

Humphrey School of Public Affairs

To the Cyber-Barricades: How is the U.S. Responding to Threats to the American Election System?

It is now largely well-accepted that America's election system was the target of attacks during the 2016 election cycle. While there is political debate over the nature of those threats, the nation's election community at every level of government has pulled together to identify, resist, and prevent future attacks on our voting system. What's being done, and what questions remain? Join Larry Jacobs and Doug Chapin for a discussion of what's happened and what's next in the fight to secure American democracy.

Listen to the event audio:

The image shows a SoundCloud audio player interface. At the top left is a red play button icon. To its right is the text "Humphrey School of Public Affairs" and "To the Cyber-Barricades: How is the U.S. Responding to Threats to...". On the top right, there is a "SOUNDCLOUD" logo and a "Share" button. Below the text is a waveform representing the audio track, with a progress bar at the bottom right showing "1:01:10".

Cookie policy

4

May 2, 2018

8:00 AM to 9:00 AM

Humphrey Forum, Humphrey School of Public Affairs

301 19th Ave S.

Minneapolis, MN 55455

© 2021 Regents of the University of Minnesota. All rights reserved. The University of Minnesota is an equal opportunity educator and employer. > Privacy Statement