

Midwest Still Danger Area In 'Clean' Nuclear Explosion

The Strontium 90 danger to the Midwest from last week's "clean" nuclear bomb explosion in Nevada is as great as that from any previous Nevada test.

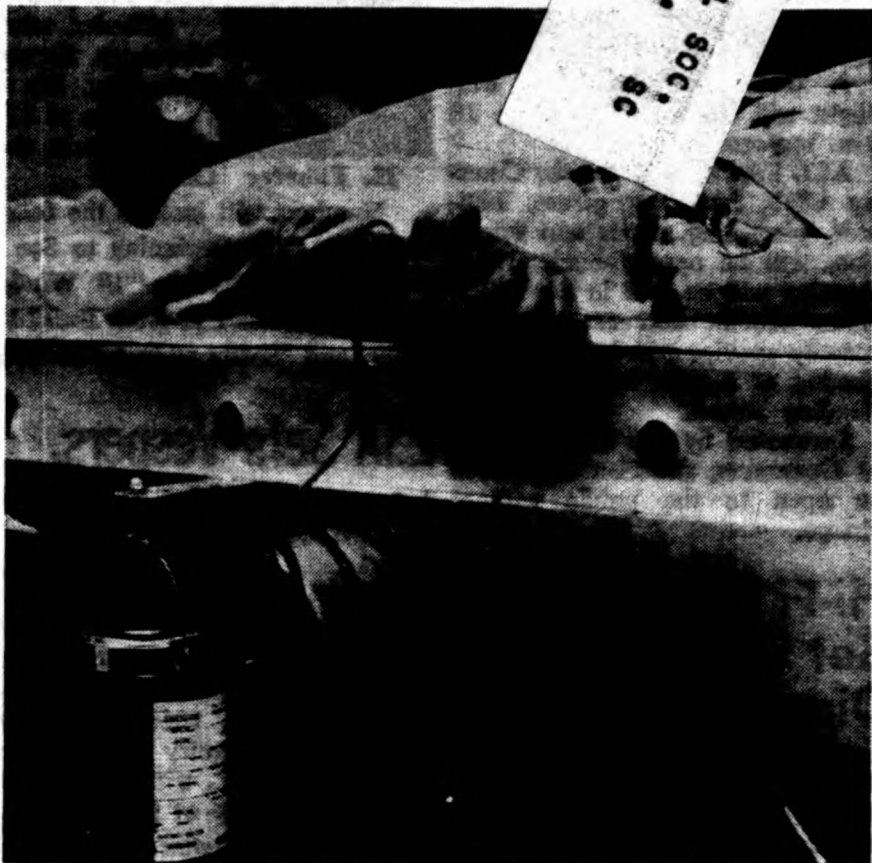

That's the view of assistant professor of physiological chemistry W. O. Caster and, by implication, the view of Henry Vermillion, director of Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) bomb testing.

Caster and Vermillion, both interviewed last night on WCCO, said that the latest Nevada blast, outdone in force only by Pacific tests, was clean and safe only in regard to radioactive fallout in the test vicinity.

Vermillion said that exploding the bomb at 1,500 feet from a balloon cut the amount of dirt and debris sucked up and rendered radioactive, thus cutting the fallout returned immediately to earth. Reference to a "clean" bomb that permitted infantrymen to charge into the vicinity of the explosion referred only to local fallout, Vermillion said.

Caster renewed his thesis that the AEC in dismissing the danger of radioactive Strontium 90 had overestimated human tolerances by a thousand fold.

Caster also emphasized that radioactive strontium carried by the blast into the troposphere would be brought to earth by the first rains it met in the west-to-east circulation of winds—that is, in the Midwest.

U Hospitals Ask For Blood Donors

By Al Miller

There is a real need for blood of all groups and of all Rh types at University Hospitals now.

That is because the absence of many students from the campus during the summer has depleted the Hospitals donor list, according to Dr. Newell R. Ziegler, director of the Hospitals blood bank.

ZIEGLER SAID YESTERDAY that individuals on the Hospitals donor list could be called only once every two months and many individuals on the active donor list can not be called again until fall.

He appealed to students and other persons on the campus to come in and donate a pint, or be typed so they would be on hand when patients with unusual types are treated.

"Straight donations of blood will be gratefully accepted," Ziegler said.

"YOU CAN BE PAID, on the other hand, or donate the payment to some charity or some group such as a fraternity."

Ziegler said that publicized use of Stillwater prison inmates as donors did not completely fill blood needs even for open heart surgery.

"We have used prisoners three times including the five inmates who came in today," Ziegler said yesterday, "but even if we make full use of the 300 prisoners who have volunteered, I estimate it will supply only one-seventeenth of blood needed for the five open heart surgeries that are performed every week at the hospitals."

ZIEGLER SAID blood is used for cases of leukemia, many types of cancer surgery, and for hemophiliacs. A large donor list is needed to provide for patients with rare blood groups like AB negative, he said.

"We always seem to have one or more hemophiliacs or people lacking normal clotting factors in their blood in the hospitals," Ziegler said. "There are two now, and it will take the plasma from three pints of blood to restore normal clotting to a 10 to 12 year old boy of 60 pounds for only 24 hours. We like to have a good supply of frozen plasma on hand for such cases should they start bleeding and need the clotting factors."

ZIEGLER EMPHASIZED the service a donor renders compared to the relative inconvenience he suffers.

"For the donor it is a matter of 20 to 25 minutes of his time and a mere needle puncture for the satisfaction of participating in the University's program of treatment and research. And if he donates blood without asking blood credit or payment he is lightening the load on patients' savings."

No Stage Fright

But First Opera Role Is A Big Task

Janice Booker
Folk Opera Heroine

There's no stage fright yet for one brunette coed who admits her first acting and singing role in an opera is a big task.

Janice Booker, music education senior, finds her role as the heroine of Aaron Copland's "The Tender Land" very natural. The folk opera is a production of the Summer Session Opera Workshop class and University Theater, which will be given tomorrow through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Scott Hall Auditorium.

MISS BOOKER'S ROLE is that of Laurie, the high school senior, whose desire to find out about the world beyond her rural community is excited by the appearance of two drifters.

Her only other experience in opera, she said yesterday, was when she sang the part of a little boy in "Elijah" last year with the Minneapolis Symphony.

"BUT THIS DOESN'T seem like opera," she said. "It is more like a play. It's not at all hard to understand the dialogue, even though it is sung."

Singing in an opera though is pretty hard, she said. "You not only have to come in on the right cue," she said, "you also have to come in on the right beat. And this keeps us busy counting backstage."

MISS BOOKER SAID that she finds the acting part very challenging too. One calamity, she said, was when they tried to place a love scene on a wagon wheel that wobbled.

One of her difficulties, she said is getting late rehearsals and practice teaching into her summer school schedule. Her practice teaching, she said, is also a new experience.

"I'm teaching beginning band this summer because there were no vocal practice teaching classes," she said. "So I learn with the students since I don't play a band instrument."

Miss Booker's poise won her a place in the Miss Minneapolis contest last year. She was a runnerup.

"I DIDN'T even know that I was in the contest till three days before," she said. "I was in Florida and my sorority entered me while I was gone."

She graduates in August. And next fall she will teach music education in the grade school and high school in River Falls, Wis.

Intramural Golf and Tennis Tournaments in Semi-Finals

A beginning field of 80 participants has dwindled to 15 and to the semi-final matches, bracket in the summer session intramural golf and tennis tournaments.

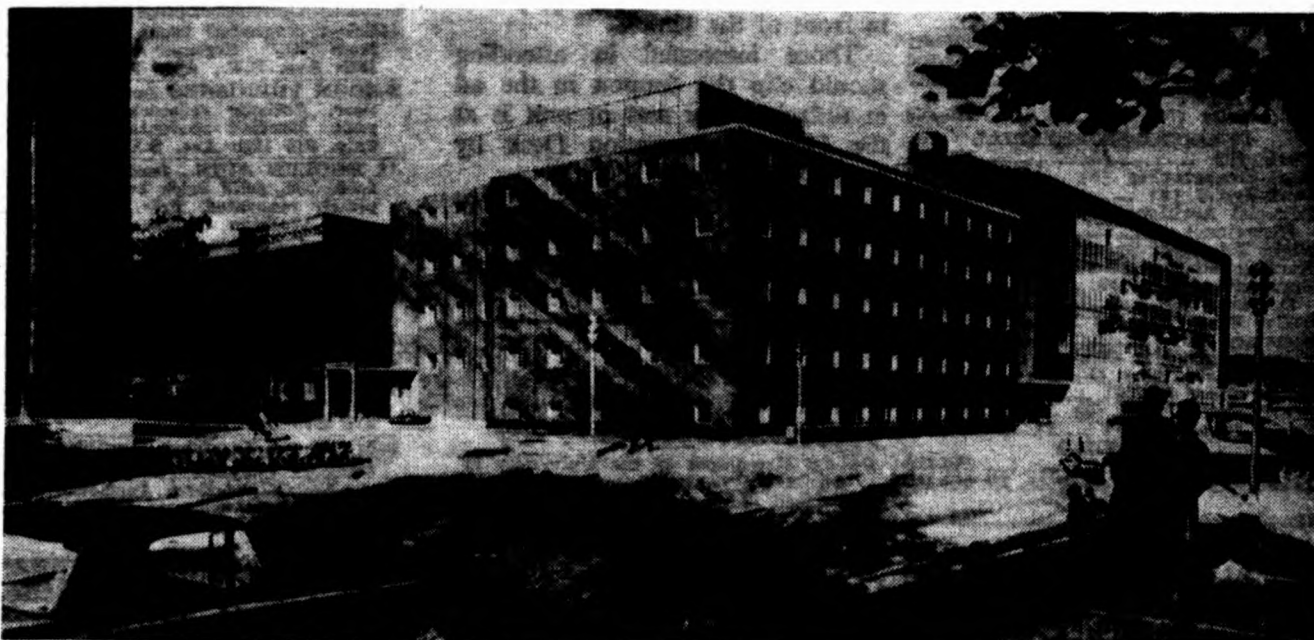

AS THE FINAL showdown time approaches, there is a wide range in golf scores. They ranged from a low 78 to up in the low hundreds in matches last week.

Results of the quarter-finals found Hugo Anderson winning over Stu Yellin; Jim Archer over Hank Beauday (one-up); Norman Staska over G. R. Slentz, and Joe Capetz over John Jacobson.

TENNIS SINGLES last week showed the following results: Ed Anderson over Fadness (8-6, 8-6); Mel Hanna over Hanson (6-1, 6-2); Tom Heinke over Hiel; Howard Hyde over Husemoller (6-1, 6-2); Hyde also defeated Jim Ryan (7-5, 1-6, 6-4) to gain the quarter finals. Other winners include Jim Ryan over Kulzer (6-3, 6-3); John Matlon over Liu; Bruce Mickelson over Noak (6-0, 6-0); Tom Paendergast over Paige (6-1, 6-0), and Terry Smith over Lommer.

IN TENNIS DOUBLES, six teams reached the quarter-finals: Richard Paige and Gene Weinstein; Don Drayer and Duwayne Johnson, Jim Baird and Grant Sederstrom, Howard Hyde and David Fadness, Alan Reynard and Terry Smith, and Mel Hanna and Norbert Kulzer.

Ground will be broken today for a new classroom and laboratory building for the School of Mines. The building, to be located on the northeast corner of Washington Ave. and Church St. S.E., will be erected at a cost of approximately $1,033,000. It will connect with the adjoining chemical engineering building. University advisory architect Winston Close and Donald P. Setter, partner in the firm of Magney, Tusler and Setter, Minneapolis architects and engineers, designed the building. It will be "L" shaped, of concrete construction 102 feet by 103 feet. In addition to laboratories, there will be lecture rooms, classrooms and offices. Construction contracts call for completion of the building in 365 days.

Weather

Continued warm weather is on tap for the Twin Cities today. Skies will be fair, with the temperature reaching a high of 85 degrees.
