Less Talk, More Equality—Brameld

"Either our American creed of equality or our practices of inequality must be given up," Dr. Theodore Brameld, professor of educational philosophy, told members of the Cosmopolitan club Saturday in his talk on "Frontiers of Educational Democracy."

Dr. Brameld spoke of the growing interest of the American people in intercultural education, believing that "America's conscience is profoundly disturbed over conflicts between professions of equality on one hand and practices and violations of liberty, equality and fraternity on the other."

Dr. Brameld suggested the study of four intercultural courses: WORLD GEOGRAPHY, designed to instruct students in world culture and racial integration;

ART and its universal effects in music, literature and painting;

NATURAL SCIENCES, with emphasis on biography and anthropology;

SOCIAL STUDIES to remove stereotypes and gain insights into world economic conditions.

"Until the white race realizes that it is a world minority, not a majority, there is little hope for its future survival," Dr. Brameld said. "We must understand, too, that acquaintance dissolves prejudice."

Dr. Brameld commended American teachers for the job they are doing in trying to prevent cultural conflicts within their own classrooms, schools and communities, where students of racial, religious and economic differences associate.

"It is all right to ooze interracial equality in meetings like this," Dr. Brameld told the group, "but such meetings are not worth much without actual practice in everyday life."

Wright's Convo Talk Cancelled

Richard Wright, author of "Black Boy," who was to speak here Thursday, has cancelled his Convocation appearance for the second time. This time no advance date for his lecture has been set.

The noted author cancelled his scheduled December lecture because of illness and did so this week for the same reason.

The University orchestra, which was scheduled to appear Feb. 7, will take Wright's place Thursday. The orchestra's program will include the Symphonie Miniature by an American composer, George Frederick McKay. Director of the orchestra is Dr. Paul M. Oberg, chairman of the music department.

Coward's Play Opens Today

"Blithe Spirit," Noel Coward's tongue-in-the-cheek comedy about ghosts, opens at 8:30 p.m. today for a five-day run at the University Theater.

The play was presented last summer by the Theater, and the same cast will appear in this week's show. It was recently released for little theater production after a successful Broadway run. A movie based on the play is scheduled for release soon.

The story concerns the tribulations of an author whose first wife, long dead, is conjured back by mistake during a seance. The situation is further complicated when his second wife is killed in an accident, and also comes back in spirit form to annoy him.

Norma Jean Wanvig, Graduate student, is playing the role of Elvira, the blithe spirit. Richard Nelson plays the part of Charles Condomine, the author.

Others in the cast are Audrey Kiekenapp, Ruth Condomine; Ruth Hammer, Edith; Richard Spear, Dr. Bradman; Sally Sedoruk, Mrs. Bradman; Irene Goutsin, Madame Arcati. Frank M. Whiting, director of the University Theater, is directing the play.

Workshop Meets Today

The first KUOM Workshop meeting of winter will be held at 5:30 p.m. today in station KUOM, Eddy hall. The Workshop is sponsored by the University of Minnesota Radio Guild. Roswell Otto, Graduate student, is in charge of today's meeting.

Credentials of Students Checked

Credentials of students accepted provisionally during registration week are being studied, Dr. Williams S. Carlson, dean of admissions and records, said yesterday.

The office will communicate with all students whose records are not in order, Dr. Carlson said, but students are responsible for getting all credentials in and straightened out within the 10-day provisional period.

Cloudy Lining

Housing Future Dim

This is the last in a series of five interpretative articles on University housing conditions during the past year and action taken during that time to avert the present crisis.

By Kevin Murphy

As the housing situation stood at the beginning of last month a fight over the "no housing" rider was imminent.

Campus veterans more than 1,300 strong, raised a unified voice for more housing. Shortly the Veterans club was seeking a rider verdict from the attorney general.

A shortage by fall, 1946, of at least 2,000 living units had been estimated. Vice President William T. Middlebrook had reported to President J. L. Morrill, "One might easily conclude that the University's projected additional housing accommodations are too conservative in the light of the expected problem."

And then it came! On Dec. 11 Attorney General J. A. A. Burnquist decided the rider was not binding. That was enough for the University. It immediately announced a proposed $2,000,000 housing program involving 1,000 housing units. Of the $2,000,000 cost, $700,000 already was reported on hand.

But somebody's toes were stepped on. The next day legislators warned the University of "pocketbook" retaliation to come from the 1947 legislature if officials went ahead with an over-extensive housing program.

Then Vice President Middlebrook decided that the eight desolate trailers on Como avenue didn't look too promising for a Jan. 1 opening and advanced his forecast on the date of occupancy to "about the middle of the quarter."

The setup today is worse if anything. The AFL Carpenters' union has announced its workers will refuse to erect the emergency prefabs because they are being prefabricated in a non-union plant. The outlook for veterans? No one seems to know.

Hospital Opens, U Vets Still Use Health Service

Creation of the veterans administration medical corps will not mean campus veterans will have to go to the Fort Snelling Veterans Administration hospital for care. The Health service will still serve University of Minnesota veterans, Dr. Ruth E. Boynton, director of the Students Health service, said yesterday.

The new plan provides for a fellowship for 68 University graduate doctors to work at the veterans hospital while obtaining specialists' ratings.

Dr. Harold S. Diehl, dean of medical sciences, said that the plan would not take doctors from the Health service.

Veterans attending the University under the rehabilitation act still may receive treatment at the Health service unless they prefer to go to the veterans hospital. Men under the GI bill of rights may still receive treatment at the Health service.

12 Candidates Seek Snow Royalty Titles

Preliminary judging of Snow week king and queen candidates will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at Riverside rink, according to Delane Anderson, candidate chairman.

The six queen finalists and six king finalists will be chosen on the basis of their ability to skate, ski, snowshoe or snow sculpture.

All candidates' names must be turned in between 10:30 a.m. Wednesday and 4:30 p.m. Friday in 230 Union. Each organization may put up one member from another organization.

Organizations selling Snow week buttons will be competing for a $10 first prize rather than for first, second and third prizes as in previous years. An instructional meeting for representatives of all organizations selling Snow week buttons will be held at 3:30 p.m. today in 343 Union.

Sororities may choose a king candidate and fraternities may choose a queen candidate, but no organization can have more than two representatives. The number of independent candidates is unlimited.

Judges for the preliminaries are M. W. Ryman, athletic ticket manager; Edwin L. Hazlitt and Grace Christensen, assistant professors of physical education; Haraldur Magnusson, skiing instructor from Iceland; Mrs. Betty Ness, WAA faculty adviser.

A tea will be held for the finalists in the women's lounge immediately following the preliminary judging.

The king and queen of Snow week will be chosen from the 12 finalists after the tea. The following committee will judge: Mrs. May Lindberg, style coordinator for the Golden Rule department store, St. Paul; Mayor Hubert H. Humphrey; Sally Delany, head of advertising for the Nicollet hotel; Halsey Hall, sports writer for the Minneapolis Tribune; Tom Gibbons, King Boreas of the St. Paul Victory carnival; Amy Birdsell, society editor of the St. Paul Dispatch; Mayor John J. McDonough.

Link Training To Begin Soon

First Such Course At Any University

Possibility that the Link trainer, blind flying and instrument course will get under way very soon was indicated yesterday by Professor John D. Akerman, head of the department of aeronautical engineering.

"The course will be opened to all students of the University as soon as the Link trainer is assembled and formalities of establishing such a course are completed," Dr. Akerman said.

Marion Sather, a former Wave, Link trainer instructor at Pensacola, Fla., is the instructor.

Professor Akerman emphasized the fact that the Link course is open to all students and not confined to veterans. Also, credits may be received in the course, pending success of the individual student and approval of the faculty of his college.

The first University to open such a course of study, Minnesota, has had such a plan in mind since 1939, when the University attempted to buy a Link trainer, but found the cost prohibitive, Professor Akerman said.

"No flying time is necessary to qualify for the course," Professor Akerman pointed out.

Plans are also under way to have one indoctrination blind and instrument flying course for aeronautical engineers in their senior year, another basic instrument course for those who want to achieve more proficiency in instrument flying, and a third advanced instrument course for those who wish advanced instruction.

"There has been a big demand from students who served as pilots in the armed forces for such a course, so they may keep up or earn an instrument flying rating from the Civil Aeronautics Board," Professor Akerman said.

Time for instruction will be arranged with each individual student and those registered first will have the first opportunity to arrange hours, Professor Akerman said. Fees and other requirements now are being arranged.

"We are planning also to offer night classes in blind flying and instrument instruction to the extension division," Professor Akerman said.

Hillel Coffee Hour Today

The first Hillel coffee hour of the quarter will be held from 3:30 to 5 p.m. today at Hillel house, 1521 University avenue. Literature on discussion topics will be read and refreshments will be served.

The University Figure Skating club will meet at 4:30 p.m. today in 321 Union. All students interested in learning figure skating or participating in the activity may attend.

Gophers Crush Maroons, 71-44

By Don Grawert

With the outcome a foregone conclusion and only the manner and means in doubt, Minnesota's title-contending Gophers went about the routine business of outmanning much-abused Chicago, 71-44, in the Field house last night before 5,516 fans.

It was not until a furious second-half Gopher rush, however, that it became apparent that Chicago's first Big Ten victory in 54 starts was still beyond the realm of possibility.

A not-too-comfortable 31-23 Minnesota advantage at half-time began to widen with the second half tipoff as Jim McIntyre and Don Carlson began to hit and the Gophers were on their way.

Very much in the running in the first 20 minutes, the Maroons sagged noticeably as McIntyre's 14-point rush in the second half boosted his total for the evening to 18 and crushed the 'Chicagoans' hopes for an upset.

Although Minnesota's two-to-one advantage in personnel rendered the outcome almost an inevitability, it was again a case of consistent sharpshooting as the Gophers racked up a fabulous .368 percentage on shots made.

Working with more finesse than they have displayed this year on the home floor with the exception of the DePaul game, the Gophers managed to stay just one step ahead of the Maroons' forward, Fred DeGraw, whose 18 points led the losing team.

Setting up basket after basket with phenomenal passing, Tony Jaros added his scoring voice to the Gopher chorus by registering 14 points to dog McIntyre's 18 and to shade Carlson's total of 11.

Rounding out the Minnesota leading scorers was Warren Ajax with seven points.
