No. 1

TO THE NEW MEMBERS OF THE FACULTIES:

On behalf of the University, I desire to extend to you a hearty welcome. We are glad that you are to share with us the responsibilities for the conduct of this University. We crave your wholehearted cooperation in the maintenance of a true University where high scholarship thrives and scientific investigation is fostered. We need your active assistance in developing a unified, coherent University, and in stimulating devotion to the highest standards of thought and life. Education never faced more serious obligations nor enjoyed more fascinating opportunities. In a very real sense, democracy depends upon education. We are engaged in the constructive work of the world. It will demand of us this year unusual insight and the very best that all of us have to give.

M. L. BURTON, President

BURTON cordially invite all of the members of the Faculties and staff and their wives to attend a reception on Saturday evening, September 27th, from 8 to 11, at 1005 Fifth Street Northeast. RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS AT OXFORD UNIVERSITY

Two Rhodes Scholarships at Oxford University, England, are open this fall to graduates of Minnesota colleges. The conditions have been simplified. A state committee will select the two scholars. Each qualified institution in the state will certify a group of its students as qualified. The University of Minnesota may nominate eight for consideration by the state committee. The candidates must have had a minimum of two years of college work.

The Rhodes Scholarship pays three hundred pounds yearly with privileges not only of study at Oxford, but of English and European travel in the long vacation. There could be no more interesting time than the present for study and travel in England and on the continent. Oxford University is making a greater effort than ever before to meet the needs of foreign, especially American, students.

The fact that two scholars are to be chosen and that the University of Minnesota may present eight candidates should encourage our students to apply. Blank applications may be obtained at the Graduate School office, 204 Library Building, and should be filed at an early date, as the final applications must go to the State Committee not later than October 5.

NOTICE TO THE DEANS

The Administrative Committee of the University Senate will meet this morning at 10:30 at the Office of the President.

NOTICE TO FACULTY MEMBERS

The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching has issued a Handbook and a pamphlet entitled "Some Misapprehensions Touching Life Insurance" which may be secured at the President's office by those interested in the new Teachers' Insurance and Annuity Association.
