage direction class.

To borrow a phrase that rang through the streets of Brooklyn last fall, "This is next year," for Minnesota's baseball team. Dick Siebert's baseballers have won for Minnesota the first NCAA title in seven years. And you can add on the Big Ten and NCAA District Four titles for good measure.

MAYBE YOU could say the success of this year's team began late in the spring last season. The Gophers were title contenders then but on the final weekend of the season, Ohio State edged out Minnesota and added insult to injury by winning its crucial game against the Gophers at Delta Field when that weird play in which two Buckeye baserunners crossed the plate simultaneously spelled defeat for the Gophers.

The next day Minnesota split a doubleheader, but Ohio State won its pair and Minnesota had lost the title. There was gloom among the Gopher players. But there was something else—a tacit vow among the returning players to win in 1956.

THINGS DIDN'T start out any too good this season, however. The Gophers played eight spring training games between winter and spring quarters in Texas and Oklahoma, winning three and losing five. Siebert tried to hide his disappointment and looked hopefully to better things in the future.

Jerry Kindall
 The big league scouts liked what they saw

They were slow to come. Bad weather limited the early drills to workouts in the Fieldhouse and the most the Gophers could do outside was a couple of fly-shagging sessions on Northrop Field. Meantime the cold weather lingered on and the out-of-season snowflakes seemed to mock any serious attempt to play ball. And all the while, the rest of the Big Ten teams worked out in warm temperatures and balmy breezes, preparing for the conference season.

IN MID-APRIL, the local non-conference game schedule started but on an even more cynical note than the home practices. A trip to Luther College in Iowa was snowed out when the games were finally played the next week, it was only 40 degrees. The following series at Iowa State seemed to indicate that warmer weather was in store. And though a dust storm came up, the Gophers took three from the Cyclones after copping a pair from Luther and returned home, anxious to get in the conference swing of things.

But it was a cold, raw, rainy day at Delta Field when Wisconsin invaded for the Big Ten opener. The cold wind whipped harshly across the field and pitcher Ron Craven had trouble warming up before the game. But he started, despite the fact he wasn't properly warm and the Badgers, taking up where they left off in 1955, dealt Minnesota's title aspirations a demoralizing blow with a victory.

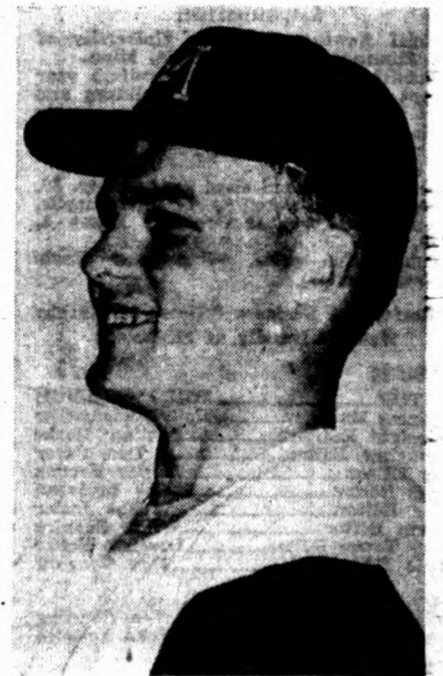

THE GOPHERS, however, were not to be discouraged. The next weekend they snapped back strongly with clutch 3 to 2 victories, two over Purdue and one against Illinois and the first conference road trip was a success.

Iowa came to Delta Field the next week and took three in a row on the chin. A week later, the Gophers continued their winning ways with a weekend sweep over Michigan State and Michigan.

The last weekend in May found Minnesota at Ohio State. Earlier in the week, the statisticians had declared that if the Gophers won this one, the title was theirs. But it was not to be. Ohio State, all but out of the race, managed to get in the last punch and beat the Gophers to further frustrate their title hopes.

BUT FRUSTRATION was not long for the Minnesota crew. The next day, steady rain cancelled the doubleheader at Indiana and the title was won. It was exactly 1:07 p.m. in the Indiana Fieldhouse when Hoosier Coach Ernie Andres walked rapidly in the door, dripping rain, and huddled with Siebert. "The games are off," Siebert said, and then a broad grin spread across his ruddy face, and his eyes beamed as he looked from one player to the next. "The other clubs might say we backed into the title by winning under these circumstances, but that was just today; we won it the rest of the season by good, hard work." That was the general unvoiced feeling in the steamy locker room as the team showered.

A few wild yells emanated from the shower room. But no really wild celebrating. The team in general bore the air of a tradesman who knows

U Men to Participate In Sports Tourney

All male students, faculty members and employees are eligible to participate in summer session golf, tennis and softball tournaments which will begin on or about Wednesday.

Interested persons may sign up until Monday at the tennis courts, at Seventeenth Ave. and Fourth St. S.E., the golf course clubhouse at Larpenteur and Fulham Aves. or the athletic bulletin board on the Union ground floor.

Matches and pairings will be posted on these bulletin boards by Wednesday. A copy also will be mailed to each contestant.

Tennis tournament winners will be decided on a best two out of three set basis. Golf contestants will play 18 holes; softball teams will play a single elimination game.

Players and team managers will make their own arrangements for time and place of contests. Winners will post results by noon of the deadline date on the respective bulletin boards or, in case of softball, on the Union bulletin board. Deadline dates will be determined after all contestants have signed up.

The tournament will be completed during the week of first session final exams.

Further information may be obtained by calling Dick Johnson at ext. 7000, or RO 9-9702.

Square Dance Scheduled

The weekly square dance sponsored by the Union Board of Governors will be held from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Monday in front of the Union. If it rains the dance will be held in the Main Ballroom. Admission is free.

Tours Planned Of Minneapolis

Bus excursions to General Mills and Betty Crocker's Kitchen and a sightseeing tour of Minneapolis will be held this weekend and Monday as part of the summer session recreation program.

Free tickets for 20 persons are available at the Union information desk for the General Mills excursion at 1:30 p.m. today.

Buses will leave the Seventeenth Ave. entrance of the Administration Building for all three tours.

A sightseeing bus tour of Minneapolis parks, lakes, residential districts, the Ford plant, the business district and Minnehaha Falls will be taken at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Tickets at $1.25 may be purchased at the Union information desk.

Monday a trip to Betty Crocker's Kitchen will be taken at 2:15 p.m. Free tickets for 20 persons are available.

Rovers Set Monday Summer Meetings

The Minnesota Rovers will hold their summer meetings at 6:30 p.m. Monday evenings in the Rover office, Union Basement. Students may participate in the Union square dance at 7:30 p.m. after the meetings.

The group also conducts various types of trips: camping, canoeing, biking, hikes, caving, rock climbing, horseback riding.

Meetings are open to all students he's skilled in his field, and had confidence in his work all along, and knew it would pay off.

SIEBERT'S BROAD grin permeated the scene from then on, and on the bus to Chicago, he and Assistant Coach Joe Vancisin talked quietly, but smiles of contentment belied their feelings. You could see the satisfaction and gratitude for the title in Siebert's eyes. He smoked slowly and leisurely, sprawled out in a relaxed position as the bus sped across the green Indiana fields to Chicago.

The atmosphere changed sharply back in Minneapolis. Marty Karow, Ohio State coach and District Four head of NCAA baseball, informed Siebert that the playoffs would start immediately. Notre Dame and Minnesota would meet in a three game series in Minneapolis on the day preceding and on Memorial Day. Bloomington Stadium was a possible site but local baseball games ruled that out. So it was back to friendly Delta Field with the Gophers boasting an 11-8 Big Ten mark while the Irish came in with an 8-7 record.

THE FIRST game looked like it was all up with the Gophers. Notre Dame won it and was confidently in the driver's seat. But Memorial Day really became a holiday for the Gophers. They

The Model T Four from Vancouver, British Columbia, crank their jalopy before tuning up for some close harmony. The current Evergreen District champions, the group is the first British Columbian quartet to get to the International. 1956 - Titles . . .

rallied with a doubleheader win over the Irish and advanced to the finals of the district playoffs.

Meantime finals in school were pressing and there were several cries of distress, but more of glee, when it was learned that the Gophers were to face Ohio University at Athens, Ohio, in another three game series Friday and Saturday.

Books, spikes, and gloves were intermixed in the Maroon traveling bags as the Gophers flew to Athens for the finals. Ohio U was rumored to be even tougher than Notre Dame. They were champions of the Mid-American conference and represented a part of District Four that boasted several perennial baseball powers.

BUT THE GOPHERS made quick, although tedious, work of Ohio. They won the series in two straight behind a first game dazler by Jerry Thomas with Jerry Kindall's homer insuring the win. The next day it was the end for Ohio, again via Minnesota's Jerrys. Thomas relieved Dean Maas in the ninth to stifle a surging Ohio rally; meantime, Kindall had come through in the clutch again with a two-out, ninth inning homer that won the game and broke the Ohio hearts. The gray Ohio skies contrasted sharply with the playing field scene when Thomas blazed his fast ball across the heart of the plate to fan the last Ohio batter, ending the game. While the Ohio fans were struck and their players completely dejected, a swirling mob of players in sweaty gray and maroon-trimmed uniforms mobbed Kindall and Thomas and talked rapidly as they ran to the locker room.

Then came the NCAA tourney . . . 'nuff said?

53 'Barbershop' Groups To Harmonize at Meet

The "close" four part harmony of the Gay Nineties—barbershop harmony—will be sung by 40 quartets and 13 choruses at the University this weekend.

The 53 groups from the United States and Canada are competing in the International Quartet and Chorus Competition of the Eighteenth Annual Convention of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA).

FREE TICKETS for the finals at 2 p.m. today and the Jamboree at 2 p.m. tomorrow are available to students, faculty and staff members at 105 Northrop Auditorium.

Tickets at $2 for the chorus contest at 8 p.m. today and at $3 for Medalist contest at 8 p.m. tomorrow are also available at 105 Northrop. SPEBSQSA is 18 years old and has 30,000 members.

Queen Contest Calls Cute Coeds

Summer session coeds! You don't have to be Marilyn Monroe or Phi Beta Kappa (beauty or brainy).

ALL YOU have to be is the all around American college girl.

And you can be the 1956 National College Queen.

Judgings are based 50 percent on beauty and 50 percent on brains. Contestants write an essay, "What My College Education Means to Me" and fill out a questionnaire about current events, home economics, sports, fashion and literary topics.

STATE FINALISTS will win round trip transportation to the national finals Sept. 8 through 10 at Asbury Park, N. J.

Entry blanks and information may be obtained from College Queen Contest Director, Convention Hall, Asbury Park, N. J. Deadline for entry blank requests is midnight, July 25.

IT SETS UP a rigid set of rules for contest competition. Timers make sure that a quartet sings not less than 240 seconds and not more than 360. The judges rate the quartets on arrangement, harmony, accuracy, voice expression, balance and blend, and stage presence.

Last year's champions were the Four Hearsemen from a funeral home in Amarillo, Texas. They wore black frock coats, striped gray pants, black string ties, white undertakers' gloves and owlsh, black rimmed glasses.

Prof Granted Fellowship

Marvin J. Taves, assistant professor of sociology has been granted a Fulbright fellowship for the academic year 1956-57. He will lecture in sociology at the University of Graz, Austria.
