MASS MEETING

Supporters of Maroon and Gold Show Their Loyalty—Inspiring Speeches.

About 1,500 loyal followers of the Maroon and Gold assembled in chapel hall yesterday to show their enthusiasm for the great game of football and incidentally to give a few visitors present an example of their rooting abilities. As soon as chapel exercises were over President Jones, of the Rooters' Club, took the rostrum and called the rooters, already bubbling over with enthusiasm, to order and briefly stated some of the things expected of the students at today's game.

When the rooters had been quieted down he band appeared on the stage and rendered the Yale "Boola," which was heartily received by the audience. Then Dr. McVey was introduced, who spoke very happily of the situation, and wisely of the duties of every student to the college. Dr. Burton followed and in his usual witty manner he spoke of Minnesota's doings on the gridiron and ended by prophesying that the Maroon and Gold would come out victorious in 1901. O. P. McElmeel and O. A. Lende next did their part in arousing the hot blood of the followers of the pigskin. In the meantime Prof. Jones was espied in the rear of the room where he had slyly ensconced himself. The professor was hastily seized and borne on sturdy shoulders to the platform. He then spoke in his usual telling manner, exhorting the students to stand behind the team.

Walter S. La Fans, Right Half

Interspersed with the forging parts of the program there was a goodly amount of systematic yelling and some fairly excellent singing, which was led by the full University band.

As a whole the meeting was a genuine success, showing that the students are not lacking in loyalty to their University or to the team on whom they depend for their victory today.

NEBRASKA—MINNESOTA TO-DAY

Cornhuskers Ready to Battle With Gopher Giants. Souvenir Program Prepared for the Occasion.

"In times of peace there nothing so becomes a man, As modest stillness and humility. But in times of war, let him imitate the actions of a rooter."

Thus spake Shakespeare on an occasion like today. Thus should every man think to himself, and eventhough he is too slow to feel his pulse quicken at the mere mention of the name of Nebraska, he should imitate the action of a full-blooded, high-strung rooter and in the mere imitation gradually feel the real thing. It must be done, and when a man from the Gopher state says it must be done look out for the consequences.

Today is day of all days. We stand where none have stood since we last held this place eight years ago. Then we held the championship for two successive years, and no team has ever been able to do the same thing since. We must do it again this year, and show the football world how it is done. Can we do it? There is no such question ever found on the lips of a student of the University of Minnesota. We must win, and every student knows it. Failure is an unknown thing and could Doc Bixby have beheld the sea of determined faces in chapel yesterday he would have ceased his idle prattle and work on a funeral march for his luckless "Cornhuskers."

"Yell and howl, O ye sons of man."

Thus spake Isaiah the prophet, and today is the time to follow out his teachings to the letter. Yell and yell and then yell again. Instinct will tell you when not to yell, but yell all the remaining time. Back up the team with your voices. Stand up and yell; sit down and yell, but do your duty and when the dove of peace spreads her white wings over the field of battle and finally alights on the banner of Minnesota you can give yourself a pleasant smile and say "I helped do it."

"To be there or not to be there" is a quandry which we will leave to Hamlet. It's settled for us. We are all young. Our joy, our hope, our pride is centered in our team. On each of them rests the honor of our institution. We are with you, boys, taking our share of the burden. There is not a sluggard among our numbers. May the righteous and indignant professor con the first student who does not show himself on the field today and add his humble voice to the mighty peal which will go up for the grand old Maroon and Gold.

Don't forget to secure a fine souvenir program at the gates. It is the finest thing of the kind ever placed on sale at Northrop Field. Filled with cuts of the team, coaches, and individual players, it will be a precious memoir of the famous game of Oct. 12. Don't go away without one for it contains a fine cut of Dr. Williams.

THE OFFICIAL PROGRAM

The official souvenir programs will be on sale at one o'clock on Northrop Athletic Field before the game today. The program contains:

1. Cuts of Dr. Williams of Minnesota and Coach Booth of Nebraska.
2. Cuts of the Minnesota and Nebraska Foot Ball squads.
3. Cuts of the Captains of the opposing teams.
4. Cuts of Captains of Minnesota and Nebraska 1900 teams.
5. Cuts of leading players on the opposing elevens.
6. Line-up and score card.
7. Songs and yells to be used during the games by the rival rooters.

PRESIDENT GOES TO YALE.

President Northrop will leave Wednesday evening for the east, where he will attend the Yale bi-centennial celebration. Besides delivering one of the addresses, he has been invited to preside at the Y. M. C. A. meeting the first Sunday. At this meeting the presidents of Harvard, Princeton, and Cornell will speak. President Northrop was one of the founders of the organization and the honor of presiding at this meeting was accorded him because of his former connection with the association.

RAH FOR GUILD!

Capt. Guild is the most enthusiastic rooter of them all. He has made arrangements for a steam siren on the Armory today, which he declares will cast the efforts of Nebraska's famed whistle far in the shade. Don't forget to yell just because the whistle is blowing. What's the matter with Guild!

President Northrop will meet representatives of the various Greek letter societies in his office on Monday morning at 10 o'clock, in regard to "rushing."

The Game Today

Today Minnesota meets Nebraska's much-vaunted team on Northrop Field, and a contest will be waged which, it is hoped, will decide the standing of these two teams. Nebraska was practically unknown in the football world before her game with Minnesota last fall, and because of the fairly good showing made at that time her prowess on the gridiron has assumed considerable importance and there is no doubt but that the team which meets the representatives of the Maroon and Gold this afternoon is capable of upholding Nebraska's deserts, whatever they may be.

The members of both teams are presumably in excellent condition, and fairly well matched in weight and agility. Minnesota will no doubt excel in the science of the game, as well as in punting, two things which are of no little importance in piling up scores, which of course, our team intends to do to no small extent.

Not only do we want a goodly score, but also that Nebraska's side of the score card remain blank. With our strong back field and stone wall line we feel that there is but little danger of Minnesota's goal line being crossed.

The DAILY only asks every man who represents the Maroon and Gold to do his duty, and to remember that we are with them heart and soul from the time the whistle blows until the contests is over.

A COMMUNICATION

At the opening of the college year President Northrop made an announcement to the effect that no smoking should be allowed on the campus. It is sad to relate, but this announcement of the president's is not being borne in mind by many of the students here. On going about the campus it is no unusual thing to see groups of men sitting under a tree puffing at their pipe or a cigarette, and on the sidewalk a lady is often humiliated by having the obnoxious smoke puffed in her face. Whether it is thoughtlessness or carelessness on the part of those students, it is hoped that they will stop this bad habit, if for nothing else, but to observe the rules laid down by the president. —L. O. M.

Editor of the Daily:

I was talking with one of the co-eds after the mass meeting yesterday and she said she was sorry that the girls could not do more to help the team. If they wish to spur the players on to greater efforts, why should not they make small maroon and gold badges and sew them securely onto the canvas jackets of the players. Each fellow would then get into all the scurrillages he possibly could, trying to damage the badges as much as he could, and to see how torn and muddy those badges were after a game, would warm the hearts of the makers. —H. F. & G.

POOR NEBRASKA

Yes, we hear you're on your way,

Poor Nebraska,

Very eager for the fray,

Poor Nebraska;

We have heard your boasts so clear,

Since we did you up last year,

Still your team we never fear,

Poor Nebraska.

You remember how we won,

Poor Nebraska,

Then we played you just for fun,

Poor Nebraska;

But this year we're in the game,

To blot out your little name,

From the page of football fame,

Poor Nebraska!

We will bet you five to one,

Poor Nebraska,

Yes, we'll bet you any sum,

Poor Nebraska;

For your weakly little boys,

Are a set of childish toys,

Fit to squeak and make a noise,

Poor Nebraska.

Were you wise, you'd stay at home,

Poor Nebraska.

Where the pigs are wont to roam,

Poor Nebraska;

For we know by what you say,

You'd do better cutting hay,

Than to waste your time this way,

Poor Nebraska!

Let us say before the game,

Poor Nebraska,

Tho' you're swell, you're not to blame,

Poor Nebraska;

For you're young, just in your prime,

Good sense may be yours in time,

But as yet you're not sublime,

Poor Nebraska.

Now we're waiting for the day,

Poor Nebraska,

When we send you home to stay,

Poor Nebraska;

But we hope you won't feel sore,

When the football game is o'er

Just because you didn't score,

Poor Nebraska!

Agriculture

The School of Agriculture, which opened Tuesday, Oct. 1st, promises to be a record breaker in point of attendance, there being fifty more in attendance than at the same time last year. The same cry comes from the school, as from all other departments of the University, lack of room. This lack has proved the old adage, that "necessity is the mother of invention." In the blacksmith shop the pressure for room is so great that the amphitheater, something after the style of circus seats, has been built with hinges at the upper ends, and when not in use it can be raised entirely out of the way by means of pulleys. We commend this example of ingenuity to Dr. Burton, perhaps he can find a way out of his difficulty in a similar manner.

The work of the school is all of a practical nature. The students see how each lesson means much to them when they get back on the farm, and so are intensely interested in their work, and very few shirks will be found in the whole number in attendance.

Professor Robertson, who has had charge of both physics and botany, has been relieved of the work in botany, and will have more time to devote to the work in physics. Mr. W. A. Wheeler, a graduate of the College of Agriculture, who assisted Professor MacMillan last year, will have charge of the botany. He will also teach zoology and entomology until a successor has been appointed to take the place made vacant by the death of Dr. Luger.

A new building, to cost $7,500 is being erected to be devoted to instruction in cutting and curing meats. The work of this department, in past years has proven itself so valuable, that the legislature at its last session made an appropriation for the building.

The work in chemistry will be made, if possible, even more practical than in the past. The subject is taught so that the students realize the great importance to them in their everyday life on the farm, and so an added interest is given to an interesting subject.

In fact all the lines of work carried on at the school are promoted with the view to giving the broadest kind of mental discipline combined with the largest amount of useful information and training.

Thursday evening in the Pendergast hall at the School of Agriculture, an exceptionally large audience listened to the first of the lecture course given at the school.

Rev. Thomas McClary gave a lecture long to be remembered by all those who had the pleasure of listening to it.

Next Thursday evening there will be another treat at the same place. In other words, Elbert Hubbard, the most popular lecturer furnished by entertainment bureaus, will speak on the subject of "Wm. Morris, or the Gospel of Work."

After the Bonfire

Orchestra music by Miss Hope's ladies' orchestra tonight at the Y. M. C. A. building. Everyone come and celebrate.
